THAT Distinct CONTRAST

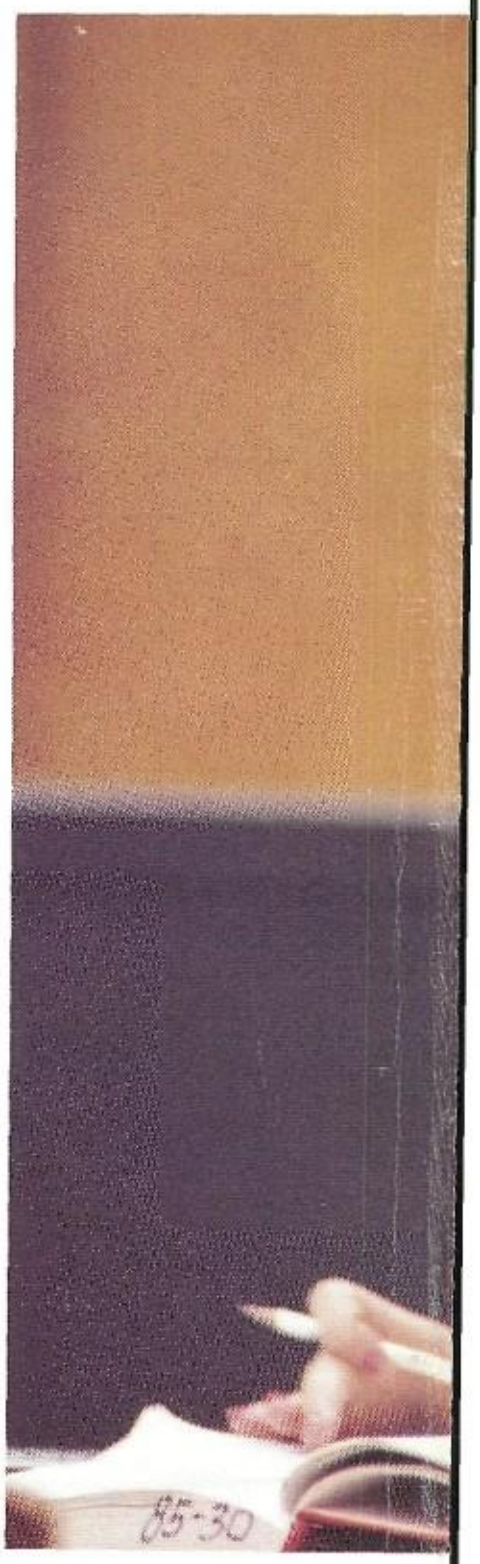
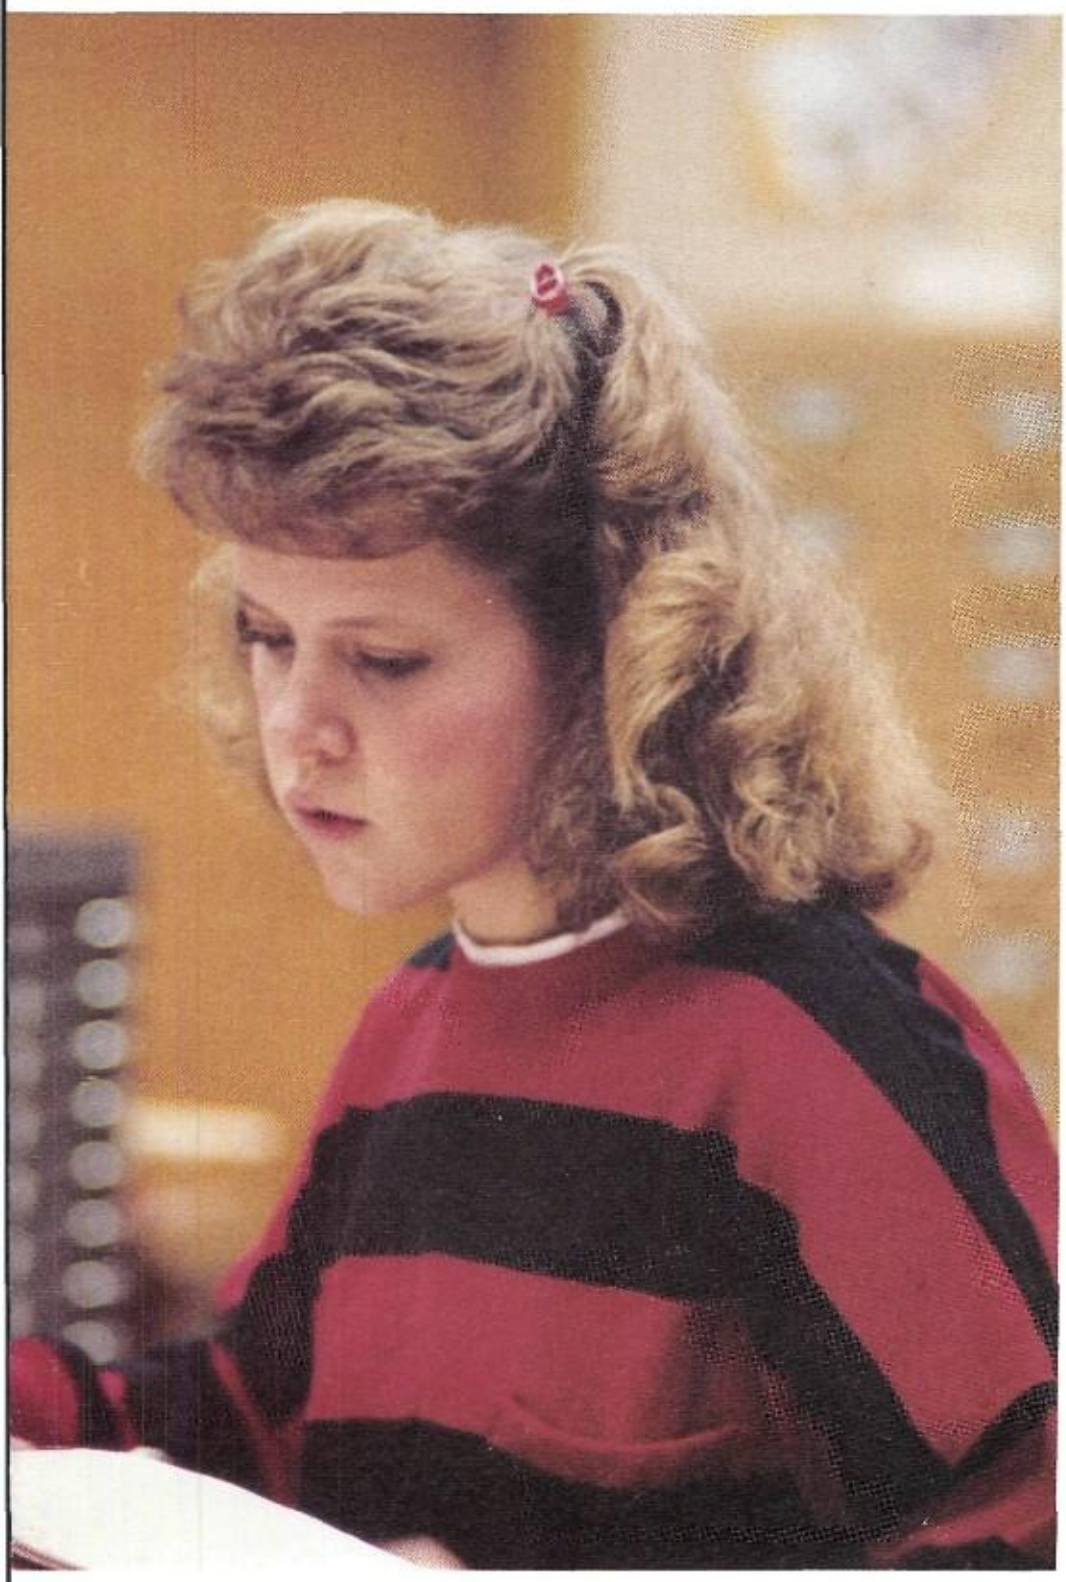
Logan High is made up of many types of individuals. As they blend together, personalities are discovered. Although seperated into many social groups, school spirit remains. Learning, associating, excelling and accepting defeat make up the experience in the normal day of a Logan High student. No matter who they are or what they do they will always be Grizzlies.



"Our uniqueness is due to the different personalities which co-exist at Logan."

Kelly Smith



Marnie Bunch, Senior, intently studies in the library during her free hour.

Gene Needham and Keith Larsen tow away the opposition in the parade.

These Juniors and Sophomore show that it does "take all kinds."

"Raise your hands," yells the crowd as the football team creams Sky View.

THE Grizzly ATTITUDE

The exceptional teams from Logan High are not just the product of the players and coaches, but also an extention of the exuberant studentbody that backs them. Crowds are not always needed to excell. In many different areas, the distinction of a grizzly can be seen. There are various types of endeavors, and not everything is perfect for everyone. This is why you'll see that at Logan High, . . . "It Takes All Kinds."

"Without school spirit there would be no Logan High School, just a school."

Kim Coray

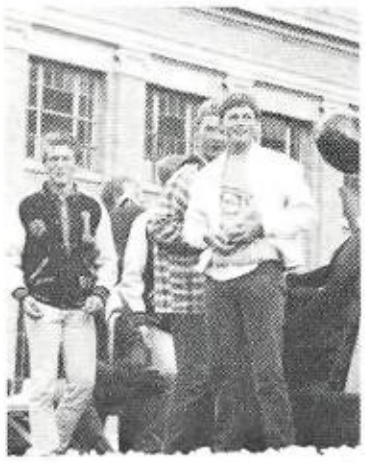
The mighty Grizz take the field as they prove they are "Cache Kings."

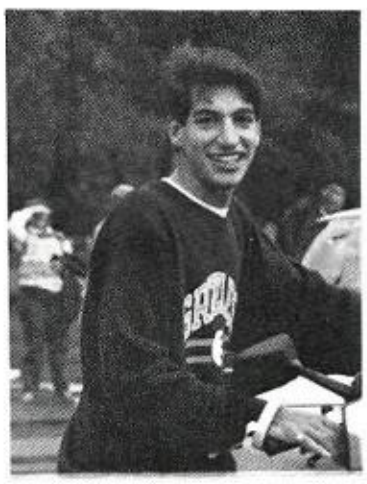
Thanks to the officer's hard work, the "L" shines on the mountain.

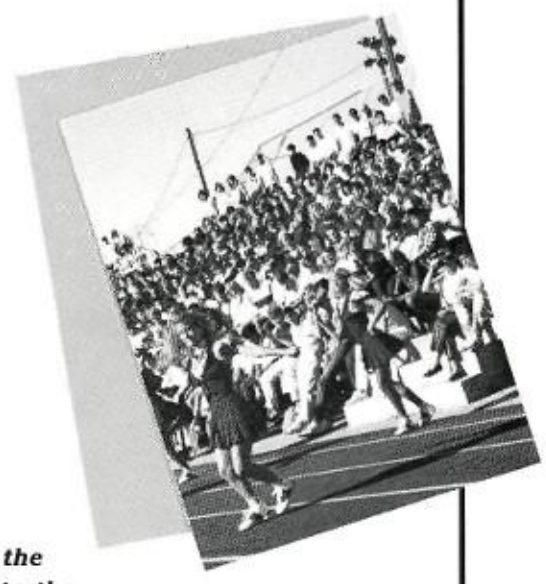
Loyal fans react to the good and bad plays made by the team.

IT · TAKES · ALL Kinds of Activities

A normal high school student could not make it through the week concentrating totally on books and studies. To break the monotony, student organizations spend many hours planning and presenting activities. These events bring out Grizzly pride, entertainment, and even a little romance.







Memories are made by the people who contribute to the good times at Logan.

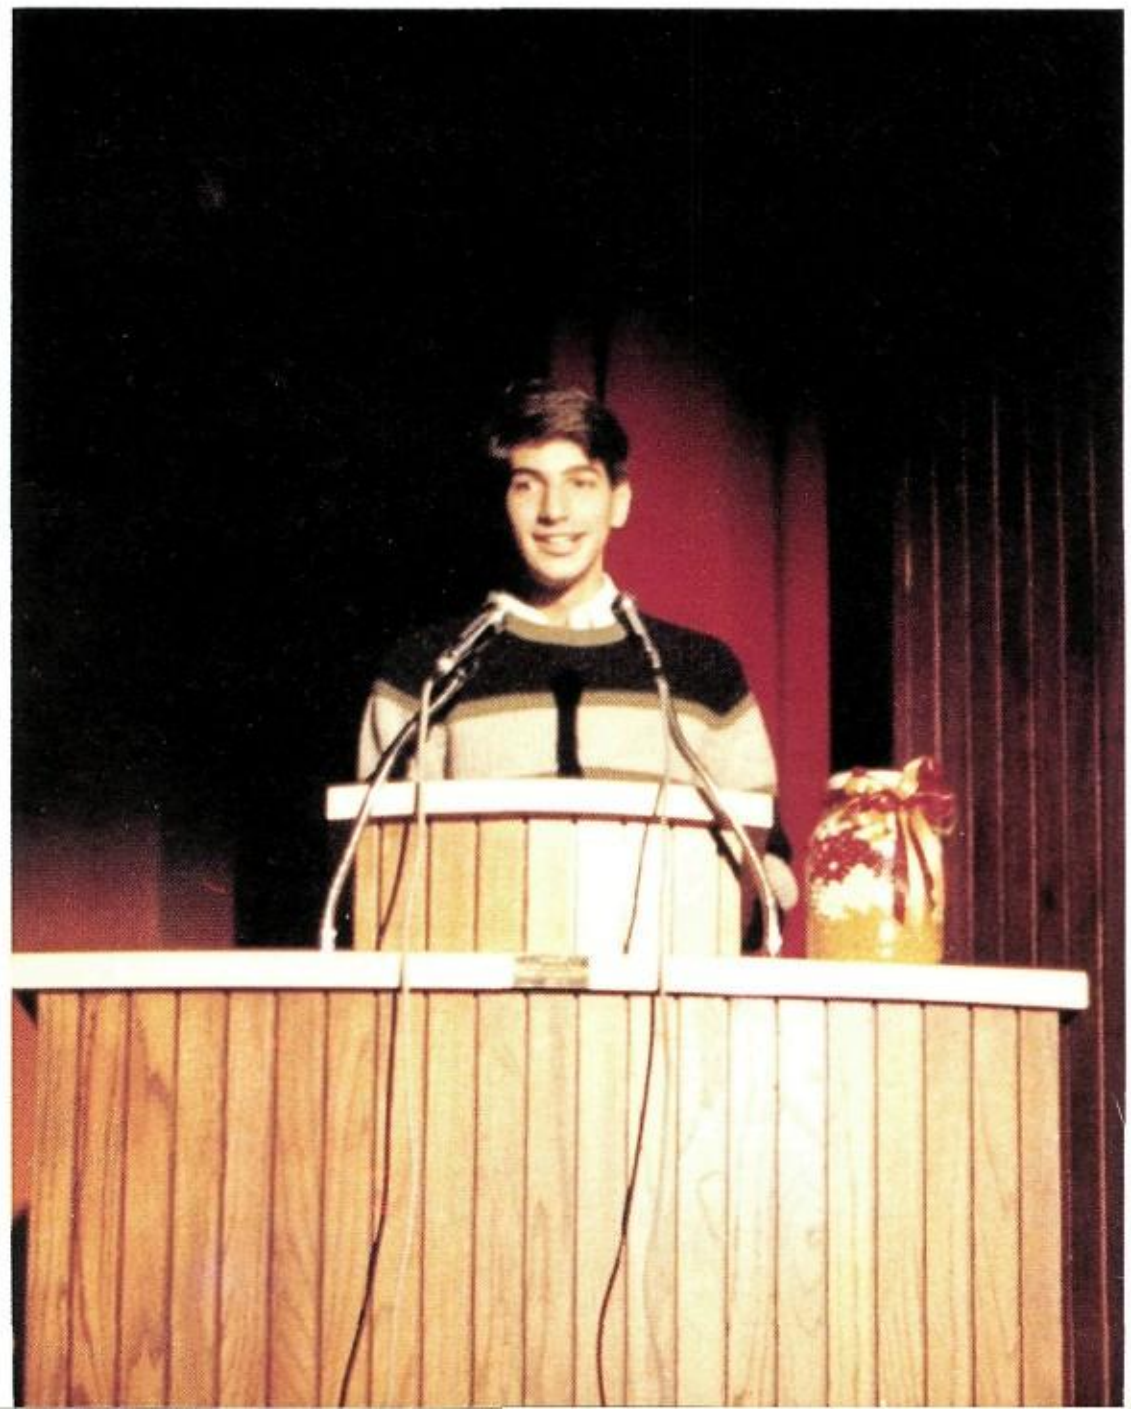
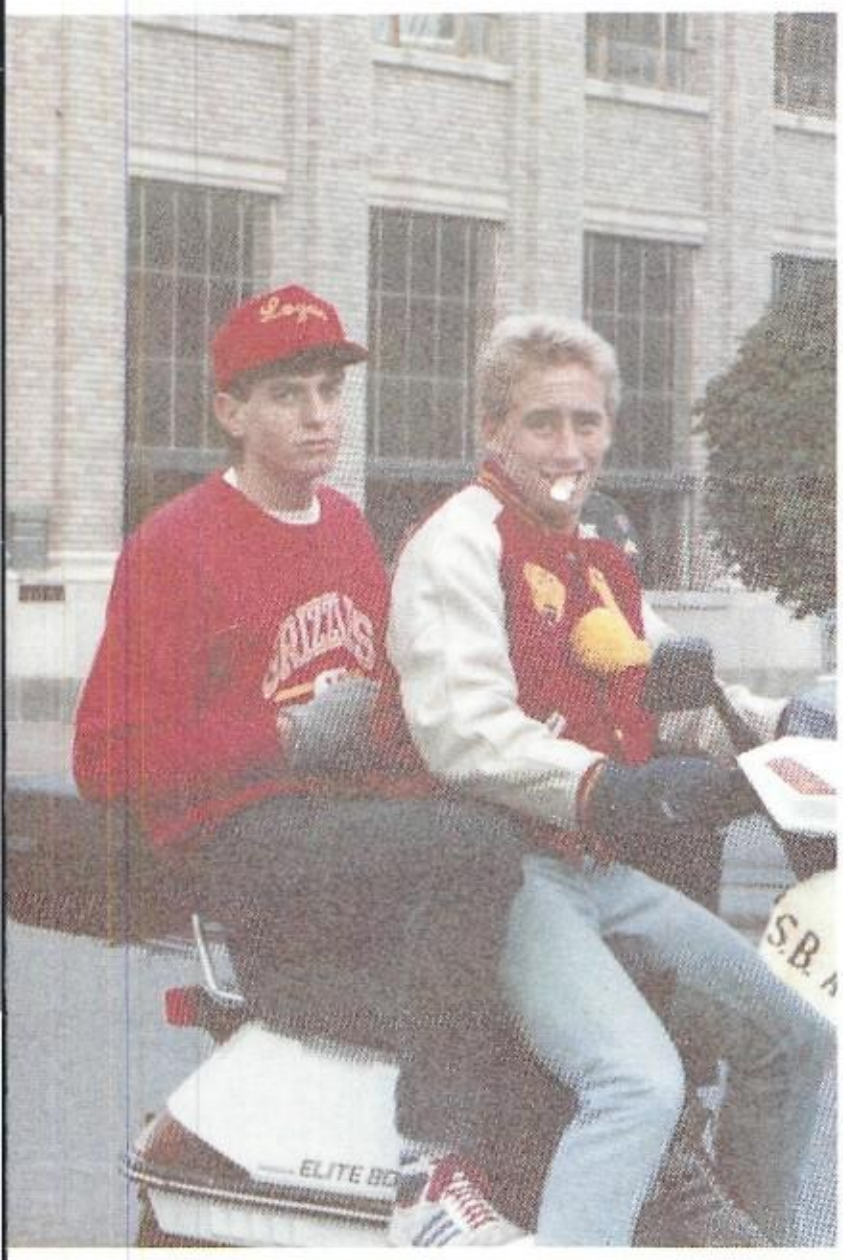
Mark Furlong, as Studentbody President, presides over the Alumni Assembly.



Innovative Leadership

Paul and Mark's favorite activity at the parade was trying to catch candy in their mouths.



The job a student body officer has is a tough one. They spend many long hours, throughout the summer and school year planning many activities and dances for the student body. During the summer Mark Furlong and the other officers made up a calender with most of the athletic events, dances, and other activities. The officers also chose three people to work on public relations. They were Angela Tolson, Kim Coray, and Michelle James. They helped the officers with the birthday bulletin board and the "In the News . . . " bulletin board.

This year the officers continued with the struggle to get a permanent "L" on the mountain. They set up the Homecoming Parade and dance and they helped all the other officers and organizations with their homecoming week activities. "We put a lot of work into Homecoming, and it turned out great." said Mark Fjeldsted, student body Vice-President. The officers also organized "Beach Week", which turned out to be great. This years officers helped make the 86-87 school year a great one!!

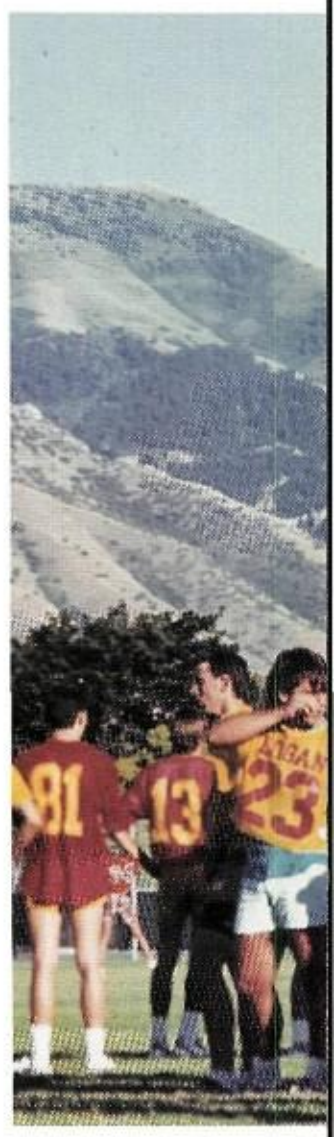
Susie looks excited for her hard work on the Homecoming celebrations to finally come together.

Three Months all to One's Self



Summer gave students the welcome break they needed from strenuous school work. Even though some students still had to work hard at their summer jobs, you could still find many of them out enjoying the sun rays.

Many students attended various camps and clinics held at U.S.U. or other state colleges and schools. Football, basketball, cheerleading, and drill team camps were a few for the athlete. For students with creative or academic outlooks there were music, yearbook, and debate camps.

Working at a summer job kept a great many students busy and gave them their extra spending money. Students worked at fast-food places, restaurants, grocery stores, clothing stores, and theatres.

Summer concerts were also a big thing for students to do. Some popular ones were Depeche Mode, the Eurythmics, A-ha, and the Monkeys.

All in all, summer gave everyone a chance to soak up some sun rays or just get away from it all.

Logan High sophomore class officers join together in the common practice of eating.

Hot summer days left Mark Fjeldsted thirsty for an ice cold Coke.

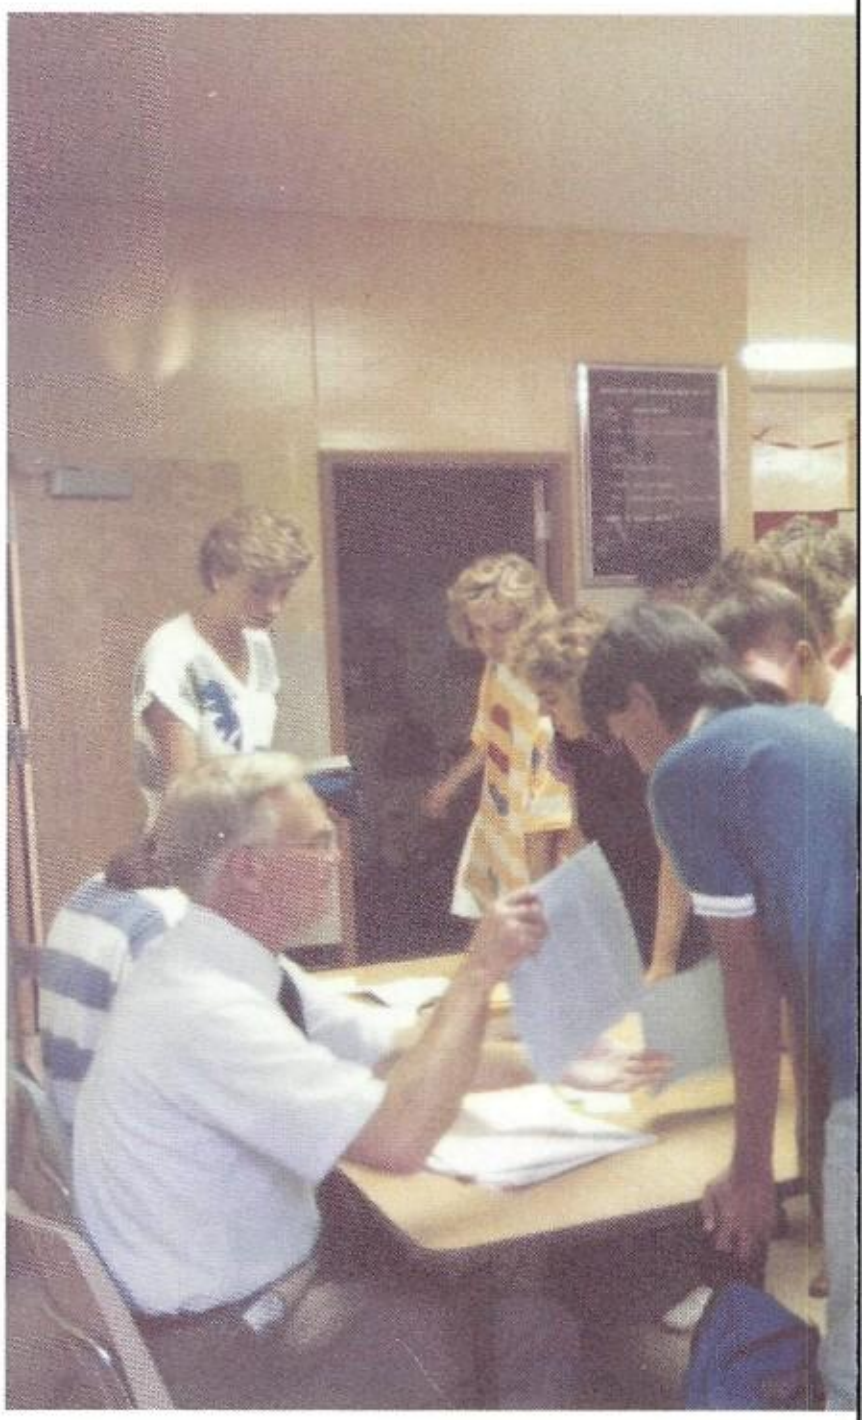
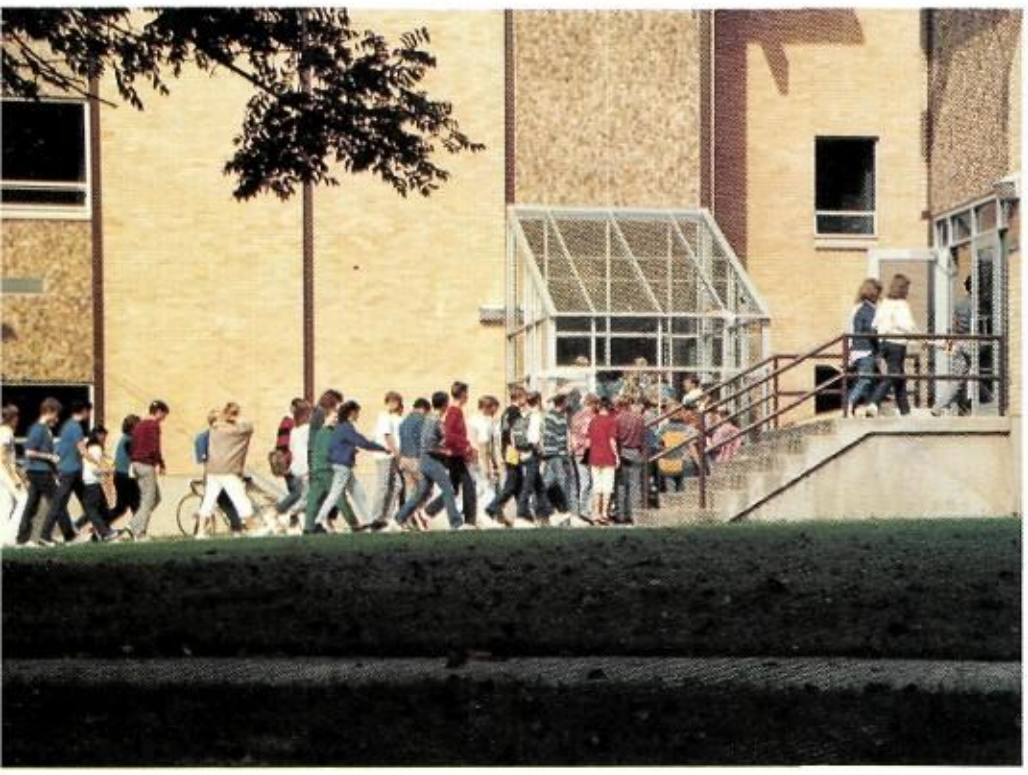
First Day Blues

What could possibly change your sleeping habits from the summer schedule to the new hours of ten in the evening through six-thirty in the morning? What single event could get approximetly twelve-hundred sunburned, starry eyed teenagers to attend with cheesey smiles on their faces? What could make you sit at attention for six hours, five days a week, without pay? All this, plus the fact that you are suffering from a type of jet lag, even though you haven't been anywhere. Is it a Communist takeover . . . or is it August twenty-fifth?

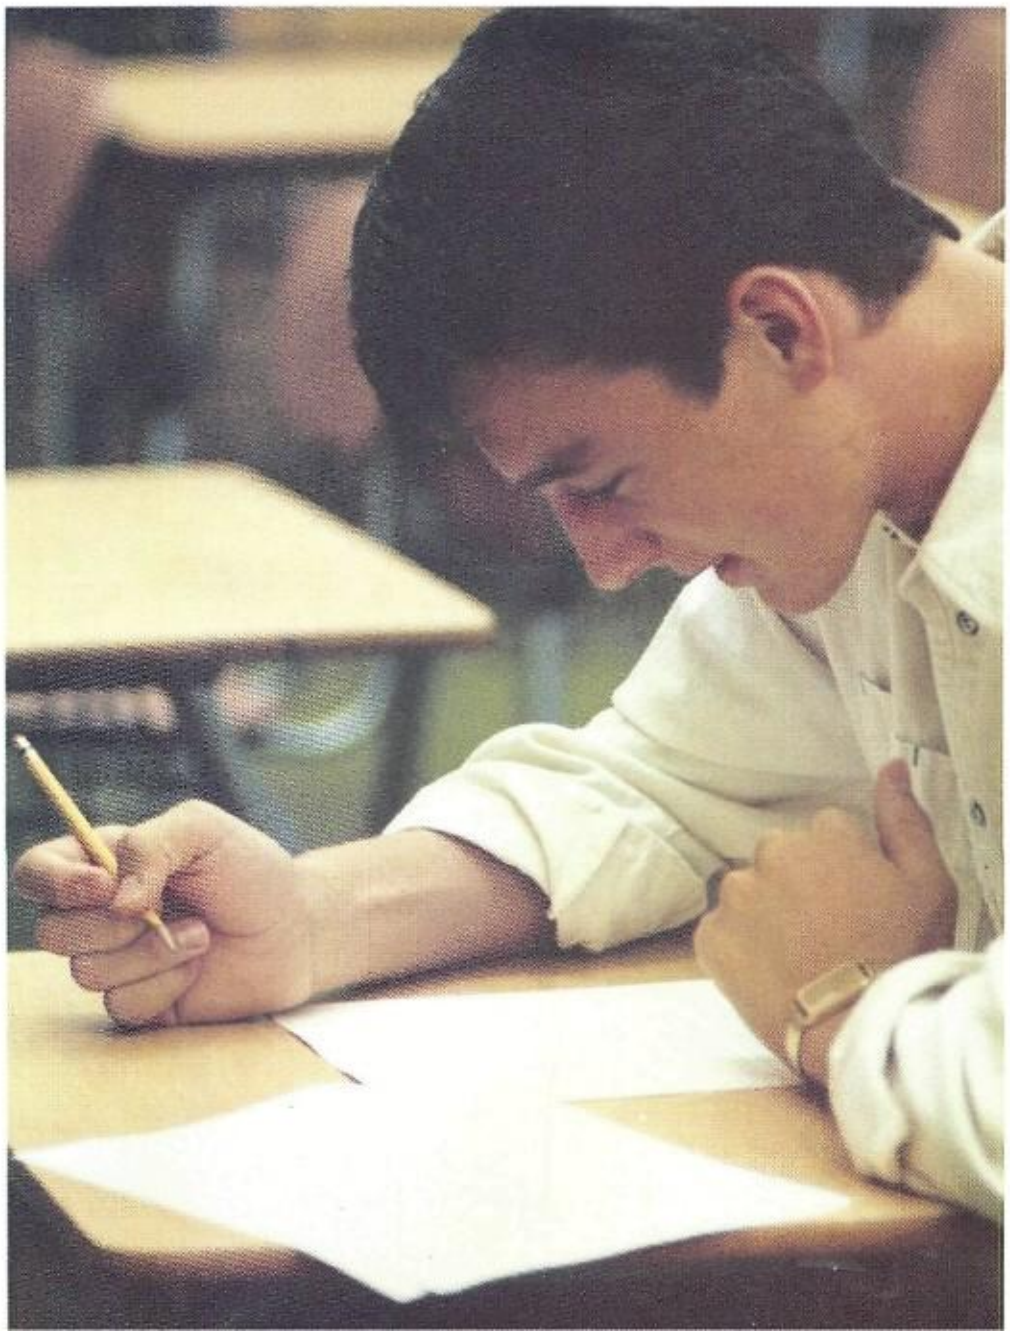
Yes you guessed it, and so began the 1986-87 school year. The summer had come to an abrupt end and all that remained were memories (how sentimental) and a severly sunburned nose. Excitement stirred as fellow grizzlies, dressed in shorts and beach shirts, united for the first time in three months.

The freshman were feeling pretty cool and buzzing with excitement over the fact that they were no longer just Mountaineers, but mighty Grizzlies which was a welcomed change! They acted as freshmen do. They go lost a lot, but after two weeks they were finding their classes all by themselves. The sophomores were glad to no longer have the dubious honor of being freshmen. Overall they were just happy to be there. The juniors were excited about being one step closer to accepting the high and mighty call of being one of the elete seniors. The seniors were slightly cheery about the fact that they only have one more year to go before they have to face the real world. Overall the students seemed to share the Logan Grizzly spirit of enthusiasm.

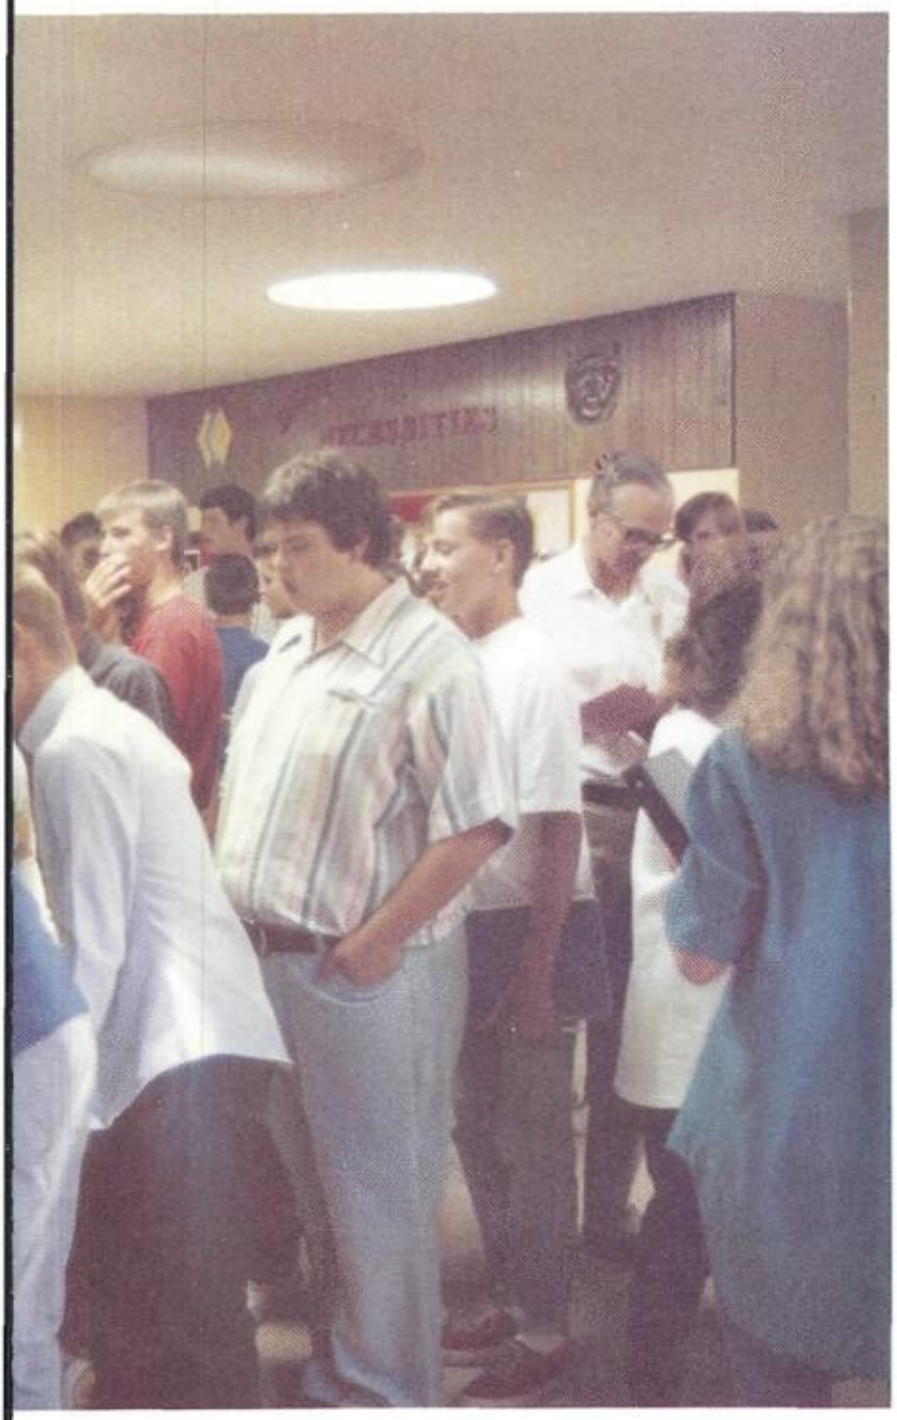




Once again the swarms of students move in and out the doors of Logan.

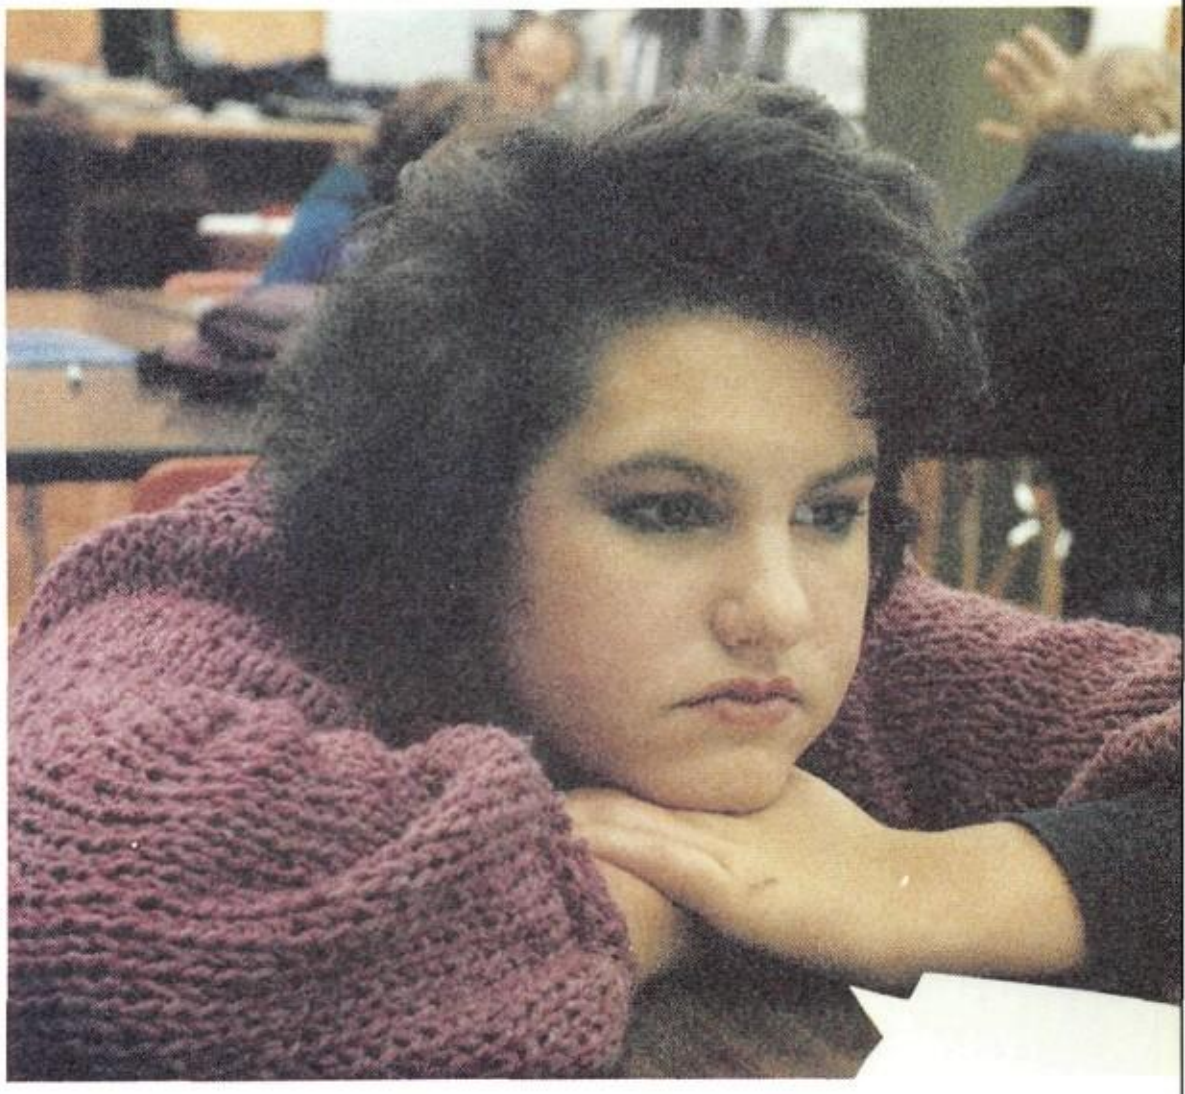


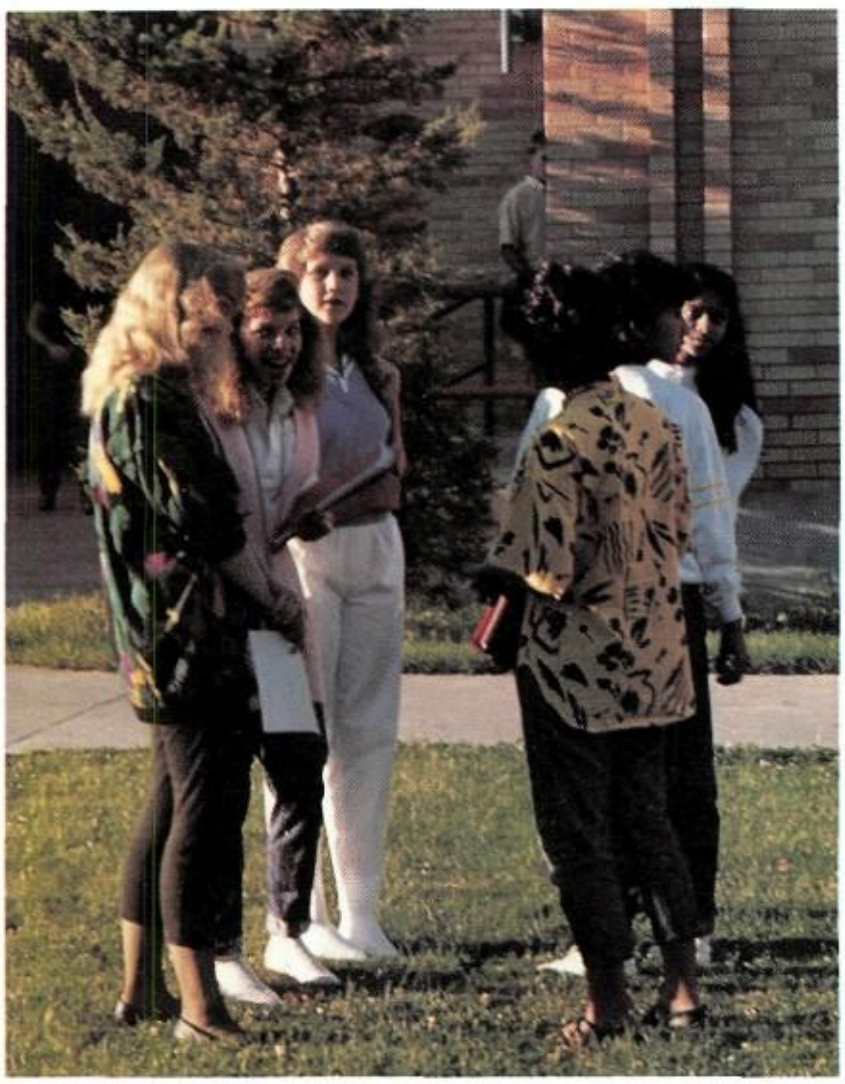
Senior, Lance Lyons, decides to try to learn something in his senior year.



"I can't believe I'm really here!" ponders Elena Oronoz as she stares at the problems on the board.

Registration lines wind down the hall as freshmen and upperclassmen receive their locker combintaions.



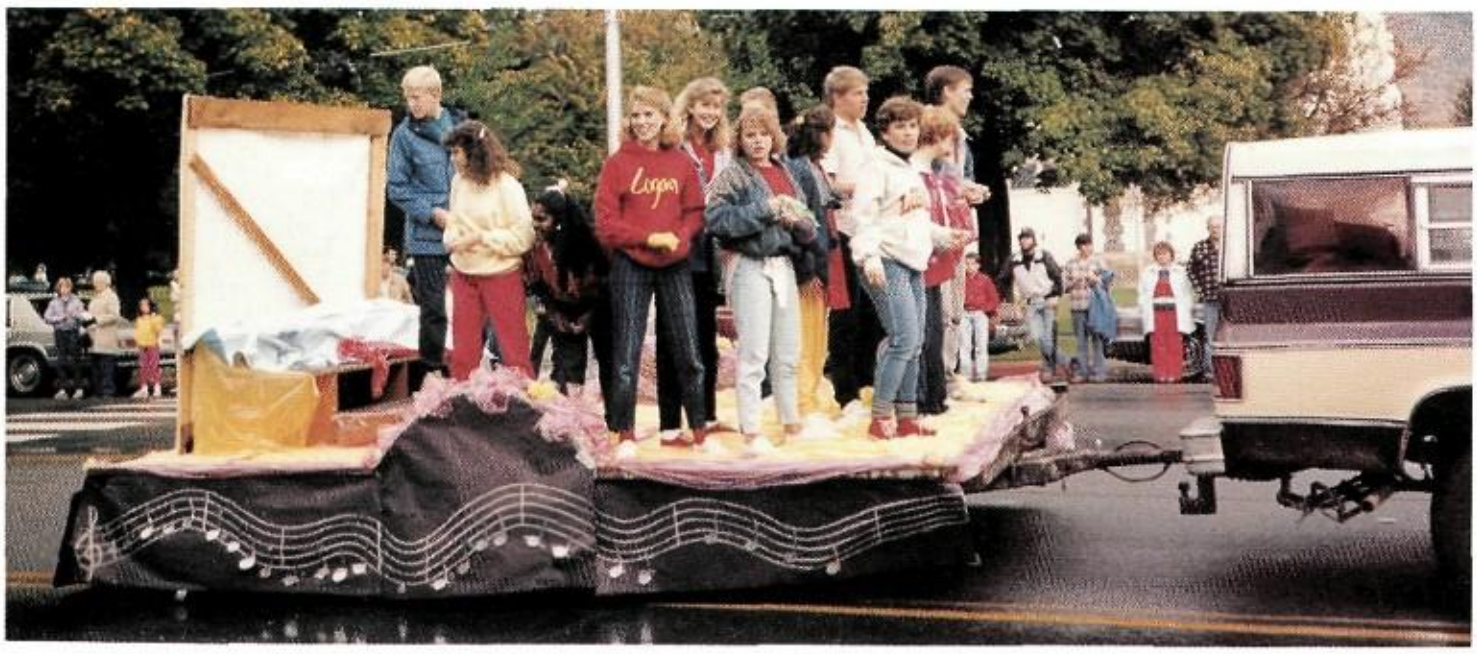


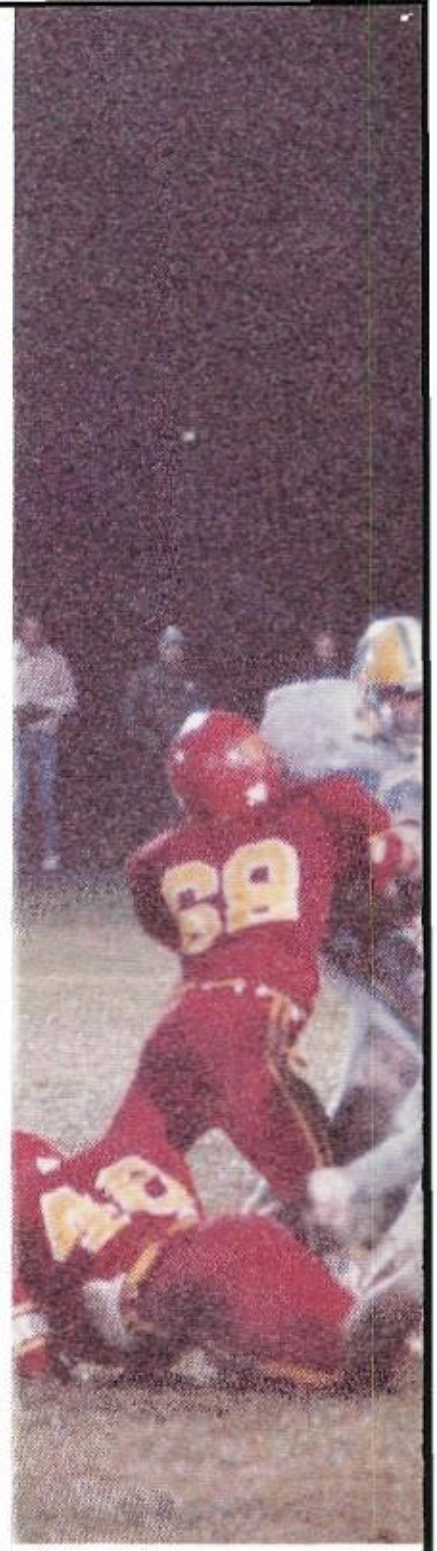
Thinking he's a freshman, David Knight (Junior) decides to go around to another door.

Freshman girls gather together to catch up on all the summer gossip.

UNFORGETTABLE

A great Homecoming week started off Monday as the Seniors painted the town. They did a great job despite the fact that the paint kept freezing. Tuesday the studentbody watched "Better off Dead" on the football field. Wednesday the Homecoming parade got off to a shakey start due to the rain. That night the annual red and gold Powderpuff game was held. With pouring rain and thunder, the hefty Seniors stuck it out 'til the end was near. The score was 6-6. And in a clap of thunder it was all ended, and the winner was never discovered. Thursday was the alumni assembly highlighted with an appearance by Bob Weltie. Friday there was a pep rally to boost school spirit. And to top it all off that night Logan ran over favored Skyview 14-3.

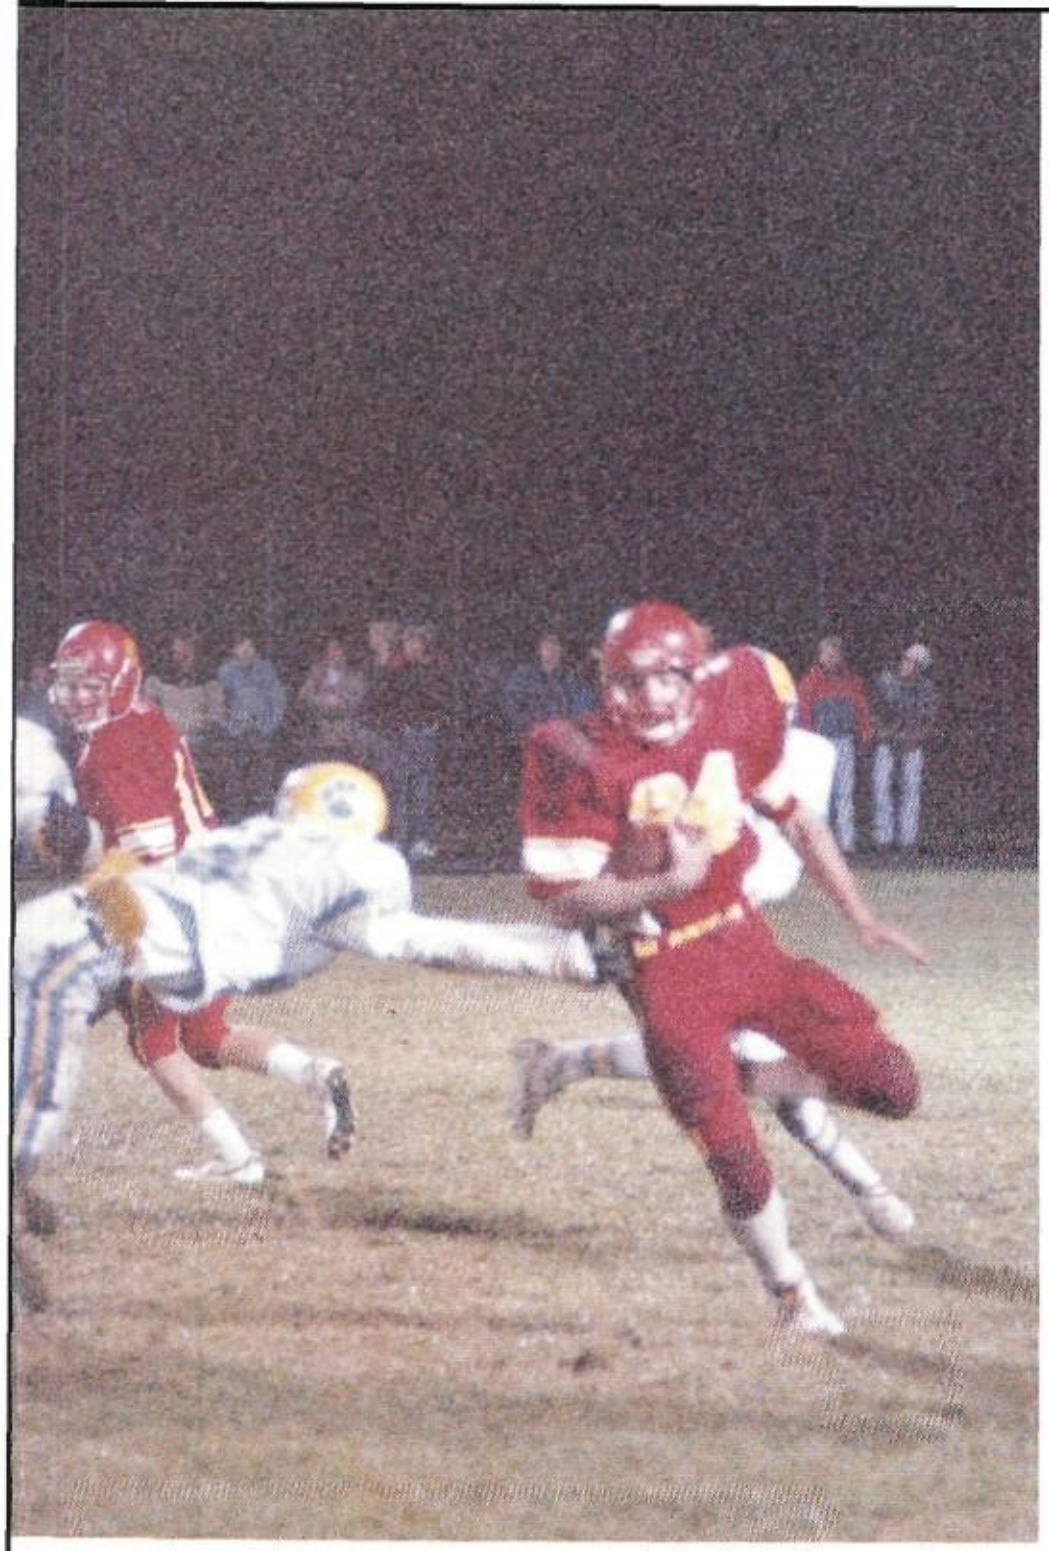


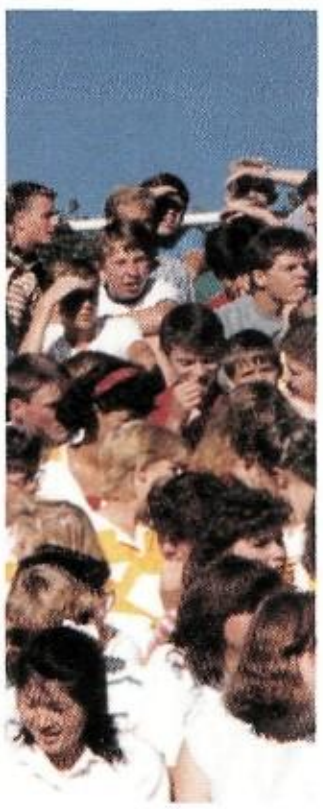


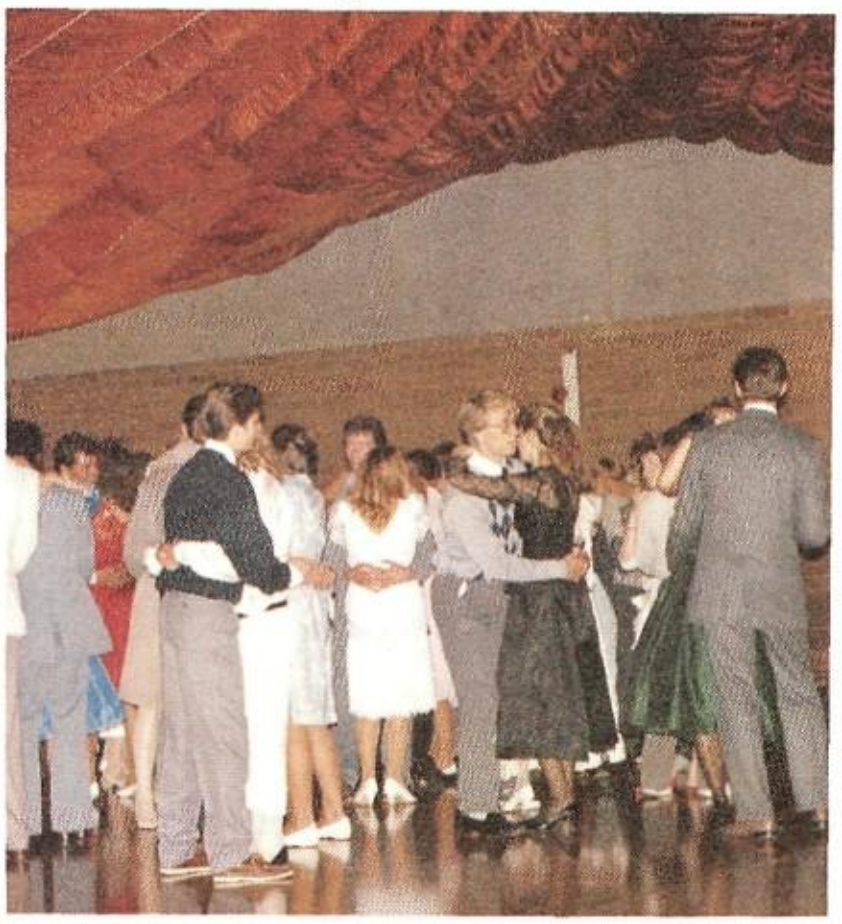
The Chauntaires float supplied candy and entertainment to the parade watchers on the side of the road.

The Spirit Squad says, "We feel great, Oh we feel so great!"

A Week 2nd to None







A Royal Victory

Logan's 14-3 victory over the Skyview Bobcats was a big one for the Grizzlies. It started them on their way to a 2nd Co-Region championship in two years.

Things did not look well in the beginning, however, as the Bobcats jumped out to an early 3-0 lead and seemed certain to add on more, but the hard hitting Logan defense forced a fumble, which Mark Fjelsted recovered on the 8 yard line.

Three plays later, Bobby Pendleton swept left, followed a series of crossing blocks and sprinted down the sideline for a 70 yard touchdown and the Grizzlies 1st score.

With just over a minute to play in the 1st half, Logan got the ball back after Fjelsted again stole the ball from the Bobcats with the 1st of his 3 interceptions in the game. The halftime activities were exciting as the Royalty was crowned, and the crowd joined the band in the school song.

With time running out, it was time for the "Ben Lomond special." With great protection from his line, Palmer dropped back and rifled a pass downfield to Nick Hassan, who then threw to Pendleton, who outran everyone 80 yards to the endzone.

Logan's defense, lead by outstanding performances from Fjelsted and Mitchell shut out Skyview the rest of the game, as the Grizzlies went on to sweep the rest of their region games.

HOMECOMING ROYALTY: Julie Swallow, attendent; Shellie Porter, Queen; Sonya Seethaler, attendent.

Teahouse of the

As the lights go up and the crowd grows hushed, Sakini, a small Japanese girl takes the center of the stage.

This is how the play "Teahouse of the August Moon" began. This play was by far one of the best that Logan High has ever presented. Mr. Eugene Tueller, director, made it one of the finest. Choosing the cast did take time but once the cast was chosen they soon realized that that was not the hard part. Making the characters come alive took a lot of work but it helped having talented actors and actresses. The play took long hours morning, night and during school but the finished product was worth it.

Actors also participated in advertising and helping the appointed committees to increase awareness.

Participants included: Todd Windley, Jody Watts, Dennis Morrow, Ralph Wanless, Nephi Sanchez, Paul Fife, Kathy Tueller, Lorelle Peterson, Brent Thomas.

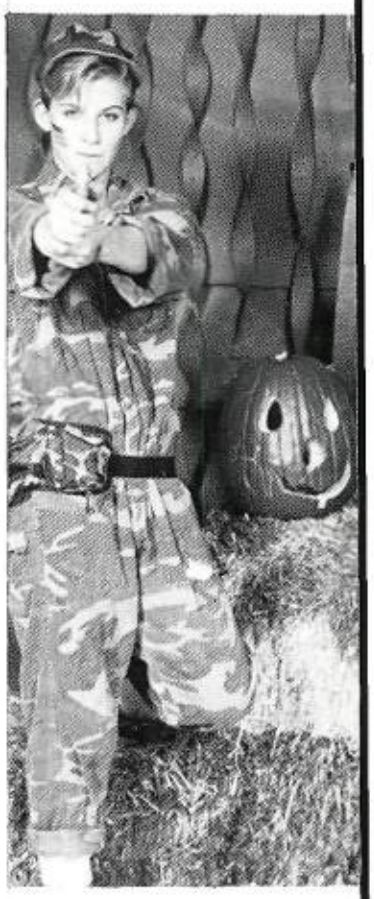
It Was a Scream!



When do high school age kids dress up and live their fantasies like they did in elementary school? HALLOWEEN! Maybe not quite like they did in elementary school. The costumes are more complex and often more bazzar. Some of the most popular dress up items this year were boy scouts, rambos, cats, hippies, and egyptians along with the traditional vampires, princesses, and frankensteins. And then of course were the few that no one was certain of what they were.

Halloween was a spooky night to be anywhere but the dance safe and sound with friends. Some say there was a full moon, some blame it on the fact that there was a epidemic of poonjab going around. But one thing was for sure. It was a night out of the ordinary to be remembered by all for a long time. Students came dressed even more unusual than other Halloweens. Impossible you ask? That's what the majority of the faculty thought . . . until Tony Hansen, Todd Windley and Keith Larsen are out numbered and they're loving it!!!!!

Now appearing at Logan High . . .

Students enjoyed a wide variety of assemblies this year at Logan High.

One of the best assemblies was the Homecoming Assembly. Bob Welti of KSL, a former Logan High graduate, was the highlight. He joined in singing the school song and was presented with a red "Logan" hat, which he wore later that night on the news.

Jack Lythgo continued to hypnotize the students and John Goddard told about another one of his safaris. The assemblies were definitley entertaining and helped enhance school spirit.

Anticipation! December 25

Once upon a time, not very long ago in a small town, it was that wonderful time of year. Christmas. Everyone was filled with christmas cheer, especially the students at Logan High. Their eyes twinkled with delight as visions of sugar plums danced in their heads.

The week of December 15-19 was a festive one. It all began with treat day, then came festive dress day, two assemblies, in which we were visited by the one and only Santa Clause. Next was a Christmas Movie in the OBG, Elf Week, and last but certainly not least was the Christmas Dance. Stocking Boy, Mark Furlong, and Stocking Girl, Tammy Stewart, were chosen and reigned over the dance on December 19.

The student's showed their spirit of giving during the canned food drive by donating canned food. Many needy families in the valley benefited from our willingness to give.

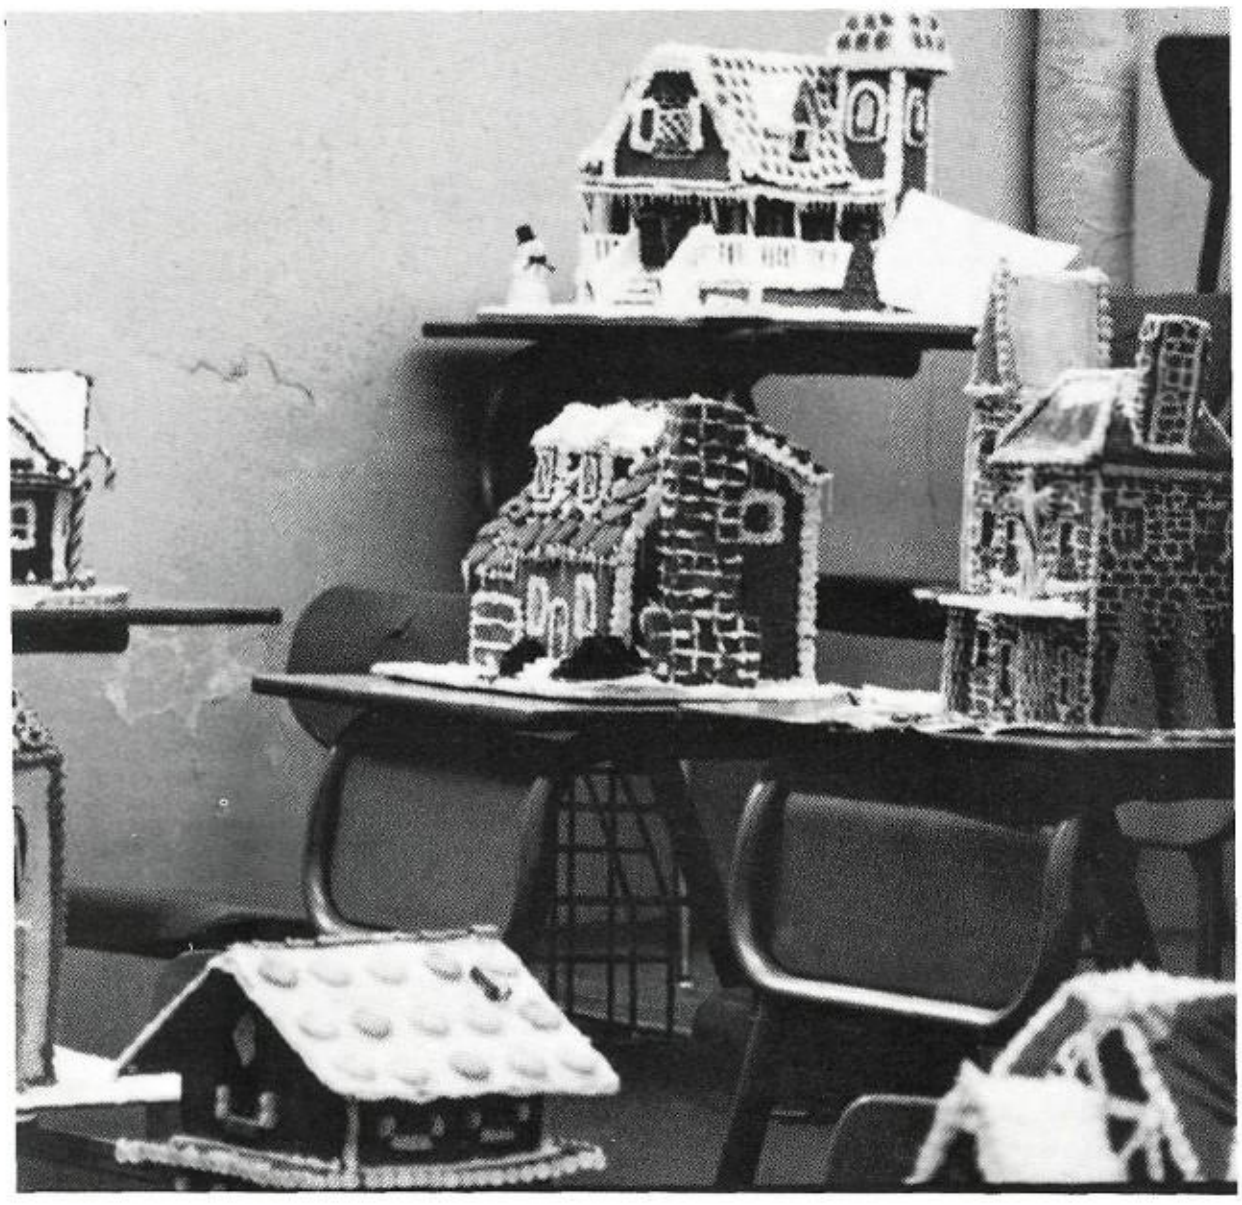
The week was topped off with the Christmas dance. The Crimson Classics sang the theme song for the evening, "Winter Wonderland".

Finally, December 25, the day we were all waiting for arrived. Though we all my celebrate it in a different way, with our individual traditions, the meaning of Christmas was the same for everyone.

Hansel and Gretel Heaven.

During the Christmas season students donated cans of food for the needy.

The Ginger Bread Houses are coming!!



Maybe if your lucky you'll get Mark Furlong or Tammy Stewart in your stocking this year!! They are stocking boy & girl.

Funny How Love Is

Lecia Sorenson wonders who she should sign up for.

Funny How Love Is was the theme of this years Sweetheart's Ball sponsored by the Girl's League Officers. It all began with Wacky Women's Week which showed off Logan High's wackiest women. At the end of the week girls got to run for the guy of their choice in the Great Race. The most preferred guys for each class were Doug Raymond, Bobby Pendelton, Jason Fife, and Blair Hodson. The Girl's League Officers also put in many extra hours decorating for the dance. The dance was held on February 7th in the Old Girl's Gym and everyone had a great time.

Musical of the Year

This years musical was "Carnival". The setting was in Southern France, it tells the story of a naive young girl, Lili, played by Jenny Evertson, who comes to the carnival looking for work. She is impressed by the debonaire Marco the Magnificient (Brian Hendricks). However, Marco has a jealous girlfriend the Incomparable Rosalie (Jenni Jones) who assists him with his magic act.

Lili eventually finds work at the puppet booth. She believes the puppets are real and learns to love them. At the booth Lili also meets Jacquot (Nephi Sanchez) and Paul (David Koerner), who control the puppets. Not realizing they control the puppets, she becomes friendly with Jacuot but has difficulty getting along with Paul. The qualities she loves about the puppets are different aspects of Paul's personality. In the end, Lili discovers Paul is operating the puppets and that it is Paul she loves.

Costuming was by Patti Johnson and choreography by Denise Kidman. Eugene Tueller was the director and Dan Stowell, accompanied by Ann Mortenson, conducted the orchestra.

Cabin Fever

This year spring came early to Logan High. Winter was dry and mild compared to past years, but it didn't make spring any less welcome. Warm, sunny days and blue skies made it difficult for even the most dedicated student to concentrate. Spring came in late February and definately detracted from the rest of the school year. Students were outside every spare minute. Even though spring made it harder for students to function properly in life, everyone enjoyed it!!!

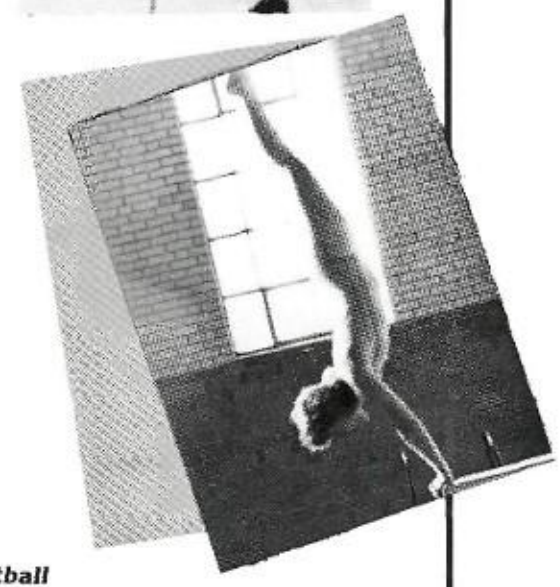
IT · TAKES · ALL Kinds of Sports

Athletes from Logan High spent many hours in preparation over the summer attending various camps and clinics. All the sports at Logan High required dedication and students spent hours of their free time in the attempt for perfection. Dedicated underpayed coaches spent many hours of their extra time looking for ways to win. Teams from Logan always showed class, win or lose.



Tennis, Basketball, Football and Swimming are just a few of the programs that make Logan High great.

Spirit Squad Rallies Support

The Spirit Squad worked very hard this year to get students involved. They practiced all summer long, made posters, did pep rallies, got up early, stayed up late, and supported the team in everything.

During the summer the girl's attended a camp at U.S.U. to learn new cheers and ideas. They earned a spirit stick and placed in all their activities. The songleaders also got an award for hardest working group.

Pep rallies were held for home games and the cheerleaders strived to bring variety into them and get students involved with activities.

The Spirit Squad really helped to make this year a great one.

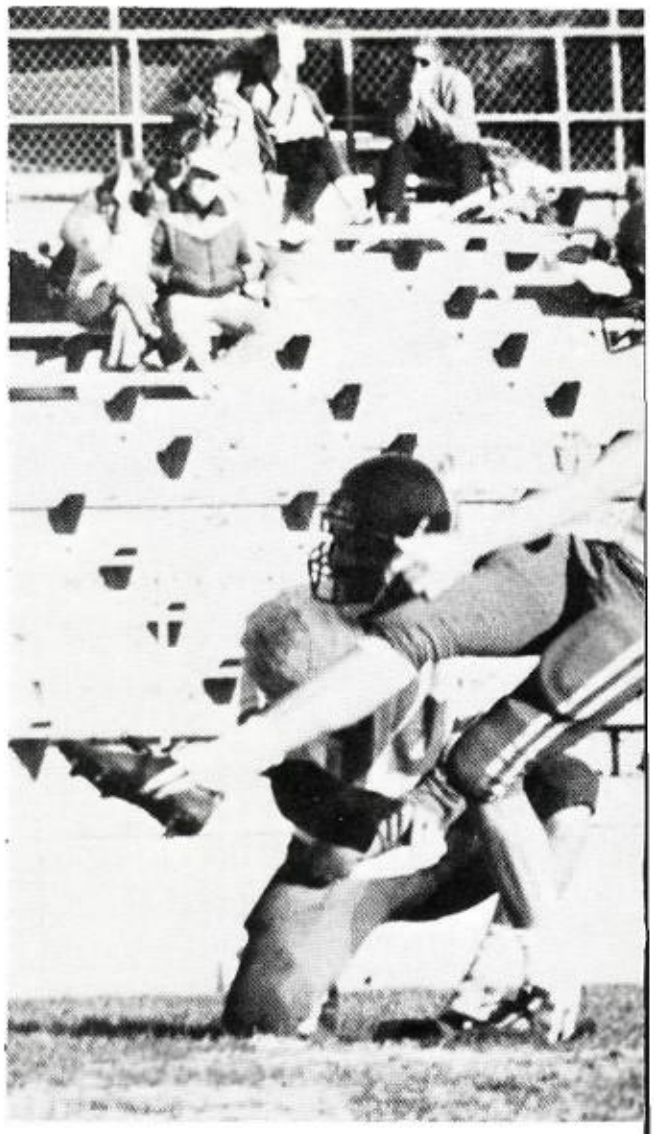
Rising Above



The 86'-87' season was another great year for the Logan Grizzly football team, they finished the season with a 4-1 region record and a share of the Region 5 championship. There were many doubts about this year's team that returned only two starters from last year. But the great athletes on the team more than made up for the lack of experience.

Jason Mitchell, Mark Fjeldstead, and Jim Ornoz anchored one of the best defenses in the state. They held Skyview to just 3 points, shutout Mountain Crest, and gave a total of 14 points to Ben Lomond and Ogden.

The offenses was lead by junior running back Bobby Pendleton, who averaged over 100 yards a game, and scored all but four of the offensive touchdowns this year. Leading Pendleton through the holes, was senior running back Warren Smith, who was named to the all-state academic team. One of the best receivers in the region this year, was Nick Hassan, who lead the team in receiving and had spectacular catch's against Mt. Crest and Ben Lomond.

The 86'-87' Varsity Football team continued the long winning tradition at Logan High, and with a solid base of players returning next year, it is a sure bet that they will keep that tradition going.

Up And Coming

The Grizzly JV team was made up of Junior and Sophomore players, and was coached by Larry Williams and Bryant McKay. Their season was filled with big wins and tough losses. They lost a close overtime game at Skyview, but came back to beat Mt. Crest in the closing minutes.

Sophomore quarterback Todd Wilson lead the Junior Varsity team, and also played in most of the Varsity games. Mike Hale and David Groll played on the offense and defensive line, and also started in a few varsity games.

All the players on the team had alot of fun, and really helped cut the Varsity team when they were needed. Logan High School can look forward to many exciting and successful seasons as these players to get older and move up to the varsity level.

They did it again! For the second season in a row, Coach George Duersch coached the Freshman football team to a undefeated Season. For the last two years the Freshman record is a perfect 16-0.

One of many spots on this team, was Blair Hodson the Quarterback. He lead his region in passing, and could follow in the long line of great quarterbacks from Logan High

The Freshman team accomplished their great record even though they did not have many players. Most of the team members had to play both offense and defense. Hopefully the success of the program will bring out more players in the future.

If the Freshman class keeps working as hard as they did this year, they could very well bring home a state championship to Logan High.

You Win Some, You Lose Some

The Logan High Volleyball team coached by Mrs. Chambers, having only a few victories showed alot of endurance. Although they didn't win alot of games, they never gave up during their matches.

Coach Chambers did a good job with this years team. They had some extra help from Bridget- a student and volleyball player for U.S.U. She helped them learn alot of techniques that would help them in a game. Next years seniors look very promising, as it will be Monica Forsbergs and Kim Cunninghams third year and Chris Barrington, Jann Hubbard, Jin An, Kayleen Fains, second year.

Practice began in the summer. It was mainly to get the girls back into the swing of things after the long months vacation. After school started was when practice really started. They worked alot on their serves, bumps and spikes.

Even without many victories, the team had a good year because they came out, tried and had a good time.

''Volleyball was really fun this year. We had great team support,'' Jennie Bacher.

In The Home Stretch

Cross Country is one of the most grueling sports in High School athletics, and both the girls and the boys had fine years.

Training began early in September under the watchful eye of Coach McBride, who put the team through the paces after school. This included stretching out, sit-ups, and push-ups, and then a quick run that was anywhere from 3 to 6 miles long.

This Logan High squad was paced by Jamie Duffy and John McIff for the boys and Maura Nelson and Kirby Hooton for the Girls.

With a number of young runners coming up this team will be very good in the years to come.

Above Par

The Logan High Golf Team had one of the best seasons ever. They finished the season with only one loss, and tied for the Region 5 Championship. They then went to the State Tournament and placed.

The Golf team was coached by Roger Wilson, who has put together back to back winning seasons at Logan High.

Team Captain Doug Raymond, and Juniors Jason Lindsey and Chris Thompson lead the Grizzley Golf team with consistently low scores. The team's only loss came at the end of the year at the Region Meet, where they were beat out by Ogden, a team they beat earlier in the year.

A Tip on a Winner

At the start of the season, no one knew how the Varsity Basketball team would be. Many called them an ''inexperienced'' team. But at the end of the pre-season, their 6-3 record showed that they could really play ball.

Going into region play, the Grizzlies boasted the best pre-season record of any region team. They lost a heartbreaking region opener to Ben Lomond in double overtime, and then lost five more in a row. Now at 0-6 in region play, most people were counting Logan out of the State Tournament; but not the team themselves. With great poise, they turned things around. It started when Sky View (the number two team in state at the time with a 6-0 record) came to Logan. The Grizzlies never let the Bobcats into the game. Logan beat them 63-54. Logan then went on to slaughter Bear River by 37 points and beat Ogden at Ogden for the first time in 15 years. Logan ended the regular season by blowing out Mountain Crest 60-41.

Now, after winning their last four games, and with momentum on their side, Logan went on to the State Tournament.

Intensity = Seasons Success

The J.V., Sophomore, and Freshmen basketball teams at Logan High all enjoyed winning seasons this year. The J.V.'s were coached by Larry Williams, the Sophomores by Perry Christensen, and the Freshmen by Roger Wilson.

The J.V. better prepared themselves to be next years Varsity by winning most of their games. The Sophomores ended the season with an even record. The Freshmen team was the best ever. They finished the season with an 18-1 record and they won the Ben Lomond Tournament.

The season was a success for all three teams.

Slam Dunk!!!

The 1986-87 Girls Basketball team worked hard this year as a team. They started out pretty tough playing 4-A school's like Bonneville, Layton, Pleasant Grove, and Weber. The girls had a rough time at the beginning of their season but, they came through in the end and went to state. Their overall record was 7-12 and 4-6 in Region play.

In December they hosted the Grizzly Invitational which included: Mnt. Crest, Sky View, and Ben Lomond. They played a tough game against Sky View and lost by 6 points. The next night they slaughtered Ben Lomond by 29. They placed 3rd in the Invitational.

They started their region play with Mnt. Crest. They lost a hard battle to them but, then turned around to win both Sky View (2) and Ben Lomond (29). With two starters out, Shelly Bowers and Camille Larsen because of injuries, lost to Bear River and Ogden. Sky View lost at Logan in double overtime. Logan went to state placing fourth in Region 5.

Bryant McKay, Angie Whitaker, Staci Wolfe, and Bonnie Chambers were the coaches.

Bonnie Chambers was a new coach this year. She coached freshmen. Their record was 5-10 and placed fourth in their tournament.

Logan High will miss their three graduating seniors- Tina Neiderhauser, Wendy Hurd, and Shelly Bowers. Wendy Hurd said ''Basketball was alot of work but, it was worth it.''

Swimmers make waves

In the tradition of Logan High swim teams, the combined Girls and Boys swim teams of 86-87 had an excellent season. Jeff Richards took 4th in state in diving, Rhett Helstern took 4th in 50 free, and Bill Stanley took 3rd in the 100 Breast Stroke. The team started working out in October 4 times every week at 5:30 (yes, in the morning) and every day after school. Nicole Bissonette and Monica Harcastle said ''The team was excellent, but we need more people to come out next year.'' The swimmers who went to state were: Jeff Richards- Diving: Wilkinson- 200, 500 free and the 200 Medley: Rhett Hellstern- 50-100 free and 200 Medley; Pat Saunders- 50 free; Darren Hellstern- 100 free: David Anton- 100 Breast Stroke; Danny Owens- Diving; Kristen Cook- 50 free, 200 Medley; Tracy Bachman- 50 free, 100 Fly; Monica Hardcastle- 400 relay; Aaron- 400 Free; Bill Stanley- 100 Breast Stroke, 200 Medley; Joe Pitkin- 200 Medley; Lissa Sazama- 400 free; Debbie Morrow- 500 free, 200 I.M., 400 relay; Geri Tims- 200 Medley, 200 I.M.; Maura Nelson- 200 Medley and 500 free. Both teams took second in region and the boys took fifth in state.

Top Wrestling

This years team, while relatively young, was one of the strongest teams in the region. They had many victories in clear tournaments and sent some good wrestlers to state competition. Brian Hendricks said, "We had alot of younger wrestlers this year, but there was alot of talent on this team and everyone worked hard." Logan placed third in region competition and sent ten wrestlers to the 3A State Tournament held at West High School in Salt Lake. The wrestling team was coached by George Duersch and Ron McBride.

On Top of It

The boy's tennis team did a great job this year. They really had a lot of good talent, with many of the players having several years of playing experience behind them. Keith Larsen and Eddie Griffin did especially well in all of their matches. Returning seniors were Danny Kemp, Keith Larsen, and Bobby Pendleton. They worked hard both on the court and off.

Soccer

Mr. Paulus, Logan's second year soccer coach, helped make soccer more popular at Logan High. Many new players came out this year where before there was not as much interest in the sport. Both the girls and boys soccer teams worked very hard in practice and in games. Coach Ahanonu commented, "I am a little optimistic right now, but I know we will be better than last years team."

The Big Race

The early spring brought many people's anxiety to get in shape for track. This years team had alot of returning runners. Coach Watts commented. ''I'm excited about track this year. We have alot of trackster's coming back this year. Track is a team sport, which takes numbers to have a victory.'' Brian Kimball was just one of the outstanding runners in the region. The relay team was hard to match. Everyone on the team worked hard and still managed to have a good time while doing it. Bonnie Chambers said ''We have alot of fast girls this year, and I expect us to be one of the top teams in the region. I also plan on taking several girls (hopefully the whole team) to state!''

Take Me Out To The Ballgame!!

The best place to be on a spring afternoon was at Logans baseball diamond. You could catch some rays and watch Stu Howells Grizzly baseball team play ball . . . all at the same time! Owen Braker had a fine year as catcher and Jason Mitchell did a great job covering first base. Brandon "B" Sparks and Mark Rigby had no trouble at all running down long fly balls in the outfield if the pitching slipped a bit. All in all no one could disagree that Logan had a fine baseball season.

Many students spent their time after school participating in different forms of fitness events. The Rec. Center was filled with students doing physical fitness activities after school. Students were involved in activities such as racquetball, weight lifting, basketball, tennis, running, or anything else to condition themselves. Students held their own competitive games of basketball and racquetball, sometimes betting each other on the outcomes.

Janna Schiess and Nicki Elison have their own individual but unique way of ''Working Out''.

Kinds of Organizations

Logan High had many organizations that helped to bring out school spirit. Chauntaires, Crimson Classics, the Grizzly and Amphion staffs, band, orchestra, HiLos, Boy's and Girl's League officers, and many clubs are only a few of the activities students are involved in. Long hours of dedication from these groups make Logan High the great school that it is.

Every kind of student group showed spirit and pride during Logan's homecoming activities.

The band was one of many organizations that gave Logan High its' great spirit.

NOTE PERFECT!

The '86-'87 school year proved quite eventful for the Logan High Chauntaires and Crimson Classics. The two groups were allowed to travel to Mexico in April, something that has not been allowed for quite a few years. The Mexican people received them well and the groups really enjoyed their experience. This was the Crimson Classics' first year together yet their quality outweighed their inexperience. "I have enjoyed being able to make up some of the dances and feel accepted by the upperclassmen," commented Julie Coppin, one of only three sophomores in the group, "We are all able to work together and so we blend really well.

Chauntaires officers were: Annie Randle, President; Michele Raymond, Vice-President; Russ Rogers, Secretary; Rhett Helstern, Treasurer; Alexa Blair, Socials Chairman; Kim Coray, Gina Lye, Kathy Tueller, Mary Olsen, Angis Sisson and Amy Mitchell, Fundraising committee.

Classics officers were: Holly Hillyard, President; Nichole Christopher, Vice-President; Angela Tolson, Secretary; Michele James, Treasurer; Kim Freeman, Publicities Chairman; Jennifer Evertson, Socials Chairman.

The Big Parade

This year the Marching Band under went a large change. They stopped competing, added Color Gaurd, and discontinued early morning practices making the only extra rehersals one day a week after school. They traveled to Cedar City and performed at SUSC in October.

The four bands included Symphonic Band, Concert Band, Marching Band, and Jazz Band. During Marching season, Symphonic and Concert combine to form Marching Band. The Drum Majors this year were Stephanie Osborne, Debbie Fillmore, Tracie Bachman, and Kim Brock.

Pep Band helped maintain school spirit during the football and basketball games by playing loud and high spirited music. Such as Barbara Ann, Simon and Simon, and Magnum P.I..

The band as a whole was great and really added to the school spirit.

Noteworthy

You find yourself walking up a flight of stairs that you never even knew existed. But the curiosity is killing you. When you reach the top strange noises can be heard that are unidentifiable. Look in the large room, there is a variety of students. They are talking to fellow peers while listening to a strange and unfamiliar form of music. Some guy is laying on the floor, he looks as if he might be asleep. Another student is really trying to listen through all the talking, but gets frustrated and yells at the others to shut up. Very interesting.

The atmosphere during Orchestra is a light, casual one at times. But three weeks before a concert, or three months before going on tour, it gets very serious. Early morning rehearsals are held often for both string players and the winds.

This year the orchestra toured Southern California. "Orchestra was alot of hard work, but the trip made it all worth it." Said Annie England.

Mr. Ashton did a great job as director and the students really appreciated all he taught them, and all he tried to teach them.

Spirit! Spirit! Let's hear it!

The Logan High Spirit Club is an excellent way for the younger classmen to get involved. They had the opportunity to do a variety of fund raisers this summer. With the money that they made they bought new uniforms. The cheerleaders and the song leaders work close with the Spirit Club so they can be prepared to chant the latest cheer.

Besides cheering at the football games, basketball and many other sports the Spirit Club was busy making plans for dances. This club sponsered the "Esprit" dance that was held on the 7th of November. The dance was a great success and there was alot of money raised for the Spirit Club.

One More Time!

The Logan High Hi-Lo's finished off another fabulous year of performances. They won region at Bear River and State at Bountiful.

After tryouts were over the Hi-Lo's attended a camp at Utah State University for one week in June where they learned a number of new dances. During school they practiced before school, after school, and sometimes on Saturdays.

Most Hi-Lo's agree that putting up with sore muscles and extra practicing is well worth the effort and hearing the crowd cheer is only one of their rewards. "It's not only demanding physically, but mentally as well. But, the hard work pays off and I feel like I have twenty sisters. Just being a part of this group and gaining friendships is well worth the time that is put in." stated Denise Kidman.

The girls League officers this year were, Kelly Niel- Freshman rep., Amy Neeley- Sophomore Rep., Erika May- Junior Rep., Anne Bently- Senior Rep., Annie Randle- Secretary, Debbie Fillmore- vice president, Trisha Parkinson- President.

They started working as soon as school let out. They held dances, washed windows, worked at the 24th of July fair and many other activities to raise funds.

The Girls League officers put on the Powder Puff football game, Wacky Womens Week, Sweetharts Ball and many smaller activities. They participated in Student Senate and gave a lot of help there. Secretary, Annie Randle said, "We really worked well together this year and we feel like we have accomplished a lot."

They worked really hard this year and did a great job!

Dudes!!!

As one of the Boy's League's most active and successful years, you would have to say that this branch of the studentbody, really got things done.

To start out the year, the Boy's League restored the tradition of Powder Puff Royalty. Homecoming was a very active time.

"Dude Week" recognized "Harrah's" and "Dudes" alike. The climax of the dude week activities was one of the most successful assemblies of the year. This assembly entertained both faculty and students. Some memorable parts of the assembly were the Idaho Studs, Sophomore Throw, and Bartels and James, just to name a few.

This spirit carried on to the generosity of the Christmas season. The Boys' League donated cases of food and a decorated Christmas tree to the needy of Cache Valley.

SUMMER FUN?

During the early summer months Logan High sent ninteen "Senior Men" up to USU to represent the Grizzlies at Utah Boy's State. Each year the American Legion sponsers Boy's State as an awareness program for young men throughout the state. Their program is designed to teach the responsibilities that we as Americans have in our democratic system. Between the guy's meetings they found time for suc forms of entertainment as small foo fights in the cafeteria and lining th streets after sundown in hopes of meet ing some of the Logan girls who wer brave (or desperate) enough to crus Boudacious blvd. This usually prove profitable since the theory that any thing against the rules is the funnes thing to do. Although Boy's State wa fun, there was a lot learned and ne friends made.

Girl's State

SUMMER FUN!

While the guys were goofing off up at USU, thirteen girls from were sent to the opposite end of the state to participate at Utah Girl's State held on the beautiful campus of Southern Utah State University. Those who were selected really seemed to enjoy the experience of forming the fifty-first State of the Union. "The week was a fun way to learn about our political responsibilities and prepare us to be actively involved later on" Holly Hillyard stated. Suzanne Wooley was elected to the office of Girl's Nation Senator. She was able to represent the girls of Utah in Washington, D.C. at Girl's Nation and she is also able to go back to Girl's State this year as a member of the staff. Logan High was represented well this year. Kim Freeman won her race for State Treasurer. Tricia Parkinson was a State Senator. Kim Coray, Jolyn Lugo and Heather Holdaway were elected County Commissioners. Holly Hillyard was elected Mayor. Sue Hunsaker made finalists for County Sherriff and Debbie Warren made it to finalist for State Attorney. After a long week of campaigning and learning a formal graduation ceremony capped off a great week and all of the participants were sad to see it come to an end.

Behind the Scenes

The appointed officers at Logan High have a tough job. They put in a lot of effort and receive little glory. The officers work close with the elected officers giving them a lot of their time and energy.

The appointed officers include the "L" points clerks who are: Erika Ricks—Seniors, Alys Allen—Juniors, Julie Coppin—Sophomores and Kathy Wood—Freshman. They also include the officers who are appointed by the Student Body Officers. These officers work with the public relations of the school, the event calender, bulletin boards and the birthday calender. And these are just a few of their responsibilities. The officers are: Kim Freeman—Historian, Michele James—Public Relations, Angela Tolson—Public Relations, Kim Coray—Public Relations and Jolyn Lugo—PTSA Representative.

Michele James, Angela Tolsen, and Kim Coray change the weekly schedule.

Alys Allen, Kathy Wood, and Julie Coppin are the "L" Point clerks. Missing-Erika Ricks.

82 Appointed Officers

Student Senate

The Student Senate at Logan High worked hard this year on planning activities, making constitutional changes, and voting on issues. The Senate is made up of the elected Student-body, Class, and League officers, along with the appointed officers. During the meetings, everything from Homecoming Week to the changing the school's policy on "letters" (letter in academics, music, etc.) to assemblies and dances was discussed. This group added to the excellence at Logan High.

National Close-up

On December 8, 1986 eleven students left the safe surroundings of Logan High for a Close-Up look at how the government of the United States works. They were joined by other students from Utah, Georgia, California and Louisianna. They spent most of their time in seminars and with speakers. The Seminars provided the students with an opportunity to discuss national policies and ideas with a small group of peers from different areas and backgrounds. Some of the subjects covered were racial predudices, and importance of being able to budget a country. Each seminar group had a group leader (PI): "My PI was great!" Holly Hillyard said, "He was able to get us to really look at every side of the issues." The student also spent a day in Colonial Williamsburg. They were able to eat an authentic dinner which consisted of such rarities as pickled corn. They were also able to enjoy a dinner/theater, sight seeing and a whole lot of new and interesting friends.

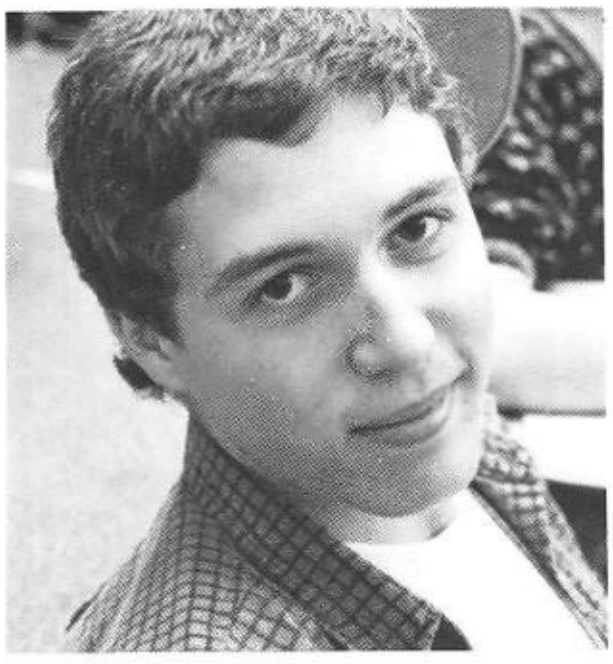
Working the Brain

Mr. Hoyt explains how the Academic Decathlon works.

Chris Cangelosi can't believe he made it through another test.



Academic Decathlon, what is it? Is it a program for smart people only? According to Mr. Hoyt, the advisor, he says, "You don't have to be smart, just committed." The Academic Decathlon is a team of students made up of two A students, two B students, and two C students. Every year they go and compete with other schools around the state. There are ten categories in which each student competes. They are: Languages, Fine Arts, Math, Science, Social Studies, Economics, Essay, Impromptu Speech, Prepared Speech, and a team quiz. Each area is worth 1,000 points, so with all the categories, 10,000 points. Mr. Hoyt said that it is a difficult test, but academic wise, it is great. They give you a list of all the things you need to know for the test (The test runs from 8:00 until 4:30), you have to look up and research all the material you need to know. Julie Hall won a metal this year for her interview. Some students think it is harder than the ACT. This years team consisted of- Robert Jacobs, Brook Ferney, Julie Hall, Scott Brown, Kristy Lundahl, Chris Cangelosi, and the alternates were Afshin Parisar, Gina Lye, and David Jacobs. This year they traveled to St. George. They all did a great job.

It Had All Kinds!

The yearbook records all memories and happy times of high school. The yearbook portrays all the triumps and defeats and all the fun times that made up the year in school.

The Amphion staff had a fairly small staff this year which forced many members of the staff to double up on some positions.

The first big job of the staff was the laying out of the summer supplement. It covered all of last years spring sports that ended after the yearbook was finished. It was handed out during the year to Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors.

Mark Rigby and Paul Parkinson tackled the job of selling ad space to local businesses. They spent much of their time running around town writing up ads and finding new sponsors for the yearbook. After all the ads were finished they spent their time selling yearbooks to interested parties outside of the school such as doctors and lawyers.

Kim Coray supervised the layout of the pages in the yearbook. This involved the drawing up of blueprints of each page to show where the copy, headlines, and pictures should go and how big they should be. She also served as co-editor with Kim Freeman.

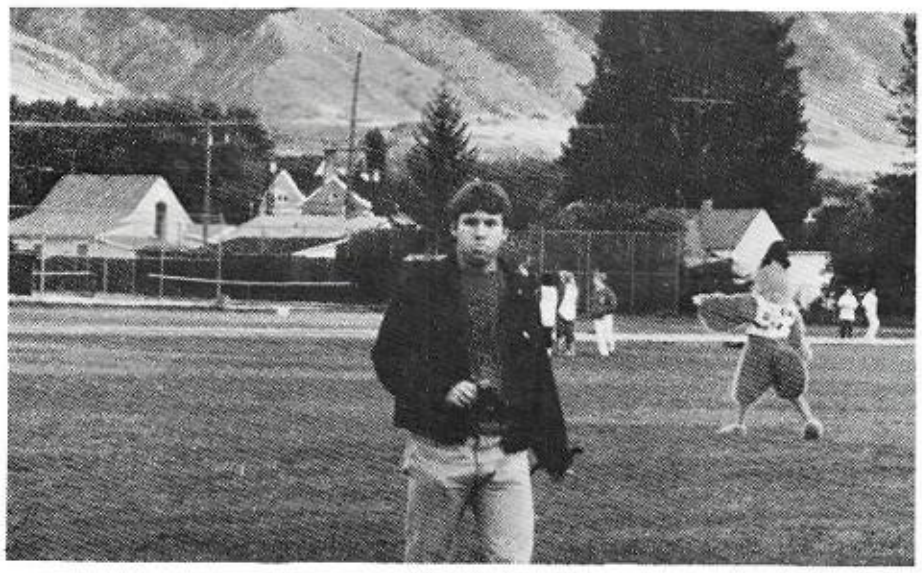
Scott Brown supervised the photo staff which provided the excellent photos in this years yearbook. This group of dedicated photographers took pictures, developed, and printed them for use in the Amphion.

Jennie Johnson supervised all the copy that went into the yearbook. This included checking all the pages of writing for spelling and gramatical errors, and making sure that the copy was the correct length to fit into the layouts.

Kim Freeman was the co-editor for the yearbook. She often did the jobs of all the people on the staff to get ready to meet deadlines. Her job was to make sure the yearbook ran smoothly.

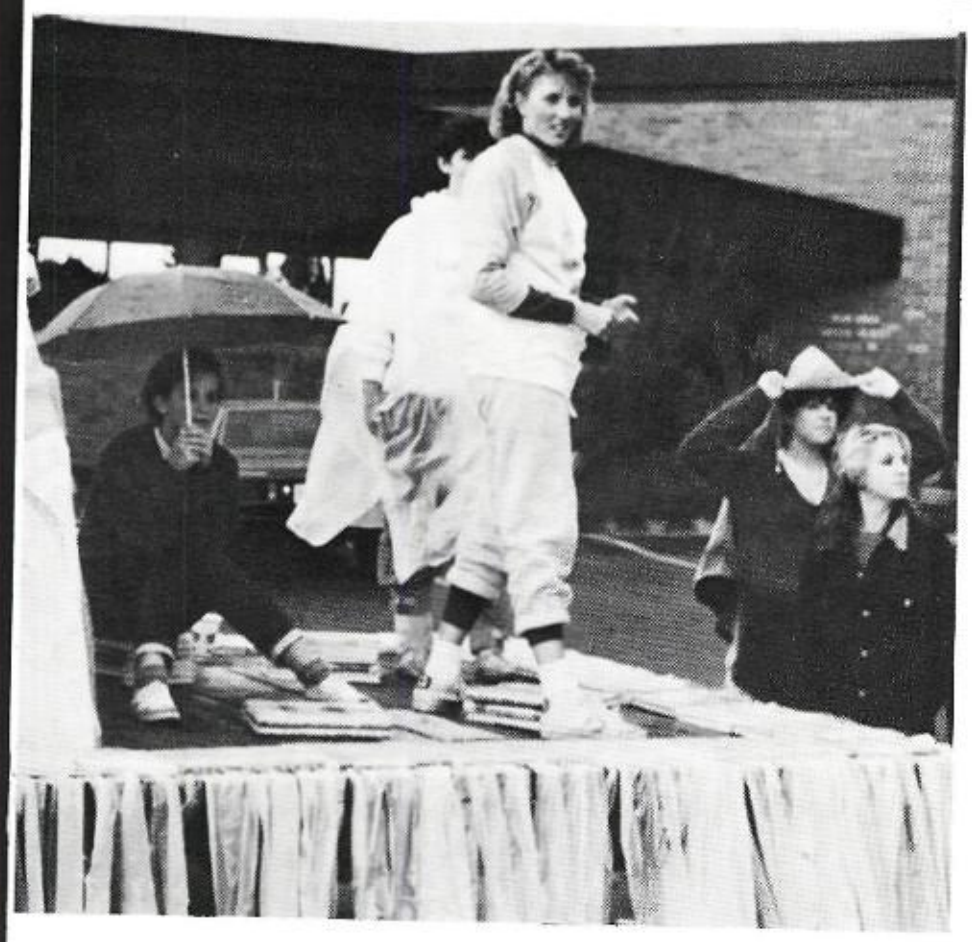
Mr. Williams supervised the yearbook and set up the deadlines. He also assigned the staff copy and photo assignments.

All these people working together plus many more that have not been mentioned made this edition of the Amphion one of the best ever.



Scott Brown is such a happy person!

You are sooo stupid!



A little rain never dampens the spirit of the yearbook staff.

School News

This year the Grizzly Staff produced many memorable school papers. Each time the paper came out, there were new articles on topics of interests to the studentbody. In fact, most of the articles were written about the students of Logan High. Alot of time was taken to write articles that would interest the students.

The students on the Grizzly staff spent time during and after school working on deadlines.

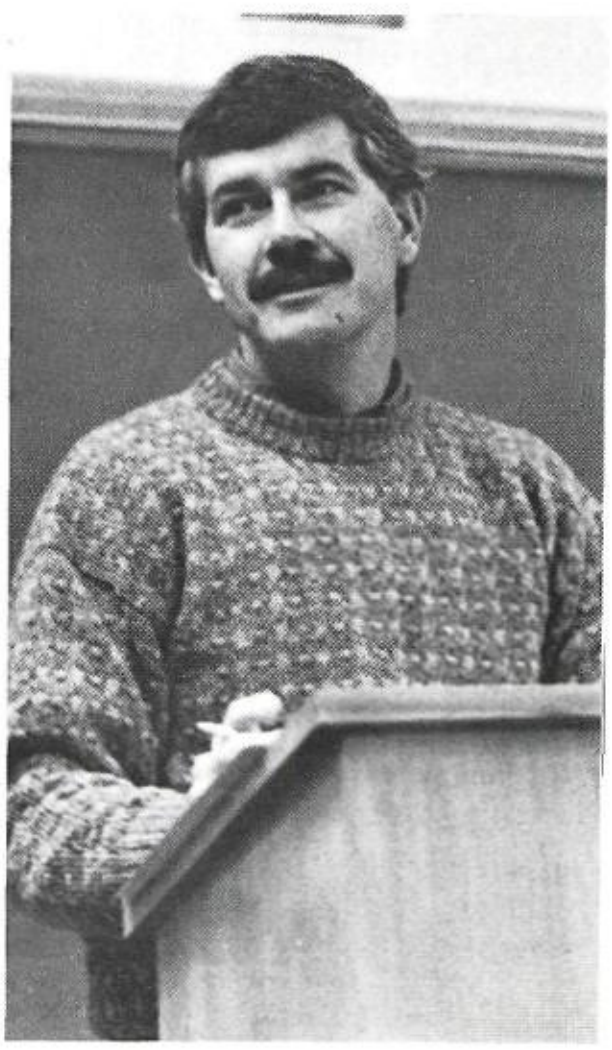
Snowski Frenzy

Another exciting year of skiing on the best snow on earth. There are many great resorts, and the Ski Club took full advantages with right skiing trips to Beaver, and road trips to Alta and Park City. This fun loving group of skiers along with Mr. "Bill" Emmett made the most of the lack of snow.



Mr. Emmett explains the importance of skiing to maintain priorities in ones life.

"Dave, this is Miss Lott. It's 5 o'clock and you are not here. The Bus is waiting, when can you be here." This more than common phone call is a reminder that yes, you do have a debate tournament every saturday.

Debaters often attempt to get more sleep than is allowed, and thats when you get the infamous call. From 5 a.m. to 12 midnight almost every saturday during the school year debaters devote their time and effort to proving the validity of their statements and beliefs. They spent hours after school preparing counterattacks to any possible argument against there views. Orators, Interpers, Impromptu speakers and Extempers practice the delivery and content of their speeches. Finally after countless hours have been used preparing tournament time comes and off the teams goes to face another greuling day of intense competition. They start out with the first round of competition still feeling the effects of the early morning wake-up call. After that they are warmed up and ready to go, but so is every one else. One time friends, become bitter enemies and then after the round they are closer than they have ever been. The strange world of a debate tournament ends with break rounds and finals. All of the winners walk to their rounds to hopefully win a trophie. After all is said and done, awards ceremonies are over, and all of the evidence is on the bus, the triumphant Logan High team returns home. This year Logan High's debate team, for the second year in a row is first in region and are expected to sweep state yet again. Kim Coray, advanced debater, said, "It doesn't get any better than this.", and their record proves it.

Clubs, Clubs, Clubs!

Mr. Andersons Science Club is an alike group of students who enjoy working in science outside of the classroom. They study the works of Physics and Chemistry, and the life process of Biology and Physiology, and other theory regarding science. They participated in many exciting and sometimes dangerous experiments, such as the making of explosives and the exploding of the balloon above the football field.

All the assemblies, stage productions, and musicals are handled by the stage crew. They work long hard hours preparing the lights, microphones, and curtains.

Before each assembly or performance they must make sure the lighting is right and all the microphones are plugged in and working. All this may not sound like much, but it is a very hard and demanding job.

They also set up fundraisers to pay for new maps, posters, and books. Advisors are Mrs. Bacher, Mr. Paulus, and Mr. Allen. The club also raised money during the year to help sponsor their annual trip to Mexico.

The Key club is a service organization. It helps to serve both the school and the community. They raised money for charities and helped with other community activities. Key Club was supervised by Mr. Ballard and representatives were chosen from each class.

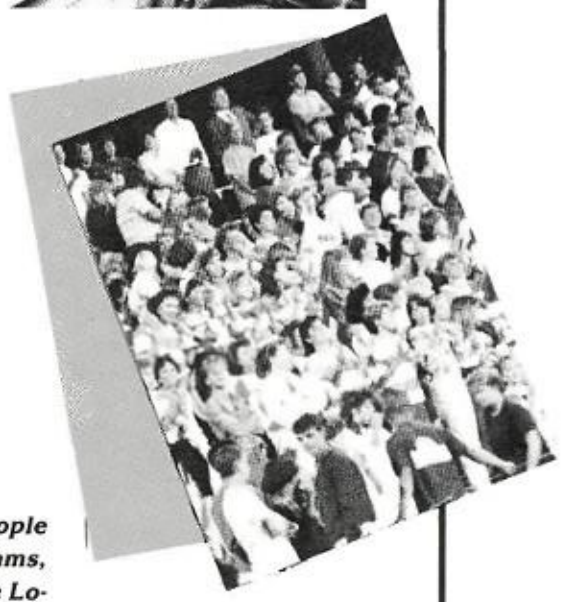
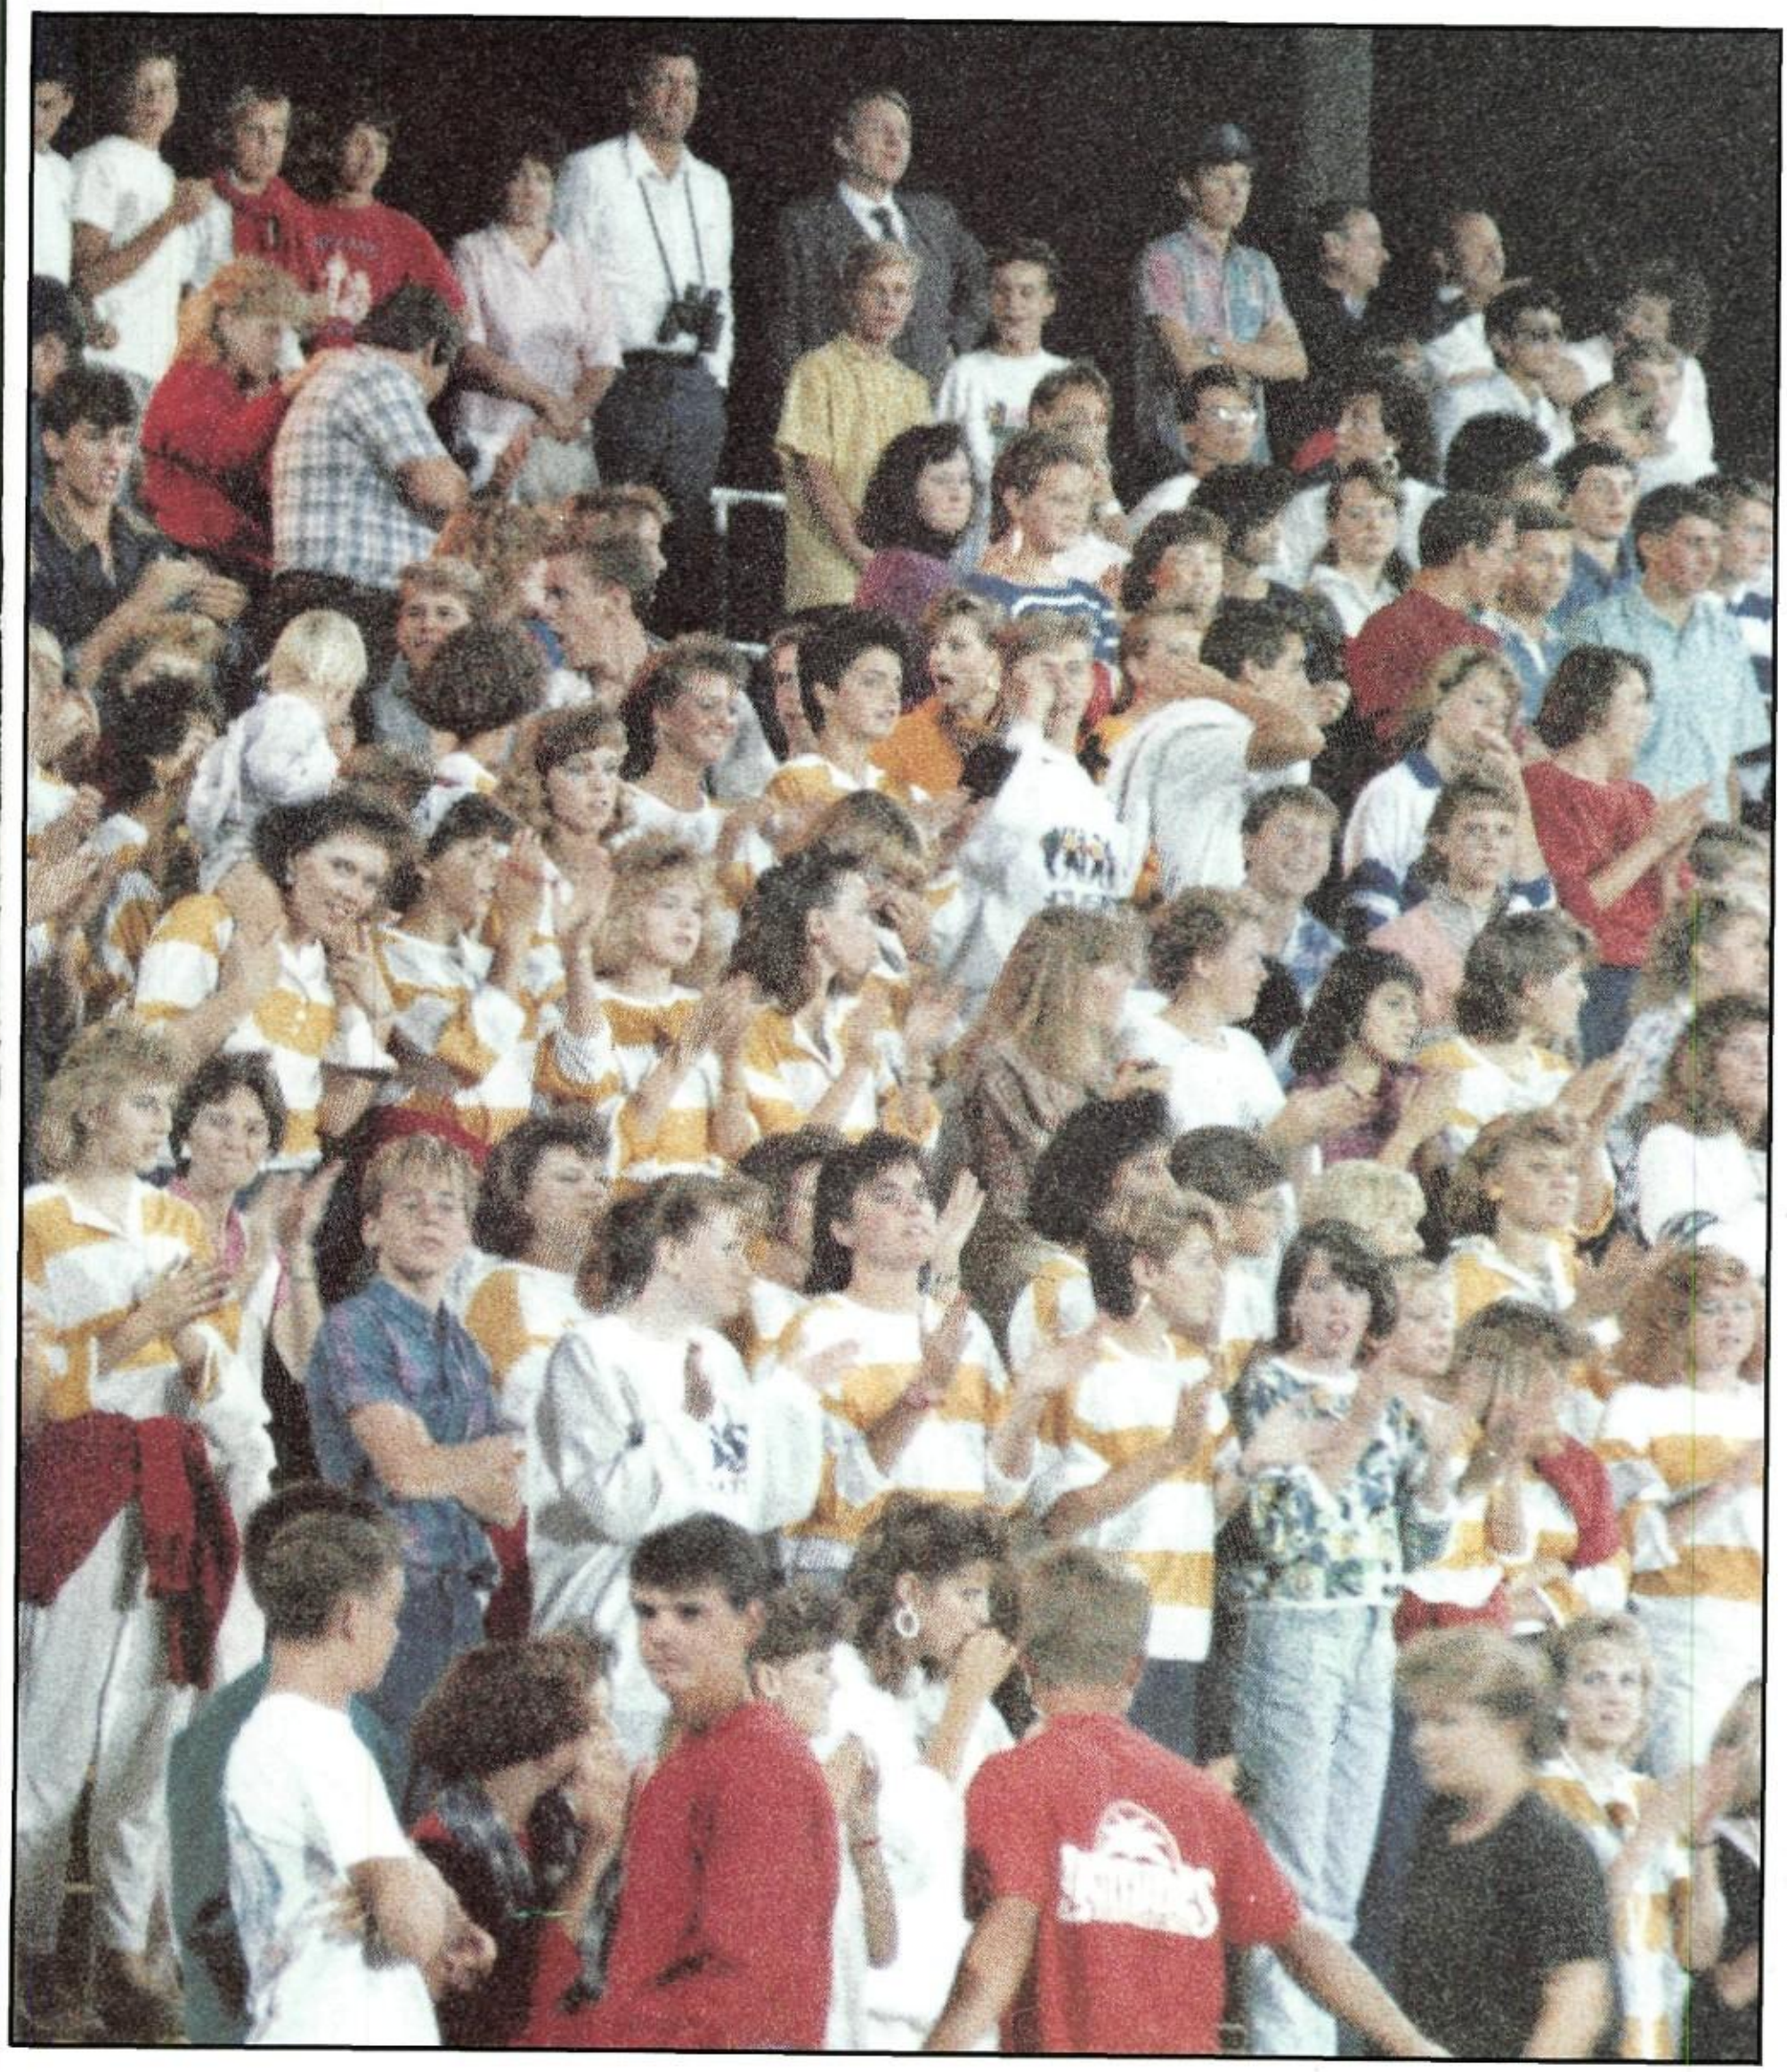
IT · TAKES · ALL Kinds of People

Students at Logan show much needed school pride and spirit. Individualistic style gave Logan an impressive difference that made it the best in all it did. Activities such as dances, assemblies, and school games brought students together and gave them a break from the pressures of studying.

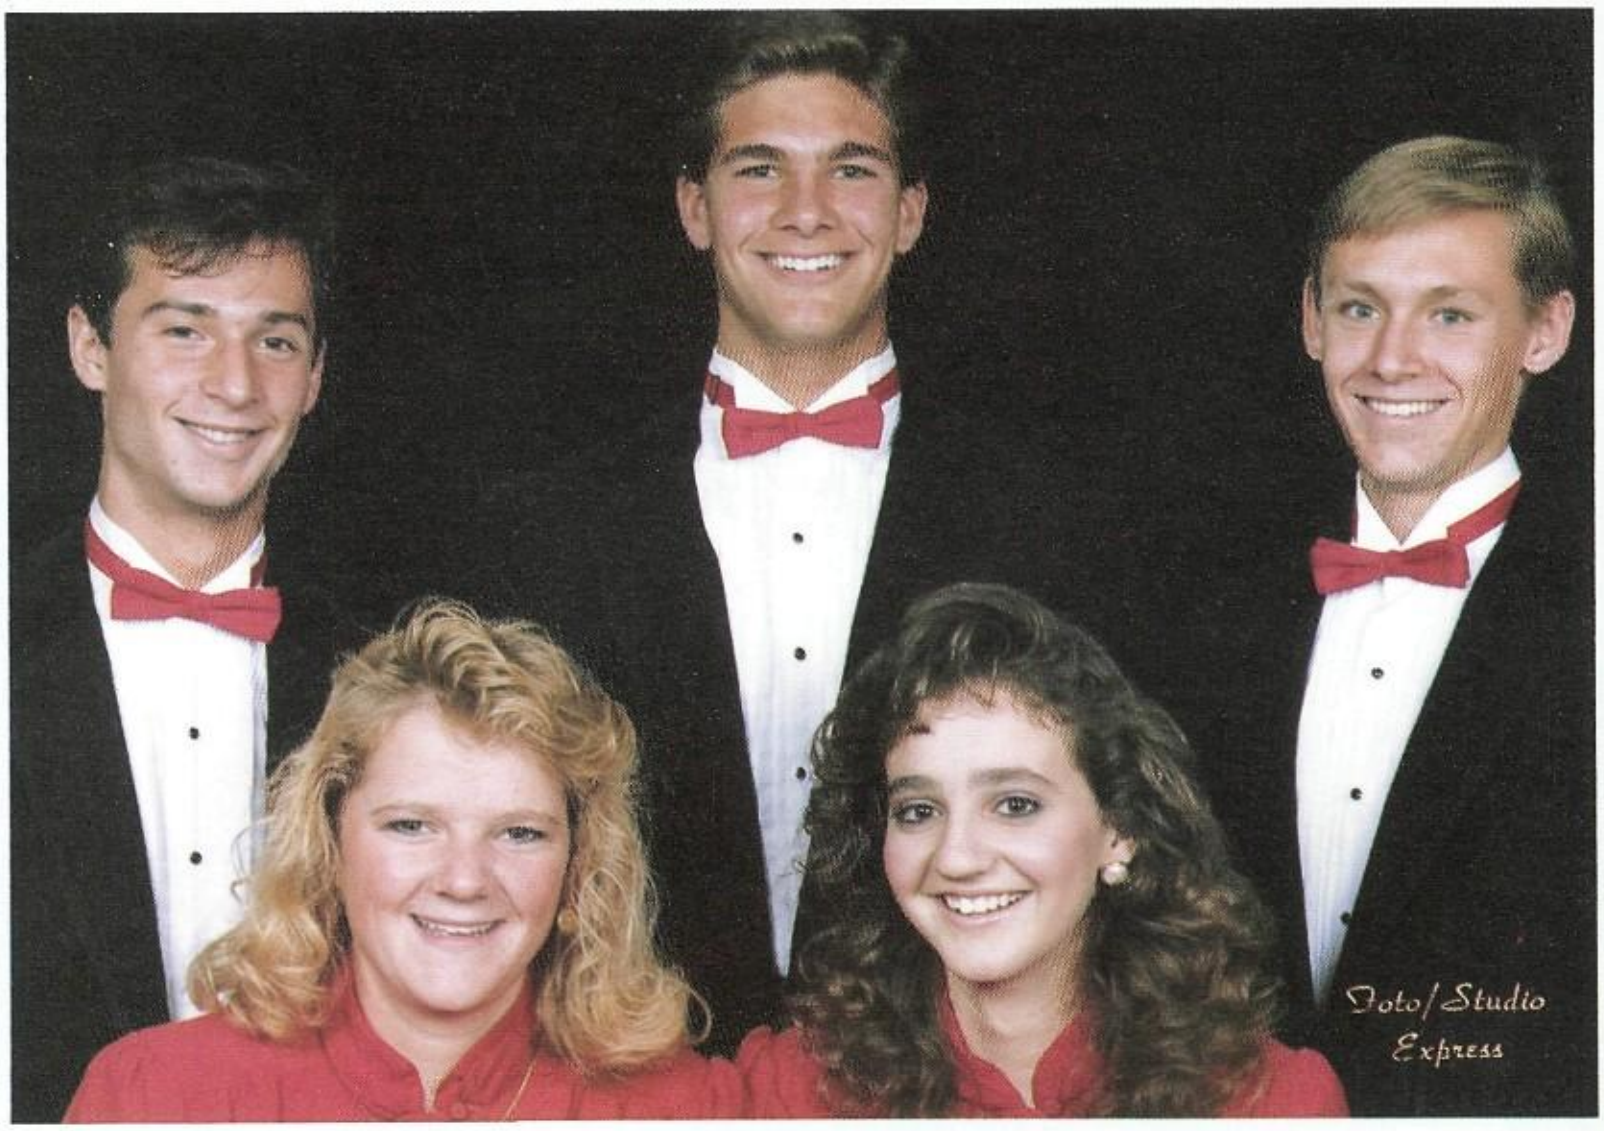


It takes all kinds of people whether it be crowds, teams, or just a student to make Logan High stand above the rest.



Grizzly spirit shines as the studentbody cheers their football team.

SENIORS



The Senior class officers put forth a grand effort this year to serve their class. Aside from making the first place float, they presented a very memorable "L" Banquet and Senior Ball.

Seniors Paint the Town RED!

A great Homecoming week was started when the Seniors painted the town. Monday morning at 6:30, various Seniors met in front of the Emporium to get their paint, and then they spread out along Logan's Mainstreet.

The windows of various mainstreet businesses were covered with numerous pictures and slogans, depicting the demize of the Sky View Bobcats. All, of course, were neatly painted so as not to upset the local merchants.

Most of the paint however didn't make it to the windows because of the huge paint fight that occurred. This only added to Senior advisor Stu Howell's unhappiness, as he ran up and down the street yelling "That irritates me!"

Paint the town was again a huge success and a lot of fun. Except for Saturday's cleanup.

Endowed Talent?

When homecoming week rolls around, and the town gets covered in paint you know that it is time again for the Brickettes. The Brickettes are a fun loving group of senior guys that dress up like girls and take the place of cheerleaders at the powder puff game.

Once again this year the Brickettes were a highpoint of homecoming. They performed during the halftime of the powder puff game, and at the pep assembly before the Sky View game.

Paul Fife was elected Powder Puff King and was officially crowned during the halftime of the game. Steve James was 1st attendant.

Call it a Draw

It was 6-6 That's right, this years Powder Puff game ended in a weather induced tie. After 3½ hard hitting quarters, with the rain coming down in sheets and streaks of lightning flashing across the sky, Mr. Olsen pulled the plug on the game. Much to the dismay of the players, coaches, and fans alike.

The controversy started on the first play of the game, when the Gold teams secret weapon was finally unveiled. A 6'8", 290 pound "girl" lined up and laid a series of crushing blocks on the Red defense, sending Tina Neiderhauser down the sidelines. But for unexplained reasons, sat out the rest of the game.

The first half ended dead locked at 0. The Red team came out fired up in the 2nd half and scored quickly when Angie Wimmer darted into the endzone on a reverse. The lead was shortlived however, when the Gold team's quarterback, Tina Neiderhauser, broke to the outside and sprinted down the sidelines for a 60 yard touchdown. Everyone had a great time and no one lost.

'87 Rules

The '87 class was filled with many different kinds of people. The class of '87 had many athletes. The basketball, football and baseball teams were excellent. The track, wrestling and volleyball teams were also successful.

The class of '87 had the best debaters in the state. They finished at the top of all the competitions, and they took state with a wide margin.

This senior class was filled with writers, painters, sculptors, and leaders. All of these different kinds of people came together to make the class of 1987 the best ever.

Beverly Nelson kicks her shoes off and takes a breather.

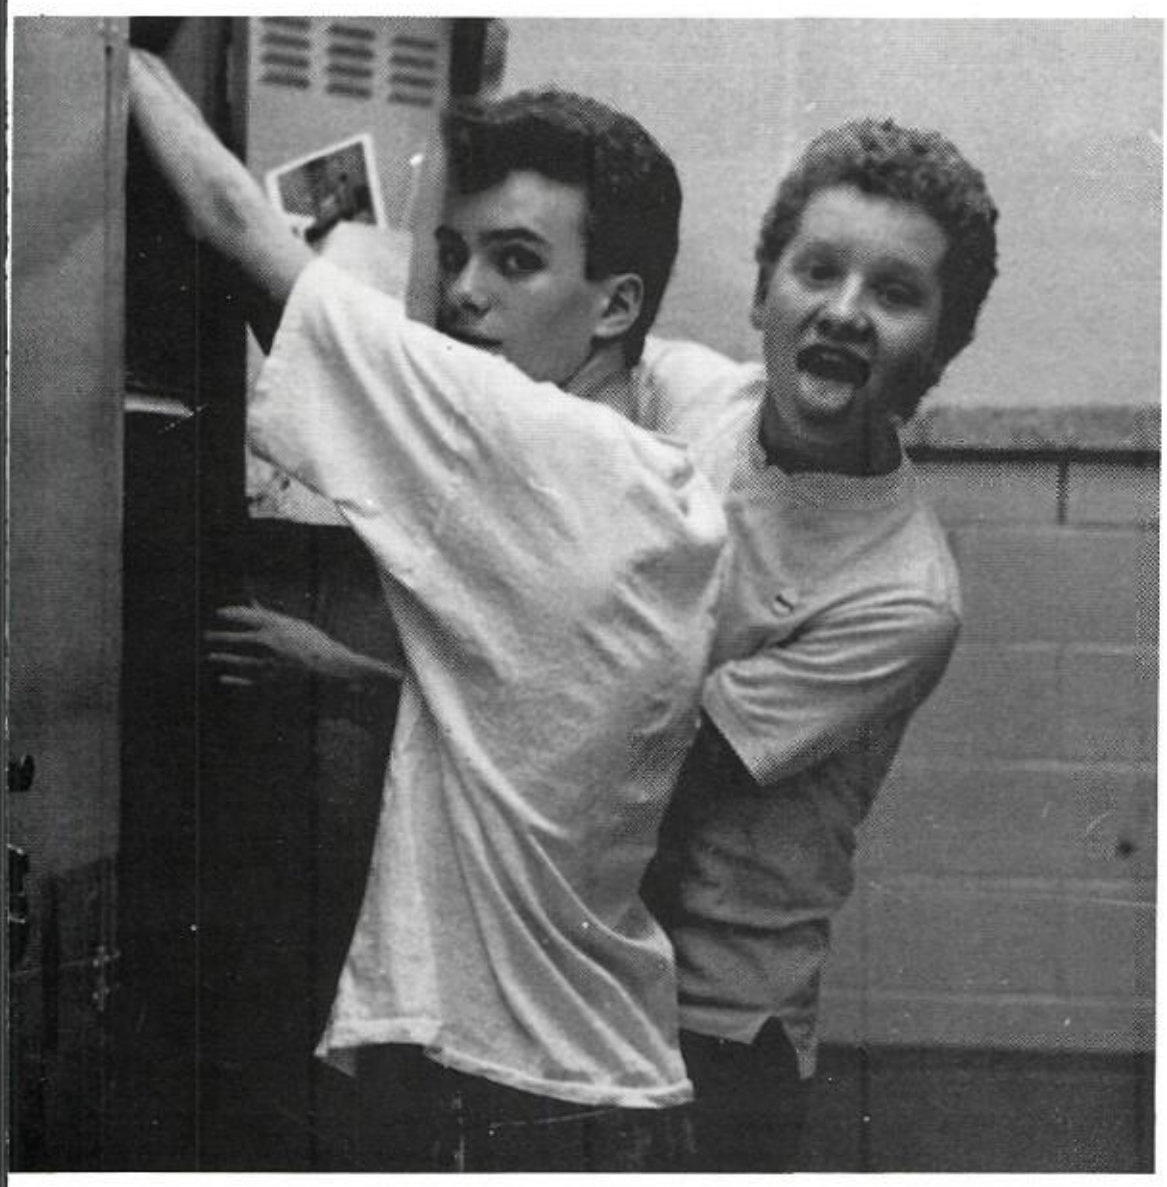
TRANSPORTATION

The studentbody at Logan High arrives to school in many different ways. Some are transported by the school bus. (Usually freshmen!) Others come with friends, parents or in their own car. Some live close enough to walk and then there are a few proud who walk to avoid the humiliation of the school bus.
Wether you arrive by car or bus the main object of transportation is to get you to school. (On time if at all possible!)



These Freshmen don't seem to realize that the photographer is a senior.

Sometimes after school the day gets worse. You have to ride the bus.

Scott Rich and Stephanie Richardson have fun with gloves. (Their only Juniors what can you expect!)

Look at those Juniors!!

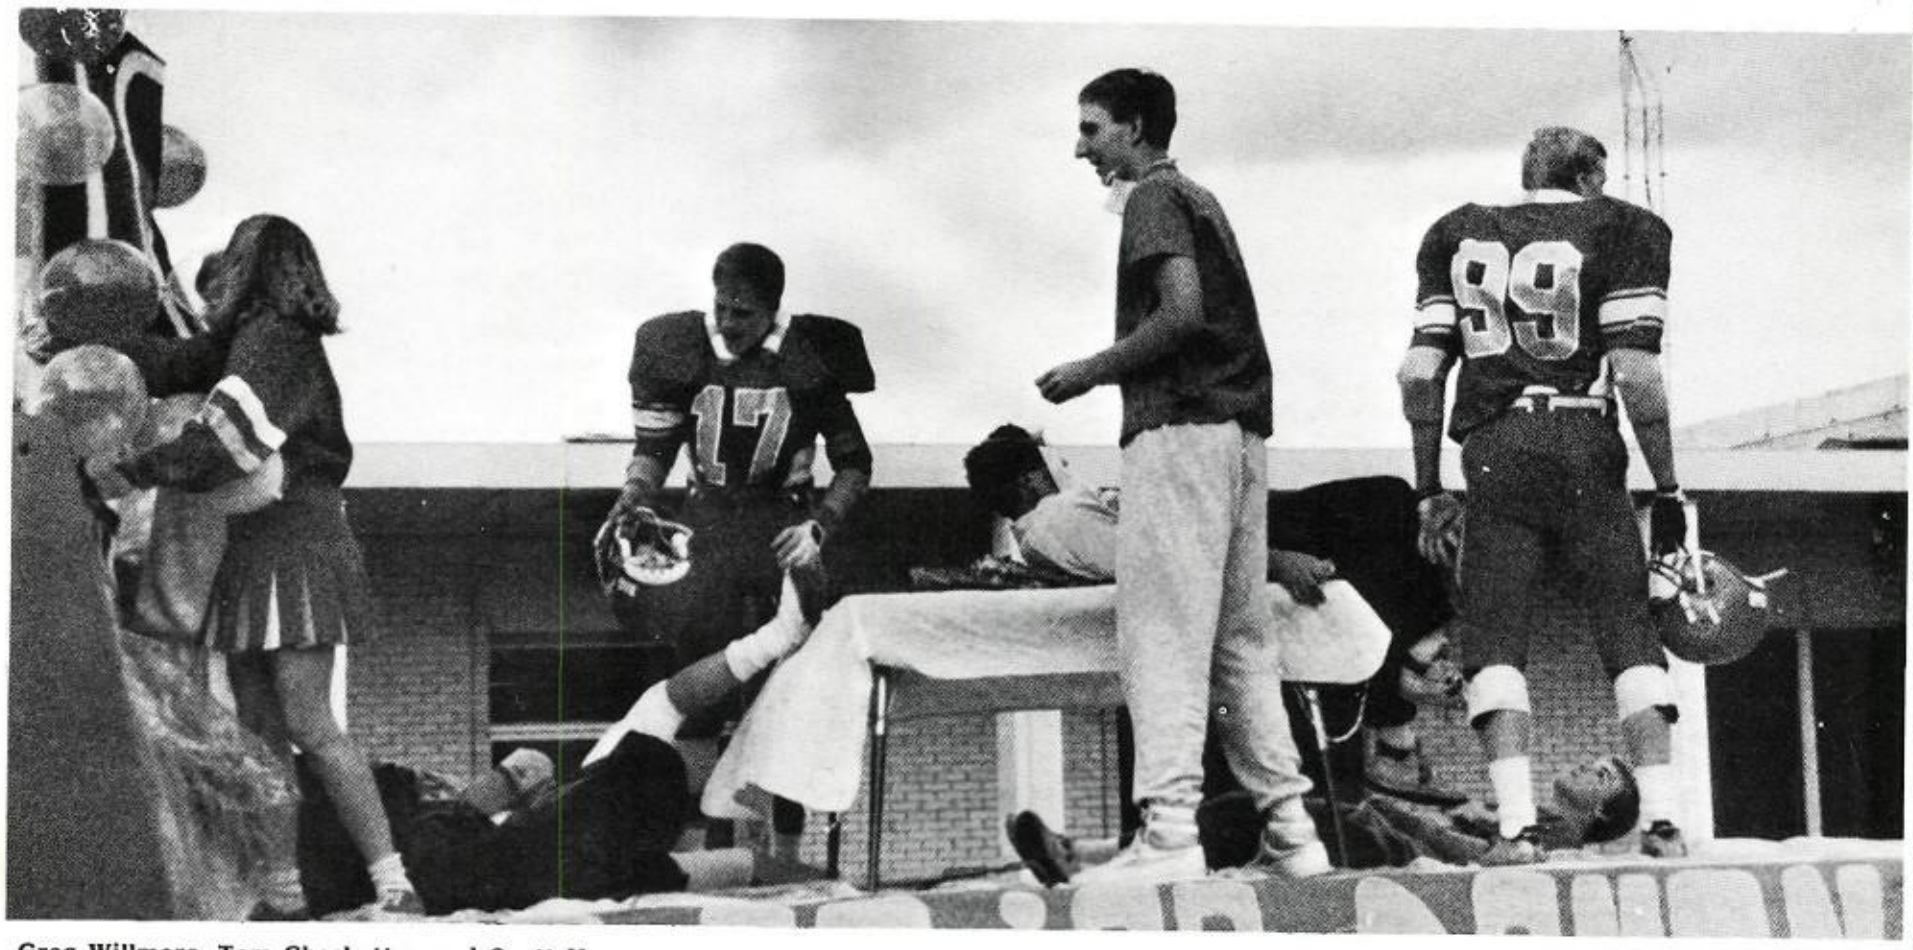
It takes ALL Juniors for the Homecoming Parade!

The Junior Class officers made 1986-1987 great for the Juniors. They worked hard all year to raise funds for their various activities. During Homecoming week they worked hard on their float that really added a lot to the parade. Their main event was Junior Prom which was held in March. These officers did a great job and we appreciate them.



Greg Willmore, Tom Checkettes and Scott Hymas can operate on main street.

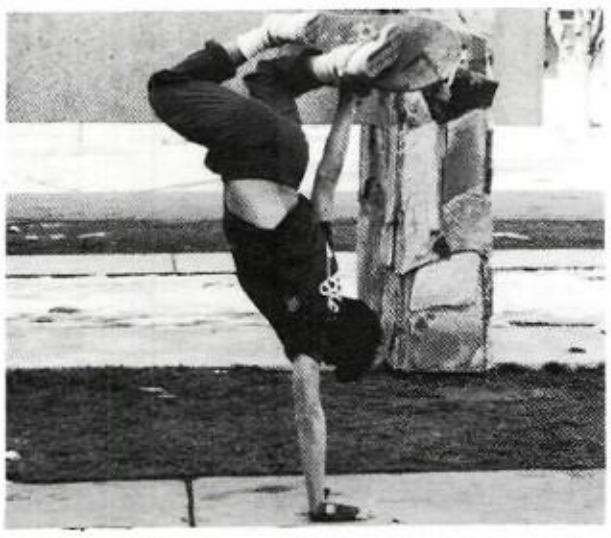
Methods of

TRANSPORTATION

Student get on the ever reliable bus.



Skateboarding, a popular way to get around.

The transportation system here at Logan High is one of a unique quality. It contains seven different buses that transport Logan High students to and from school, a variety of cars driven by students, and unique individuals who ride skateboards.

The bus is the most common way for Freshman and a few Sophomores to get to school. It comes to get you anytime between 7:20 am, 10 minutes early, and 7:50 am, 20 minutes late. Once the student gets on the bus if most of the seats are taken, this means that bus seats were on sale today! What a bargain. The bus arrives at school approxametly 20 minutes after it picks one up. Then the horrid reality of people finding out that you actually ride the bus is coming true. But only if you don't duck and run as fast as you can away from the awful piece of junk!!!!!!

The upperclassmen, Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors, seldom have to face this reality. A wide variety of cars are driven, from a Mercedes to something like a old yellow bomb on wheels that distracts beauty from our school.

The newest and sometimes most hazardous way to get to school is on a skateboard usually riden by trendy Freshman.

It didn't really matter how one got to school, as long as one got there.

FRESH FACES

You hover in the dark knowing it's out there waiting for you. All the blankets are pulled over your head as you try to pretend it's only a nightmare that has awakened you, but you know it is a Monday.

After delaying it as long as possible you roll out of bed, stumble into the bathroom, and see that first frightening glimpse of yourself. Now you know for sure that his could only be the beginning of another long week at schoo-l. As you enter the school you realize you're not the only one that obviously doesn't want to be here. You notice that your friends are only half conscious as you sit down beside them waiting for the first bell.

During your first hour you decide you might as well make the best of it and fall asleep with your face in your text book. You're vaguely aware of whats going on and only lift your head once to tell the teacher you are studying. When the bell rings you make that long journey to the door thinking you only have four more classes to go.

Maia Brindley does not want her picture taken too badly.

EXCUSES EXCUSES

Excuses for tardies and absences really spark the imagination of the average high school student. The same student who sits for days trying to think of a subject for their creative writing assignment can, on a moments notice, think up the most creative excuse without even flinching! The excuses range from "My dog was exercising and had a heart attack so we had to take him to the vet", to "the power went off at my house so I couldn't curl my hair." Believe it or not there are a few legitimate excuses for being absent and tardy. Your locker was jammed, the person you have been dreaming of finally talks to you, you are sick, it's the opening day of Beaver, Alta, Snowbird, or Powder Mountain, it's the closing day of Beaver, Alta, Snowbird, or Powder Mountain, or your mom lends you her credit card.

"I've told you time and time again not to sluff class."

DAY-DREAMING

You are out in a grassy field having a picnic with the person of your dreams. The red and white checkered cloth is spread, the fryed chicken is out, and the Kool-aid is chilled. The shade of the Oak tree keeps you cool in the noon heat. Your sweetie looks into your eyes, takes hold of your hand, and gently whispers into your ear that his love for is never ending. The sound of his voice sends chills down your spine. You feel confident and secure all over. You decide it's time for a rest. You see yourself drifting into Never-Never land, his breath on your neck makes you feel warm through and through. You open your eyes, his is looking at you admiringly. He draws closer to you. Could it be that he is finally going to . . .

Carolyn! Carolyn Brown! Are you going to join us today! Yes Carolyn, here in the good ol' U.S. of A!

Oh, Ms. Jones you're still there. I'm really sorry. You see I was just contemplating the ratio . . .

I'm sure you were. Now Carolyn, if you want to pass this class you'll have to stop this business immediately!

Yes Ms. Jones.

Meanwhile, back in Tokerville, you begin to drift again. He is so close you can feel the heat from his body. Or maybe that was just a heat wave. But in mid July?

Carolyn! Earth to Carolyn! "Beam me up Scottie!"

Ralph Wanless tries to learn his homework by osmosis.

Paul Lei wonders why he's at school when he could be home asleep.

Freshmen Follies

One of the biggest problems for the freshman class was figuring out the Logan High traditions. They needed to learn that when a free throw is about to be made that their fingers go into an L for good luck. If that wasn't enough to confuse them, they had all of the dances and their customs to keep straight. Who are "Wacky Women" and why do they run? Why is a dance called PROM spelled backwards? And . . . what kind of clothes do you wear to each dance? The stomps were usually what the freshmen attended, because they didn't need dates. No longer did they have to be segregated, but they could socialize. (Now only if they knew how.) The greatest feat in handling Logan High is knowing your way through the attendance office. They had to discover which excuses worked and how to bribe. But last and foremost when they have figured out the trimester system and use it to their advantage, these freshmen become true Grizzlies.

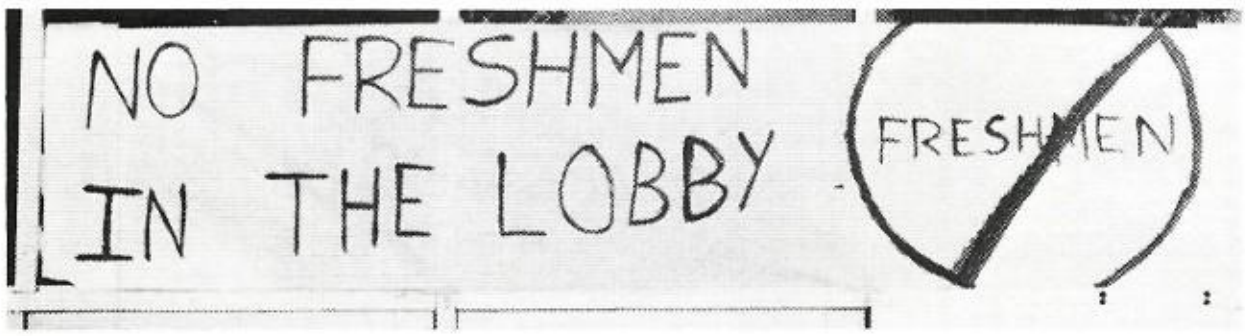
IN THE BEGINNING

High school for those cocky eighth graders at Mt. Logan Middle School was just a stepping stone to greatness. Its a darn shame they had to find truth the hard way. Their introduction began with a comical, yet accurate, account of a day in the life of a freshman. The studentbody officers filmed, produced, and starred in a video which was taken to the middle school to scare them. Summer, in the freshman's case, was spent preparing their folders, pencils, and defensive actions. Registration was just the beginning of their confusion. Thinking they had mastered lockers in middle school, they tackled the notorious red lockers. When school began for real, and the giant looking Seniors reigned things did not look good. Most of the freshmen were worn out before the first bell rang. The front doors were off limits to these youngins. After the first greuling week of classes, they were treated with a little human respect, but not much.



Seniors display their pleasure at having freshmen in the school.

The Freshman class officers have got the right idea so far.

These Freshman are getting all wet!

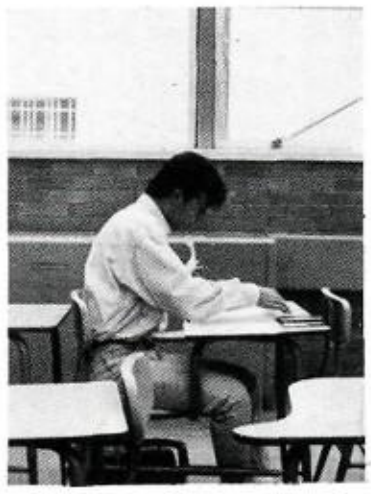
Even freshmen love a parade

Susie's first homecoming parade. Remember when she was just a wee little girl, dear?

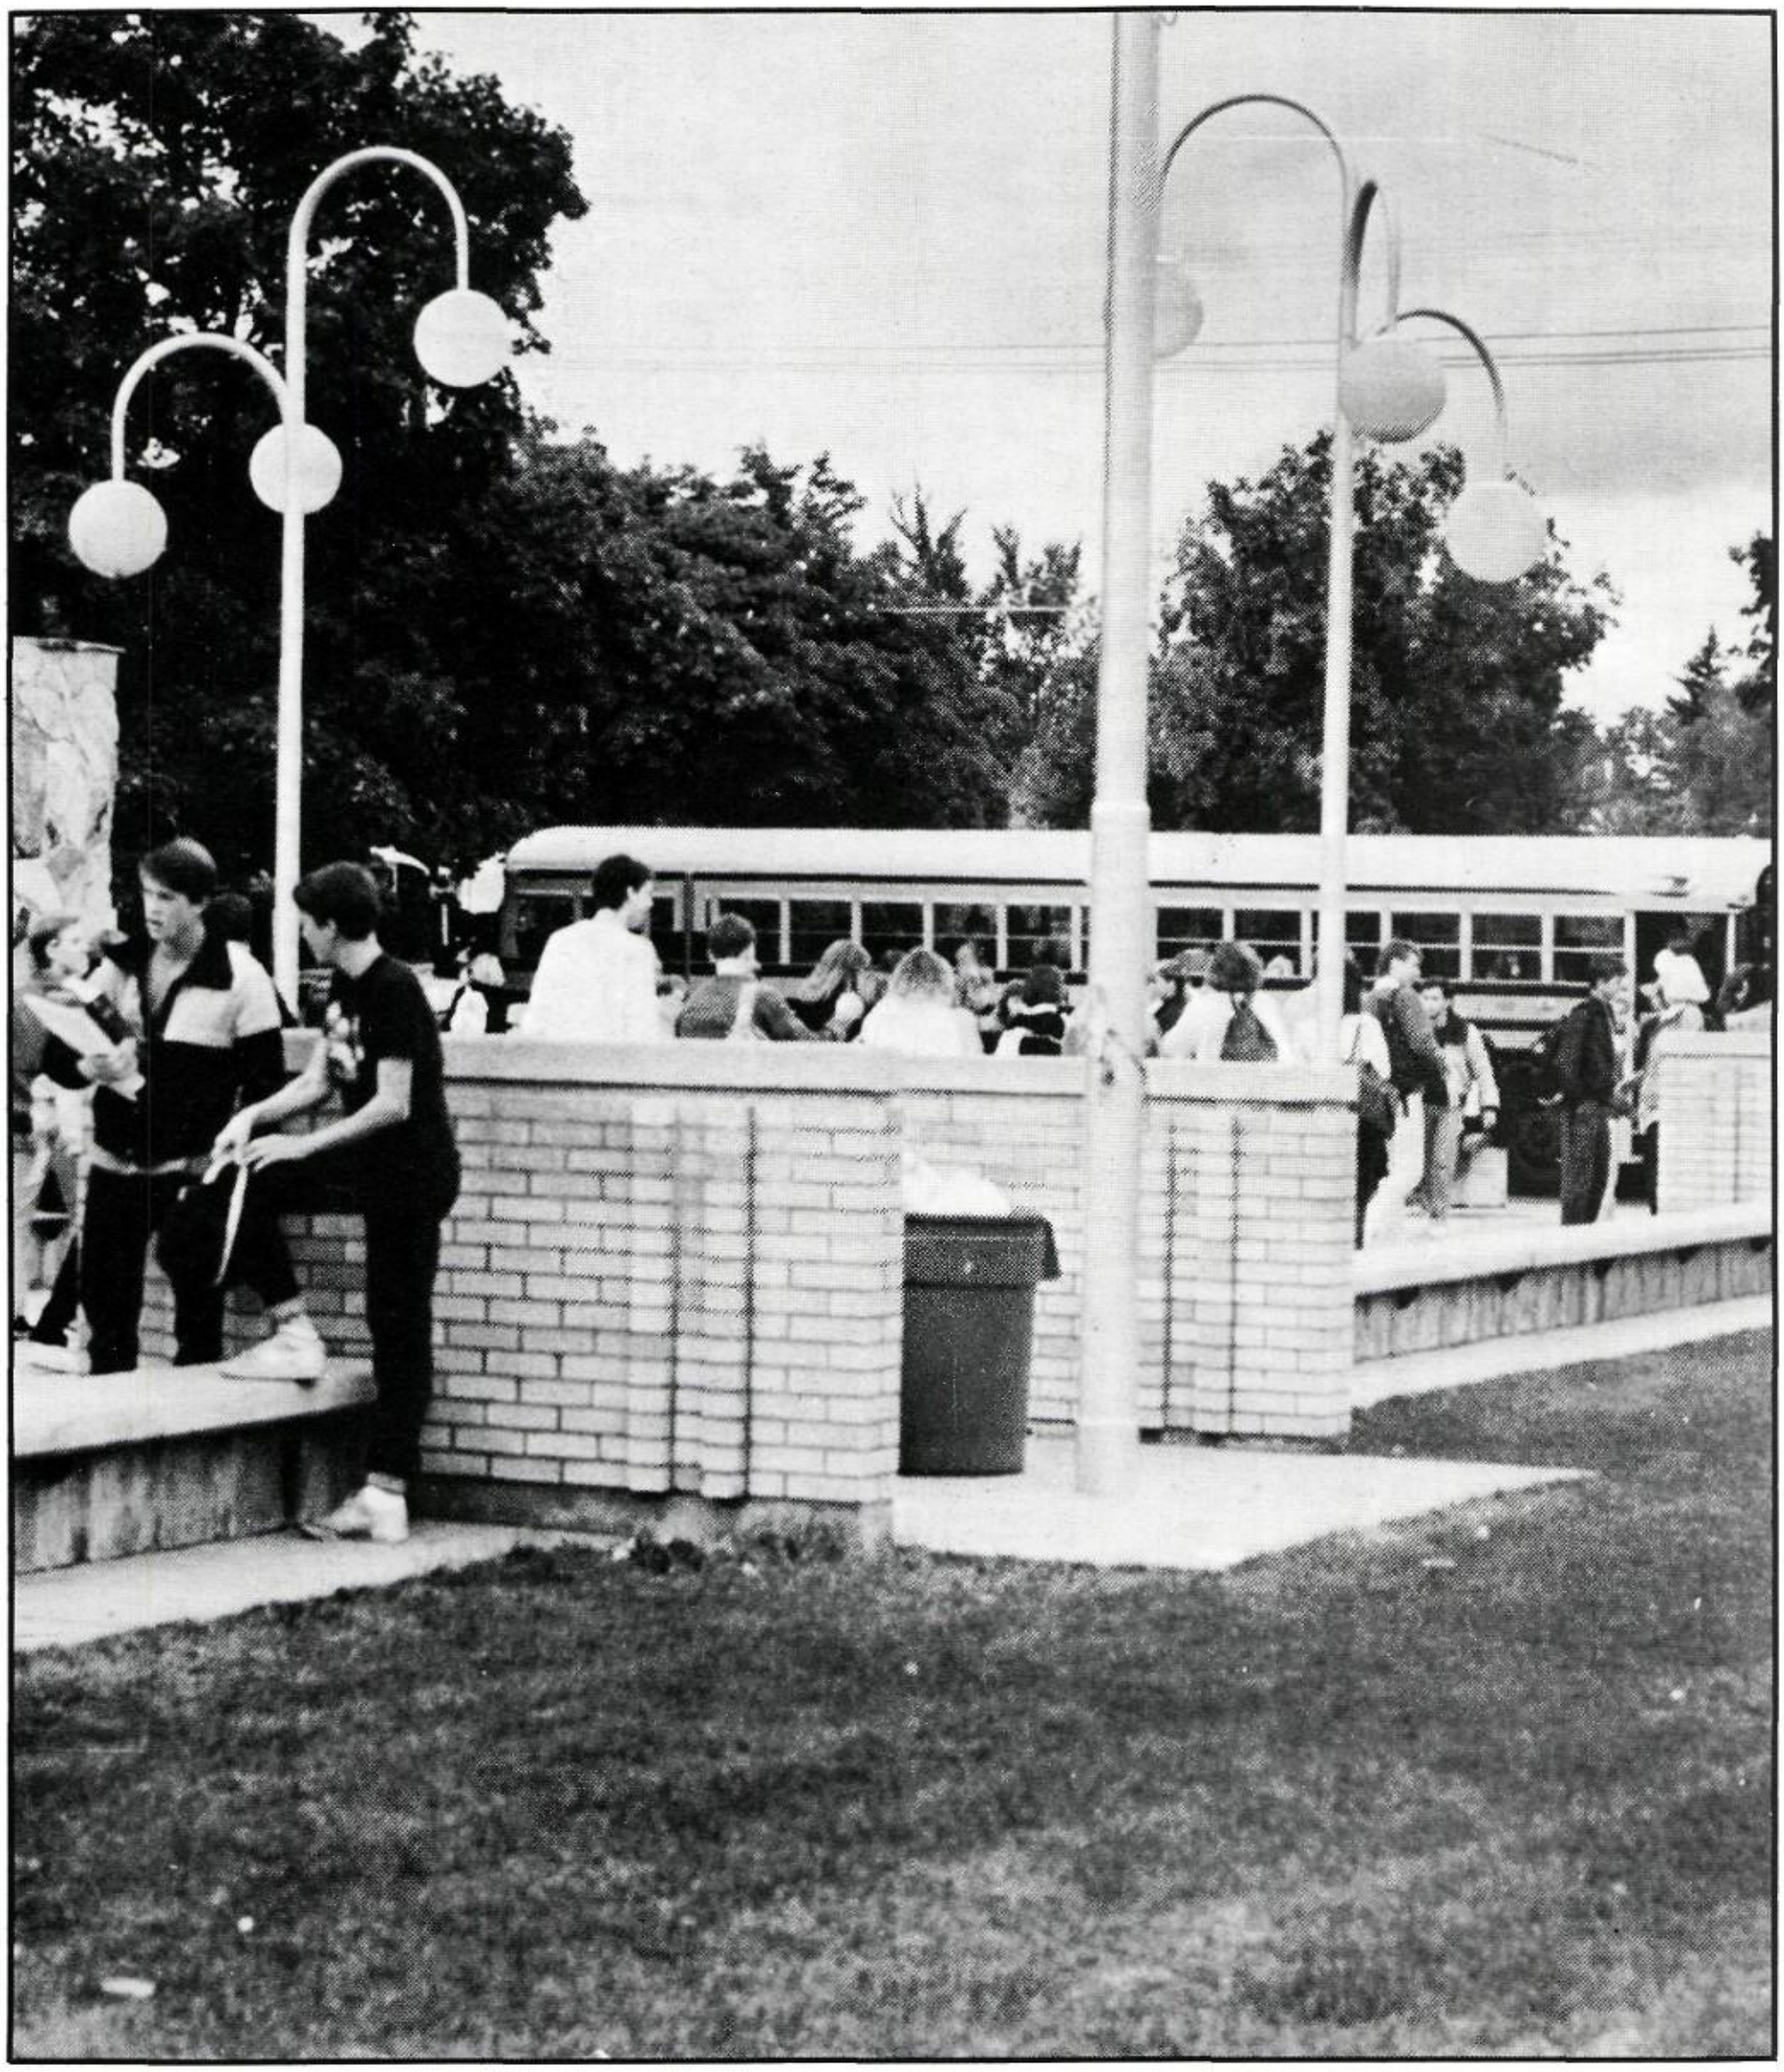
Yes, this was their first Homecoming. And festive little freshmen they were! They contributed the weeks activities by participating in the parade, wearing red and gold, and being an all around spirited class.

IT · TAKES · ALL Kinds of Knowledge

Students at Logan High spent a great many hours studying to keep up their grades. Homework kept many students up late into the night so they could learn the material teachers assigned to them. Teachers also spent much of their time preparing for classes and correcting papers. All of the work put in by students and faculty members gave Logan High the academic edge it needed.



It takes all kinds of teachers, students, and classes to make an excellent academic program.



A typical after school scene at Logan High.

School Board

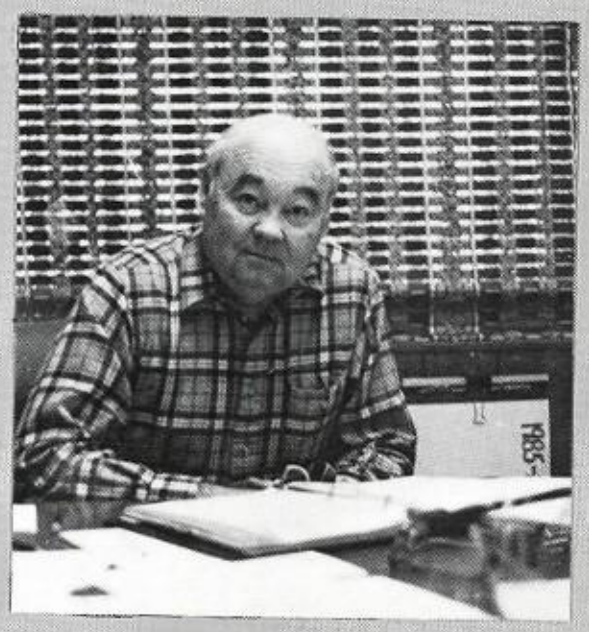
More than just elected officials

This years school board consisted of seven members who worked long and hard to make sure things went as smoothly as possible for we students and administration here at Logan High.

The boards job was never done. Issues and problems just kept coming up. They also made decisions on how to spend the money brought into the district by the sale of bonds. Thanks to the board, it was a great year for all.

Superintendent, Dr. James C. Blair enjoys the sun.

Bob Williams contemplates another budget cut from the state.



Sitting: Dr. John Emmett, Joann Wimmer. Standing: Dr. James C. Blair, Eugene Needham, Dr. Malcolm Allred, Dr. Ron Peterson, Robert B. Williams.

Principals

Leadership

With A Smile

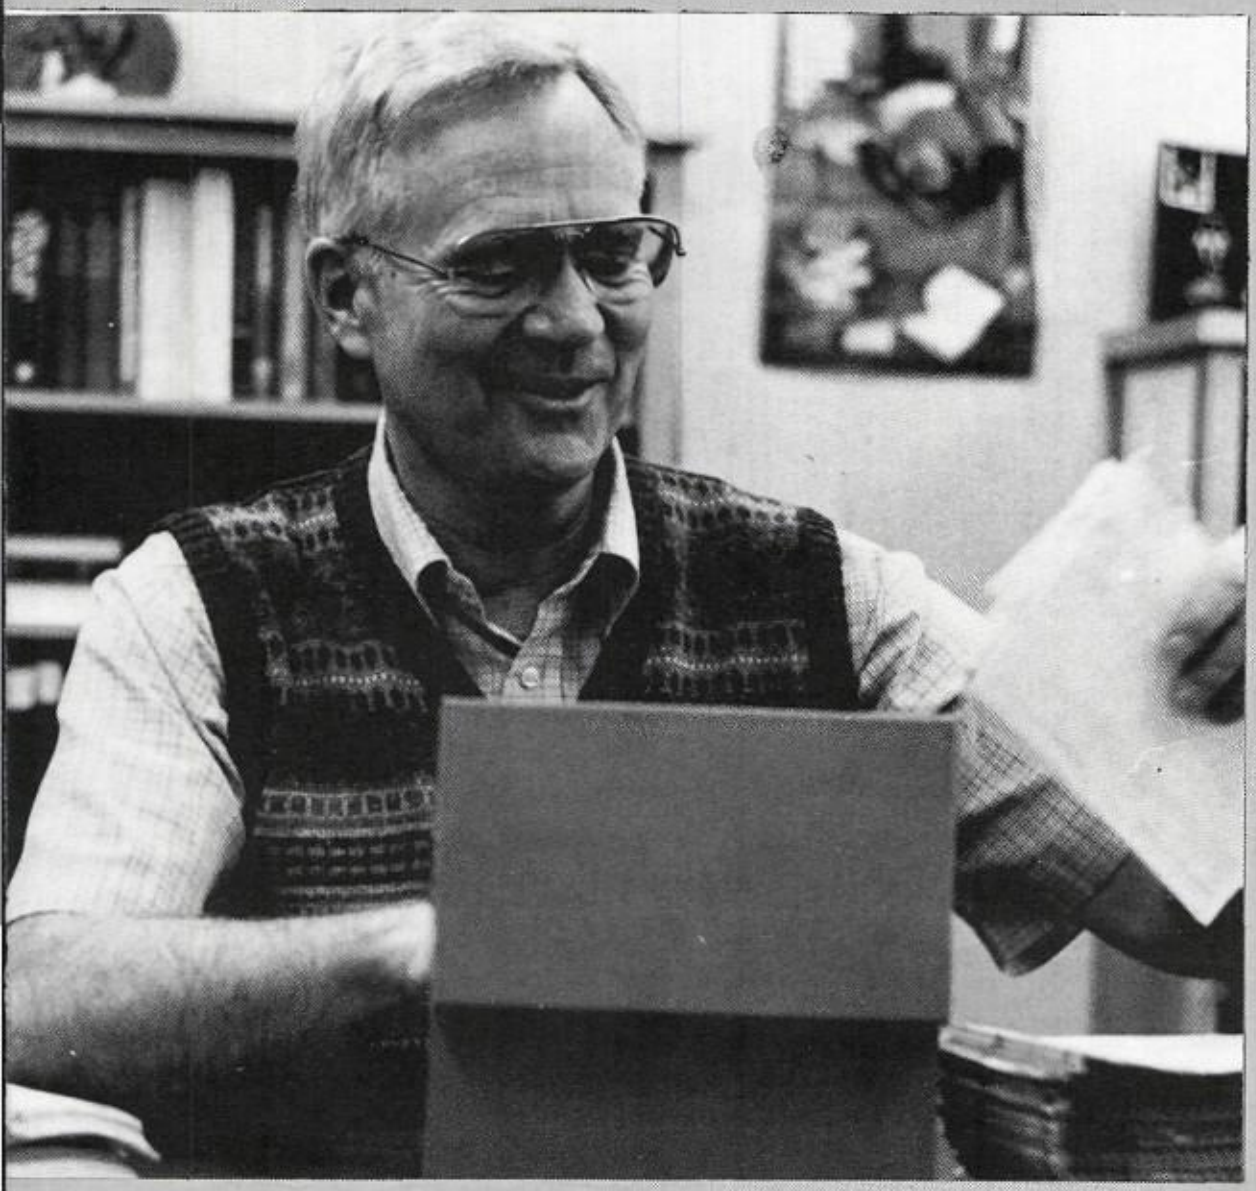
Discipline, school activities, important decisions, answering questions, and helping students were just a few of the duties the administrator at Logan High performed.

Principal Rulon Olsen and Vice Principal Larry Haslam both maintained a great attitude about the school throughout the entire year.

In his eleventh year as principal, Rulon Olsen attributed the growing success of the school to the joint effort of the studentbody, parents, and faculty.

Mr. Haslam takes great interest in the needs of the students and helping them with personal problems, as does Mr. Olsen.

Together they work to make Logan High the great school that it is.



Mr. Haslam looks excitedly through the student's grades.

Mr. Olsen listens closely to concerns of the students and faculty.

Mr. Olsen and Mr. Haslam take a quick break from their everyday duties.

Secretaries
At Your Service

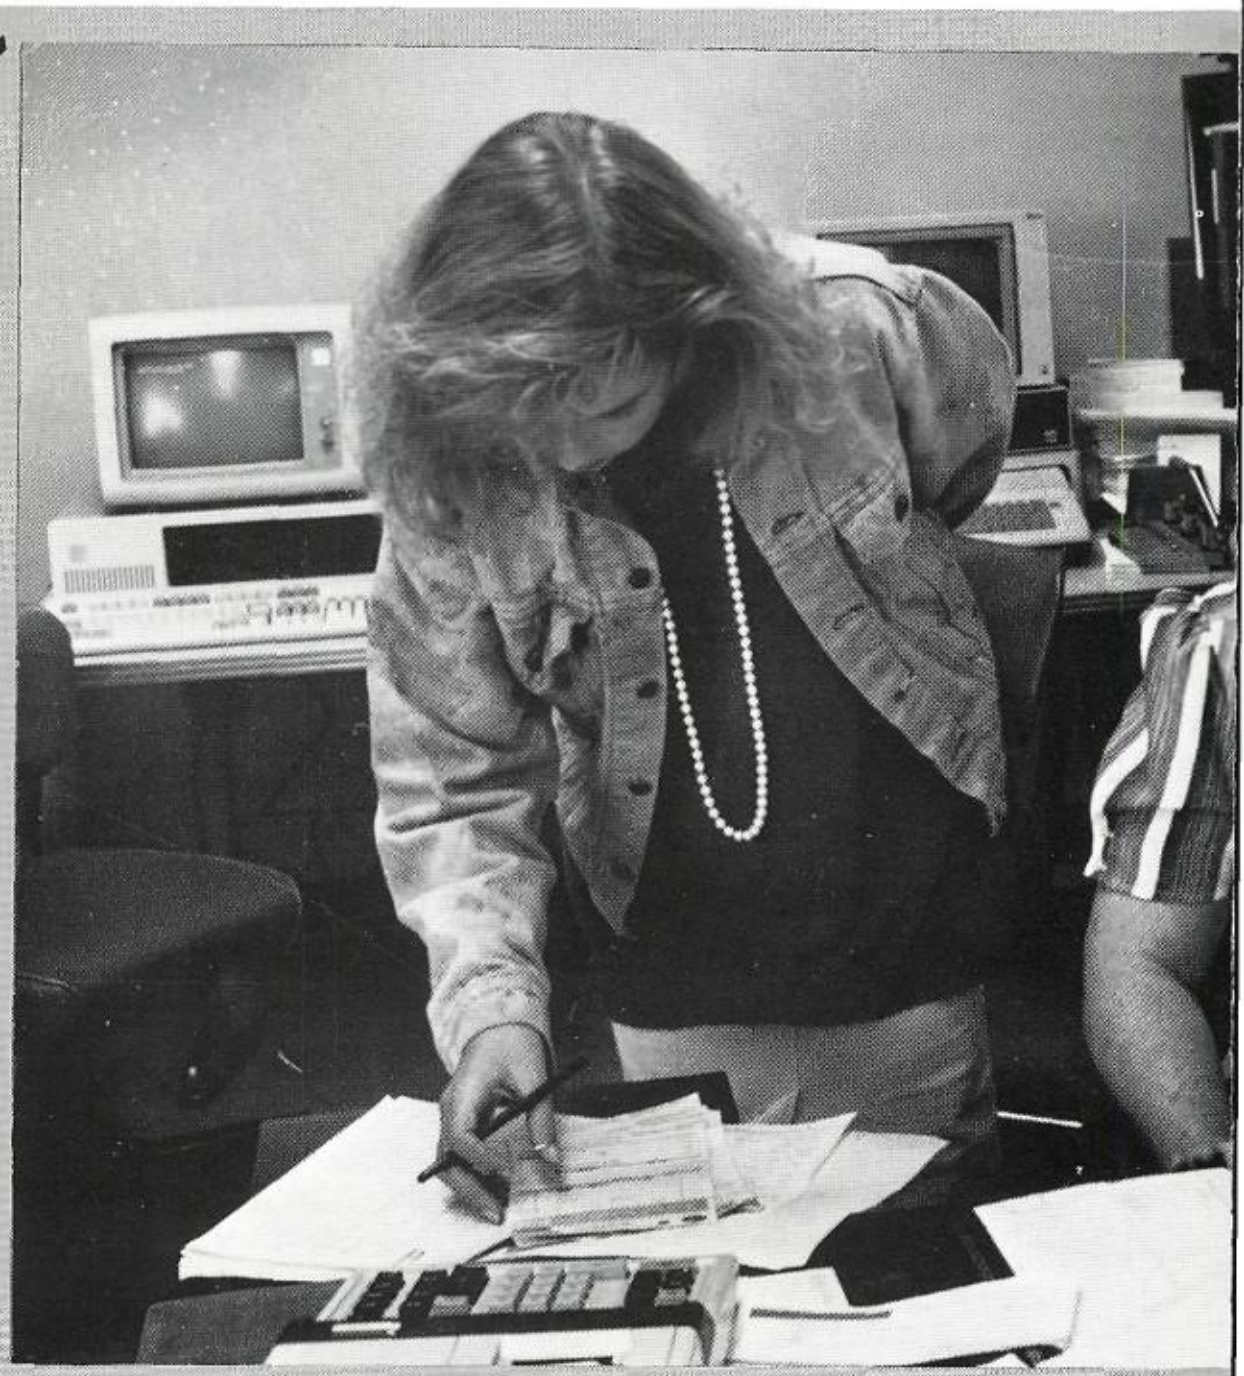
Secretary: 1a. One interested with secrets or confidences of a superior. b. One considered to know the secrets of God or nature or to have penetrated other mysteries (like attendance or Mr. Olsen's schedule). 2. One employed to handle correspondance and manage routine and detailed work for a superior. 3. An officer of a business concerned with who may issue notices and keep records.

The secretaries here at Logan attend to the above mentioned tasks and much more than a single mind can think of. All of their time is spent trying to please principals, students, and teachers. They spend many hours at the typewriter turning out announcements, schedules, and letters to parents.



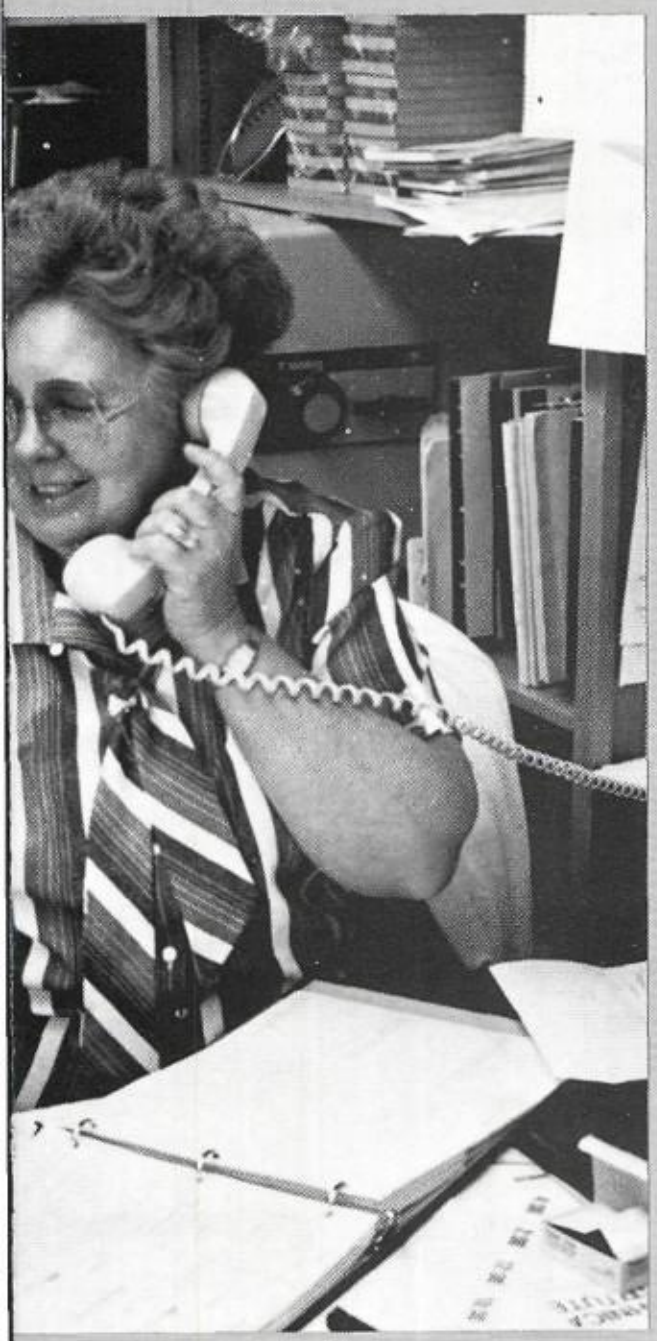
Is Mrs. Russell really talking business or is it her husband?

Mrs. Luccerini tries to tell Bill Both that she knows it isn't his mom.

Counselors

Guidance

With Class



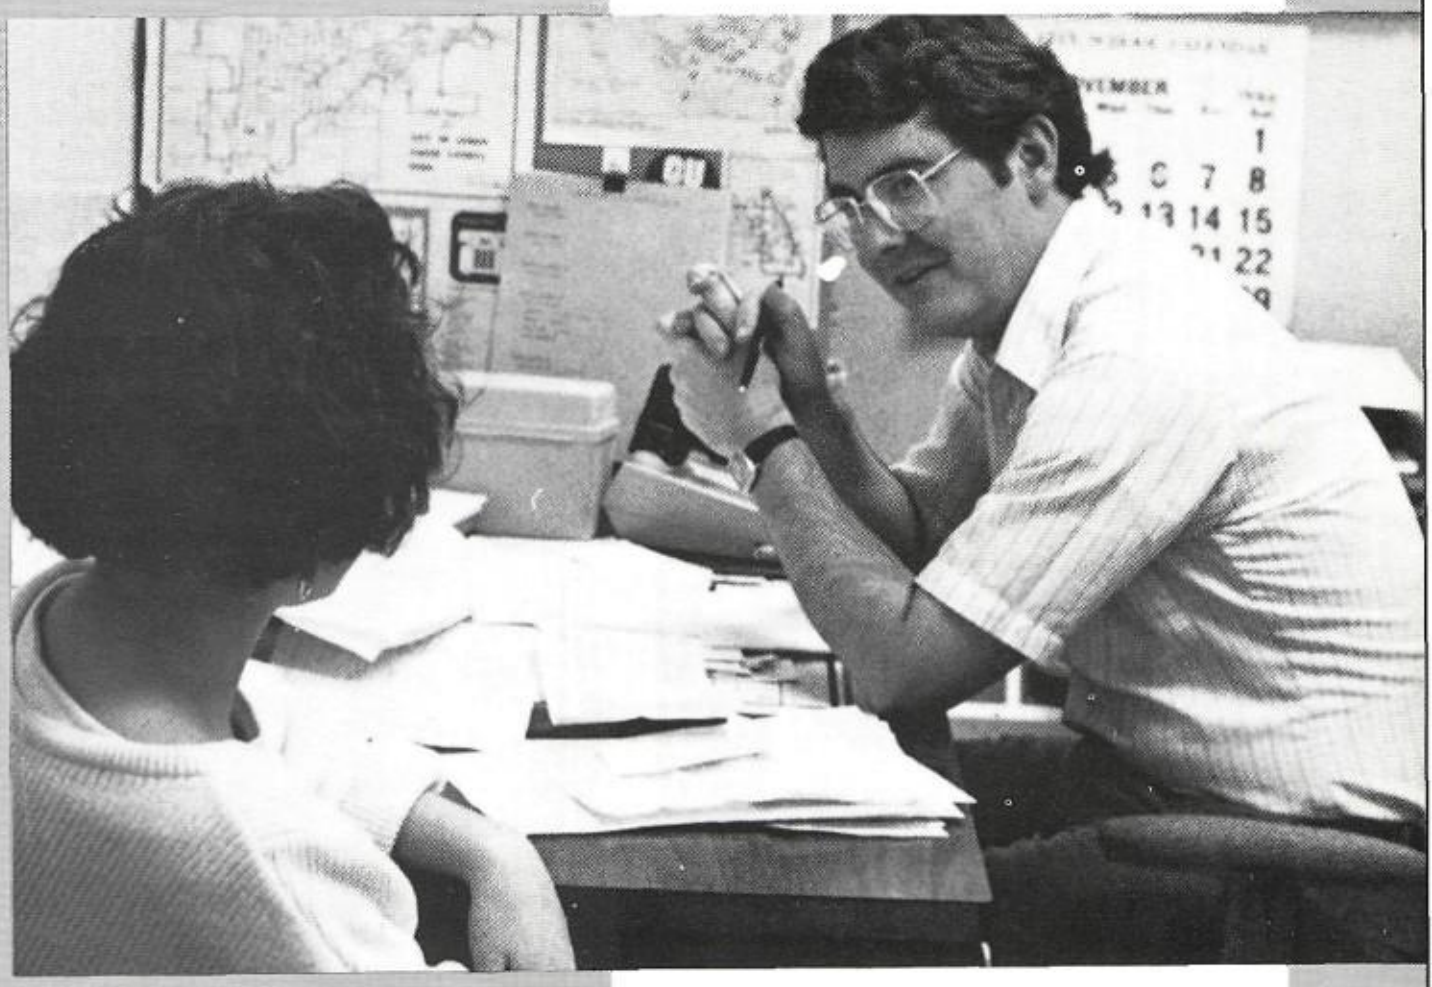
Mrs. Tripp and Maia Brindley do something very top secret.

"Humor me," says Mrs. Wallentine.

Counselor, sounsellor: 1. A person who counsels; adviser. 2. A person in charge of a group of children at a camp.

Mr. Ballard and Mrs. Wallentine fit the definition of a counselor well. They do what is defined plus managing scheduling for students and helping them find part time jobs.

Mrs. Wallentine helps the students find and take classes that will help them in college and in their career choice. Mr. Ballard works mostly with the underclassmen and helps them get settled in to their new school. Mrs. Hill, the counselors secretary, does a lot of paperwork for the counselors, she helps hand out grades and helps students in registrating for school.



Mr. Ballard explains to Elena that an A- really isn't a good reason to transfer out.

Maintaining an Army

The cooks have a very tough job. They come to work early in the morning, put on the aprons, and immediatly begin to prepare a meal for a army of over 1000. This in itself is a very tough job. They must make the food, serve it, clean up after the students, and many more kitchen oriented jobs.

Their job not only includes cooking but also serving and cleaning.

Cleaning is also the subject for the janitors. They are responsible for keeping the whole school clean. They have to clean up the lunchtime litter twice a day. After school is when their job really begins. They must vacuum the lobby, sweep the halls, vacuum ar sweep the classrooms, and clear the hallways. Many times they are opening jammed lockers and locked classrooms.

Both the cooks and janitors do a really great job for us at Logan High.

COOKS: Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Galloway, Marieta Sanchez, Devonna Roberts, Betty Cook, LaRue Koeven, Andrea Johnson, Coralee Clark.

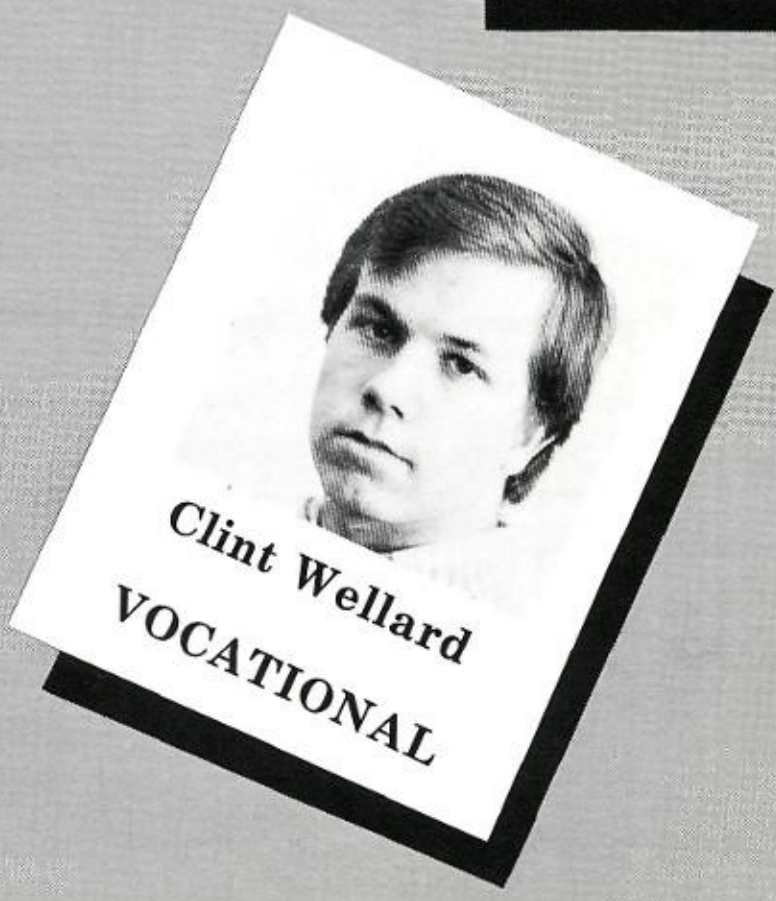
GENERAL

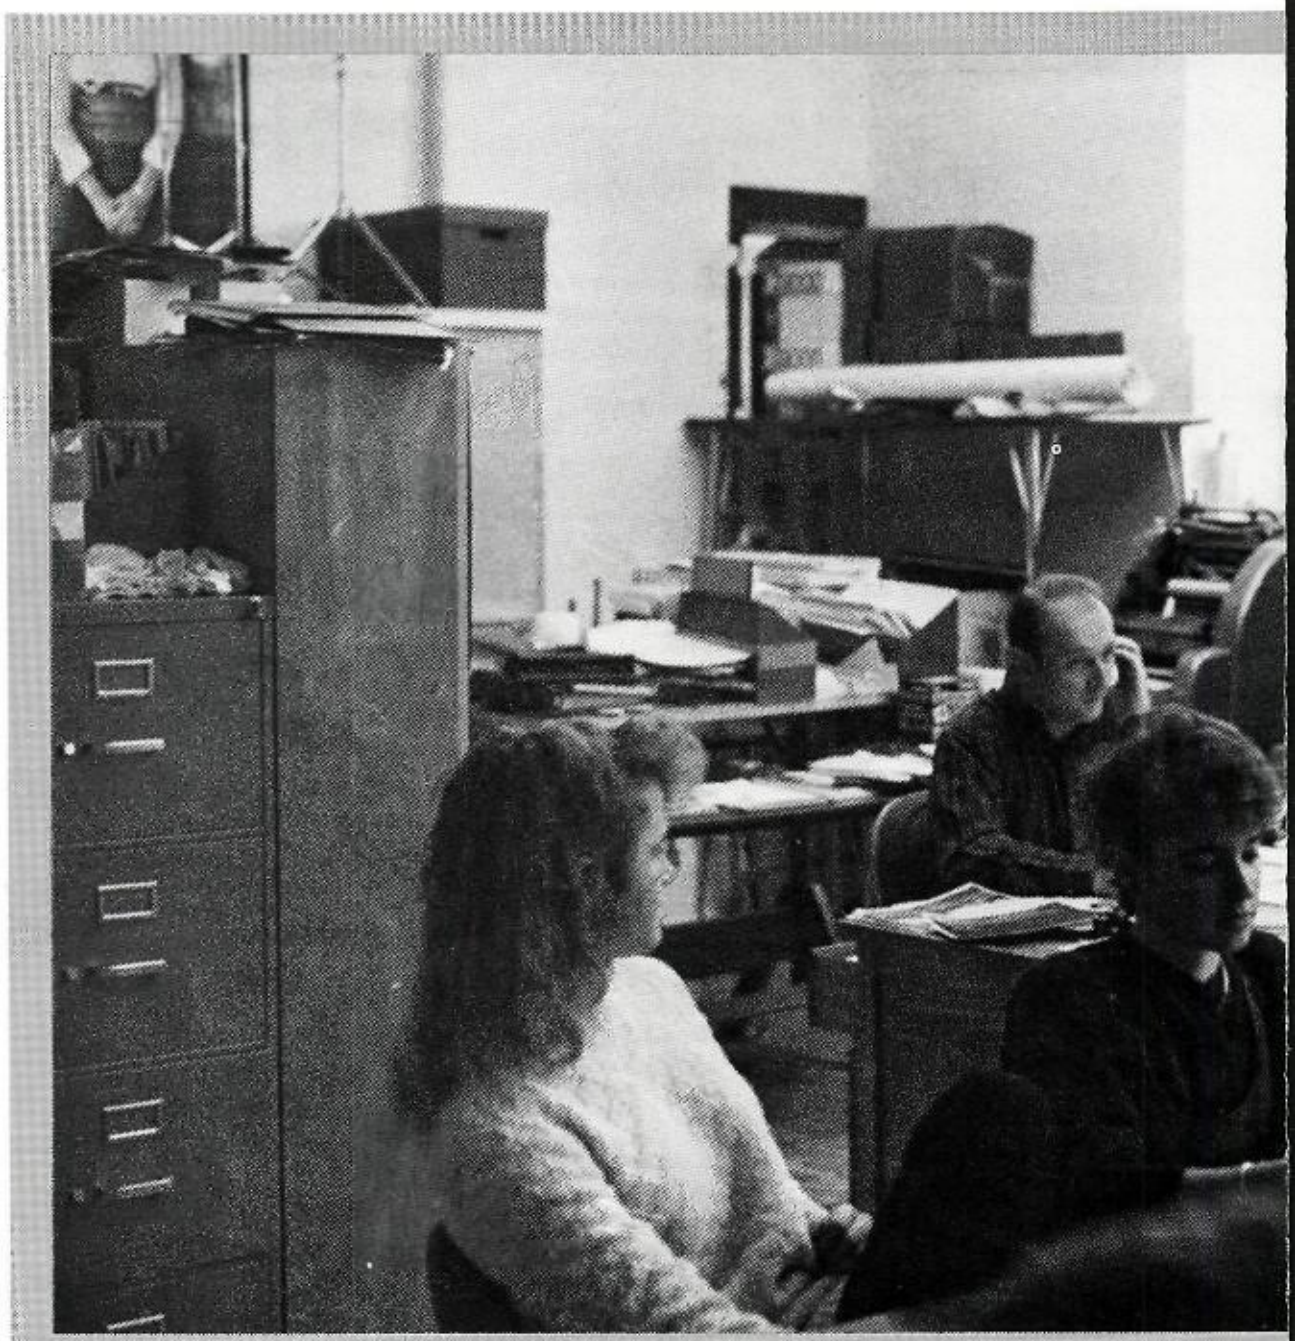


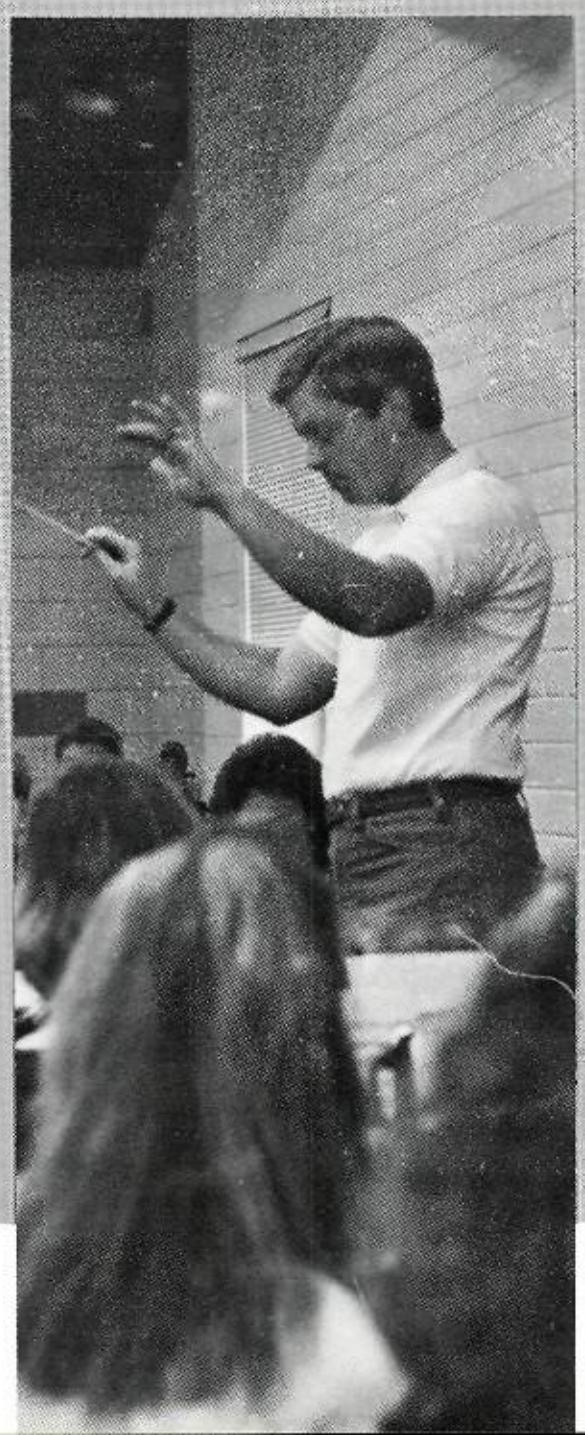
Fine Arts

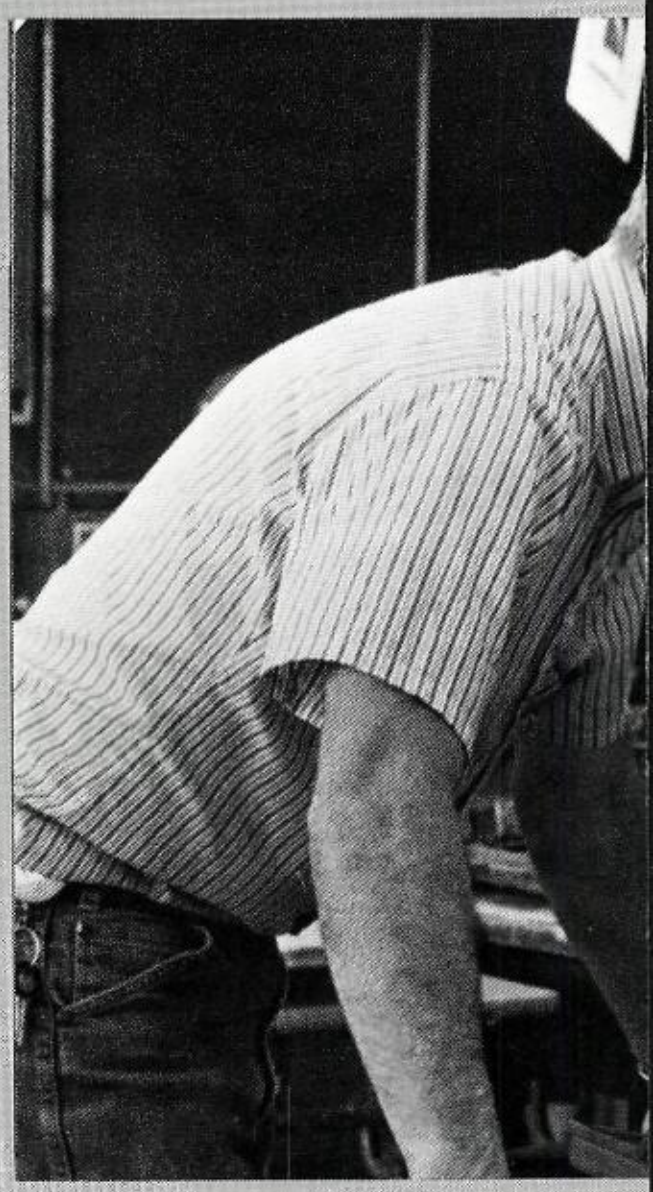
Creating

Masterpieces

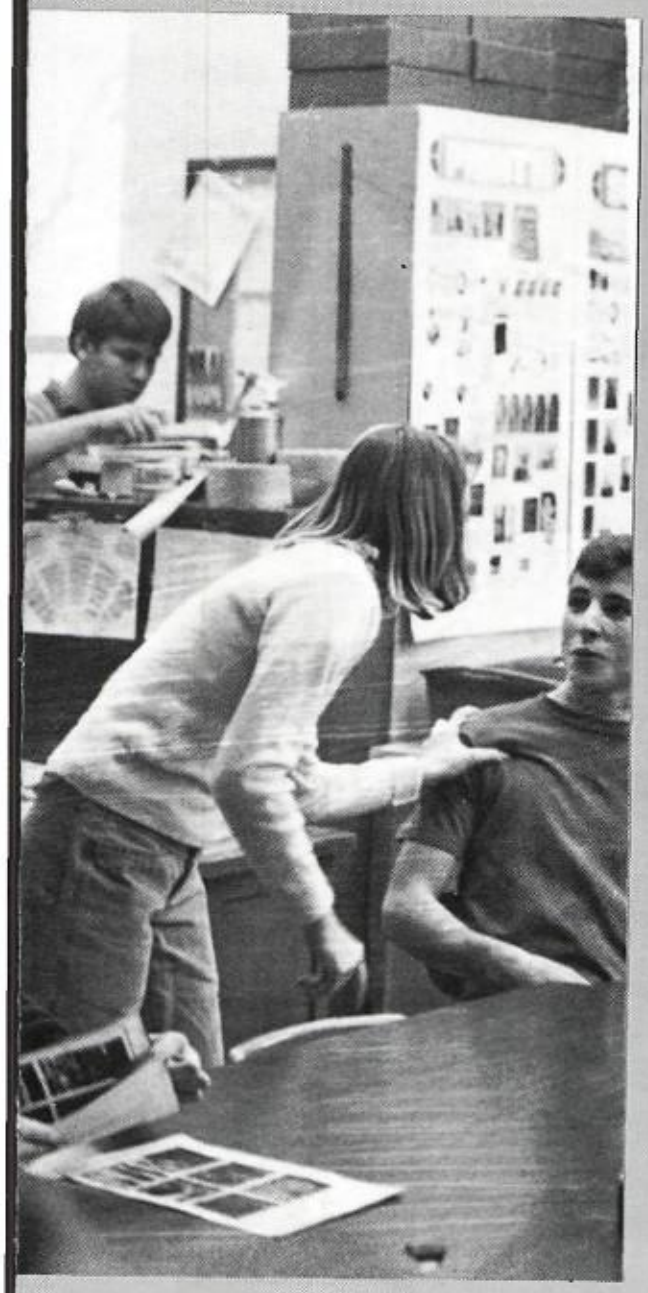
Some of the electives offered were the fine arts. They included Art, Band, Orchestra, Theater Arts, and Photography. There are many qualified teachers in this field at Logan High. Mr. Soderquist teaches ceramics, silkscreening, and painting. Mr. Nelson and Mr. Stowell teach the band students. Mr. Ashton teaches Orchestra. Mr. Tueller Theater Arts, and Mr. Brunson Photography. These classes can often give students a base for a career after high school graduation. Our Fine Arts program is one of the best, this is made evident by the fine work done by the students.



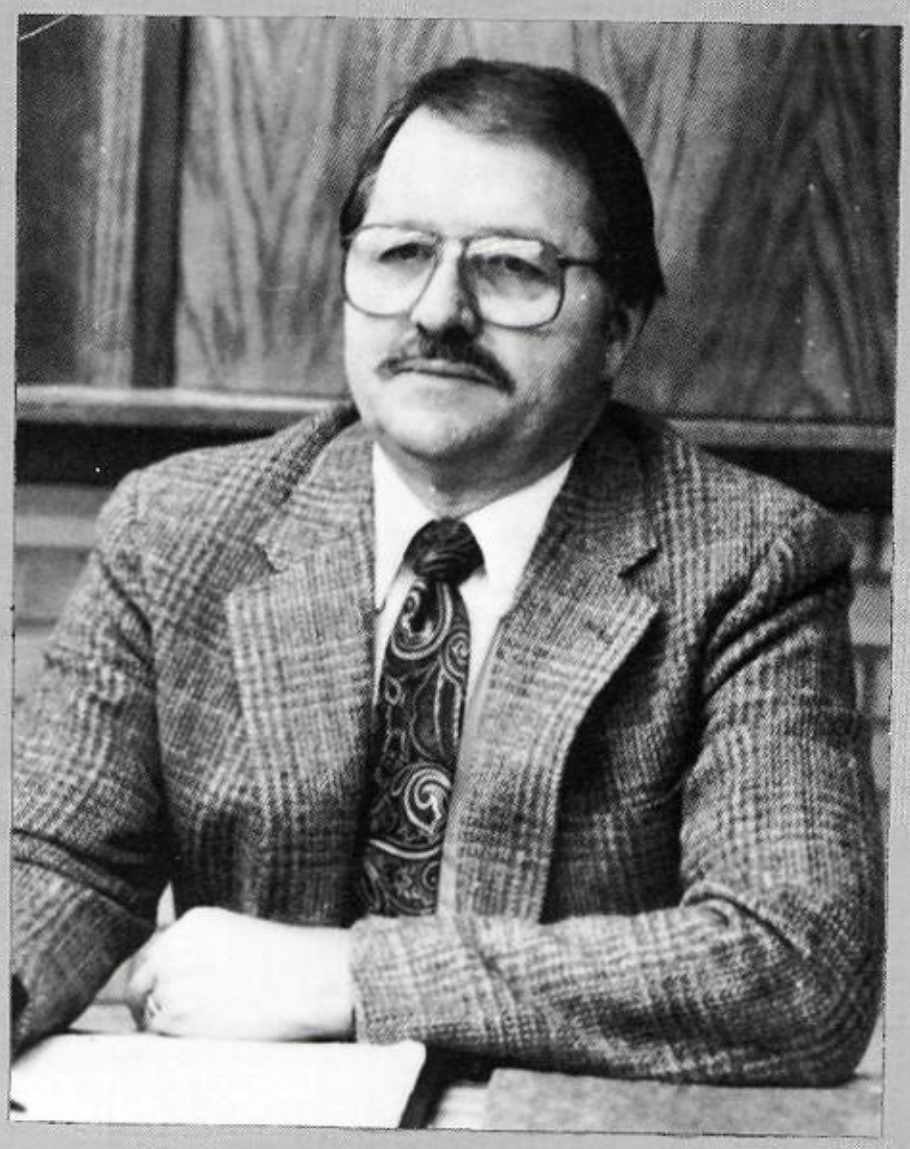




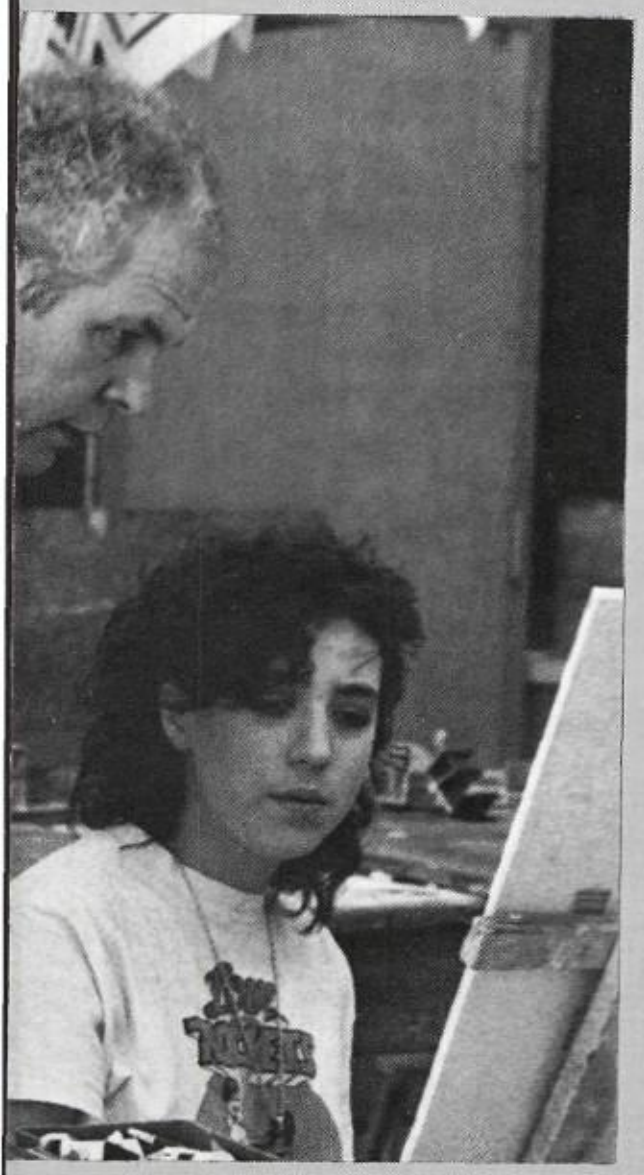
Mr. Aston leads on.



Mr. Brunson scans the room wondering why he's there.



Mr. Tueller takes a minute to think about life.

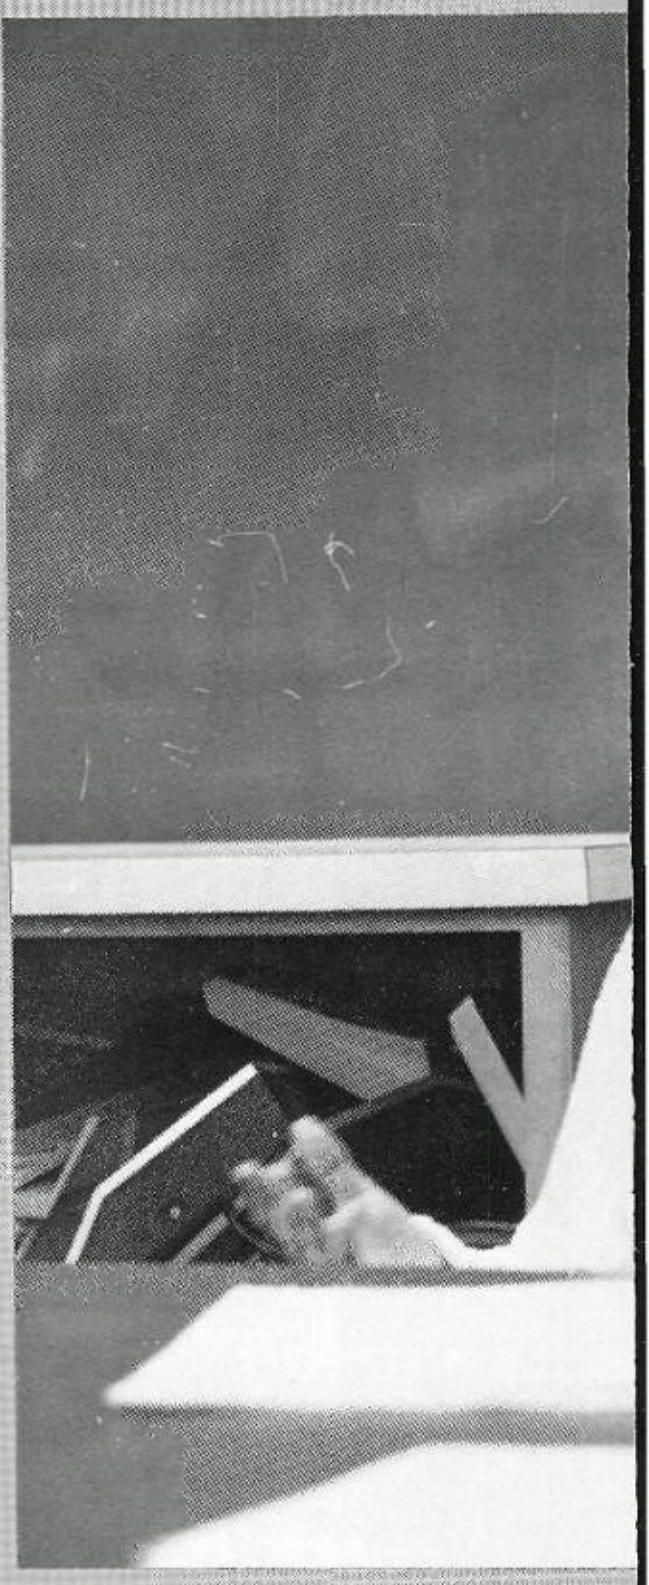


Mr. Stowell tells the trumpets to let the rest of the band be heard.

Mr. Soderquist studies Michelle Cooks painting.

Even though Mrs. Zillies loves working in the business department, she can't wait for Christmas.

Mrs. Jardine can do about anything-cooking, sewing, and now she has mastered computers.



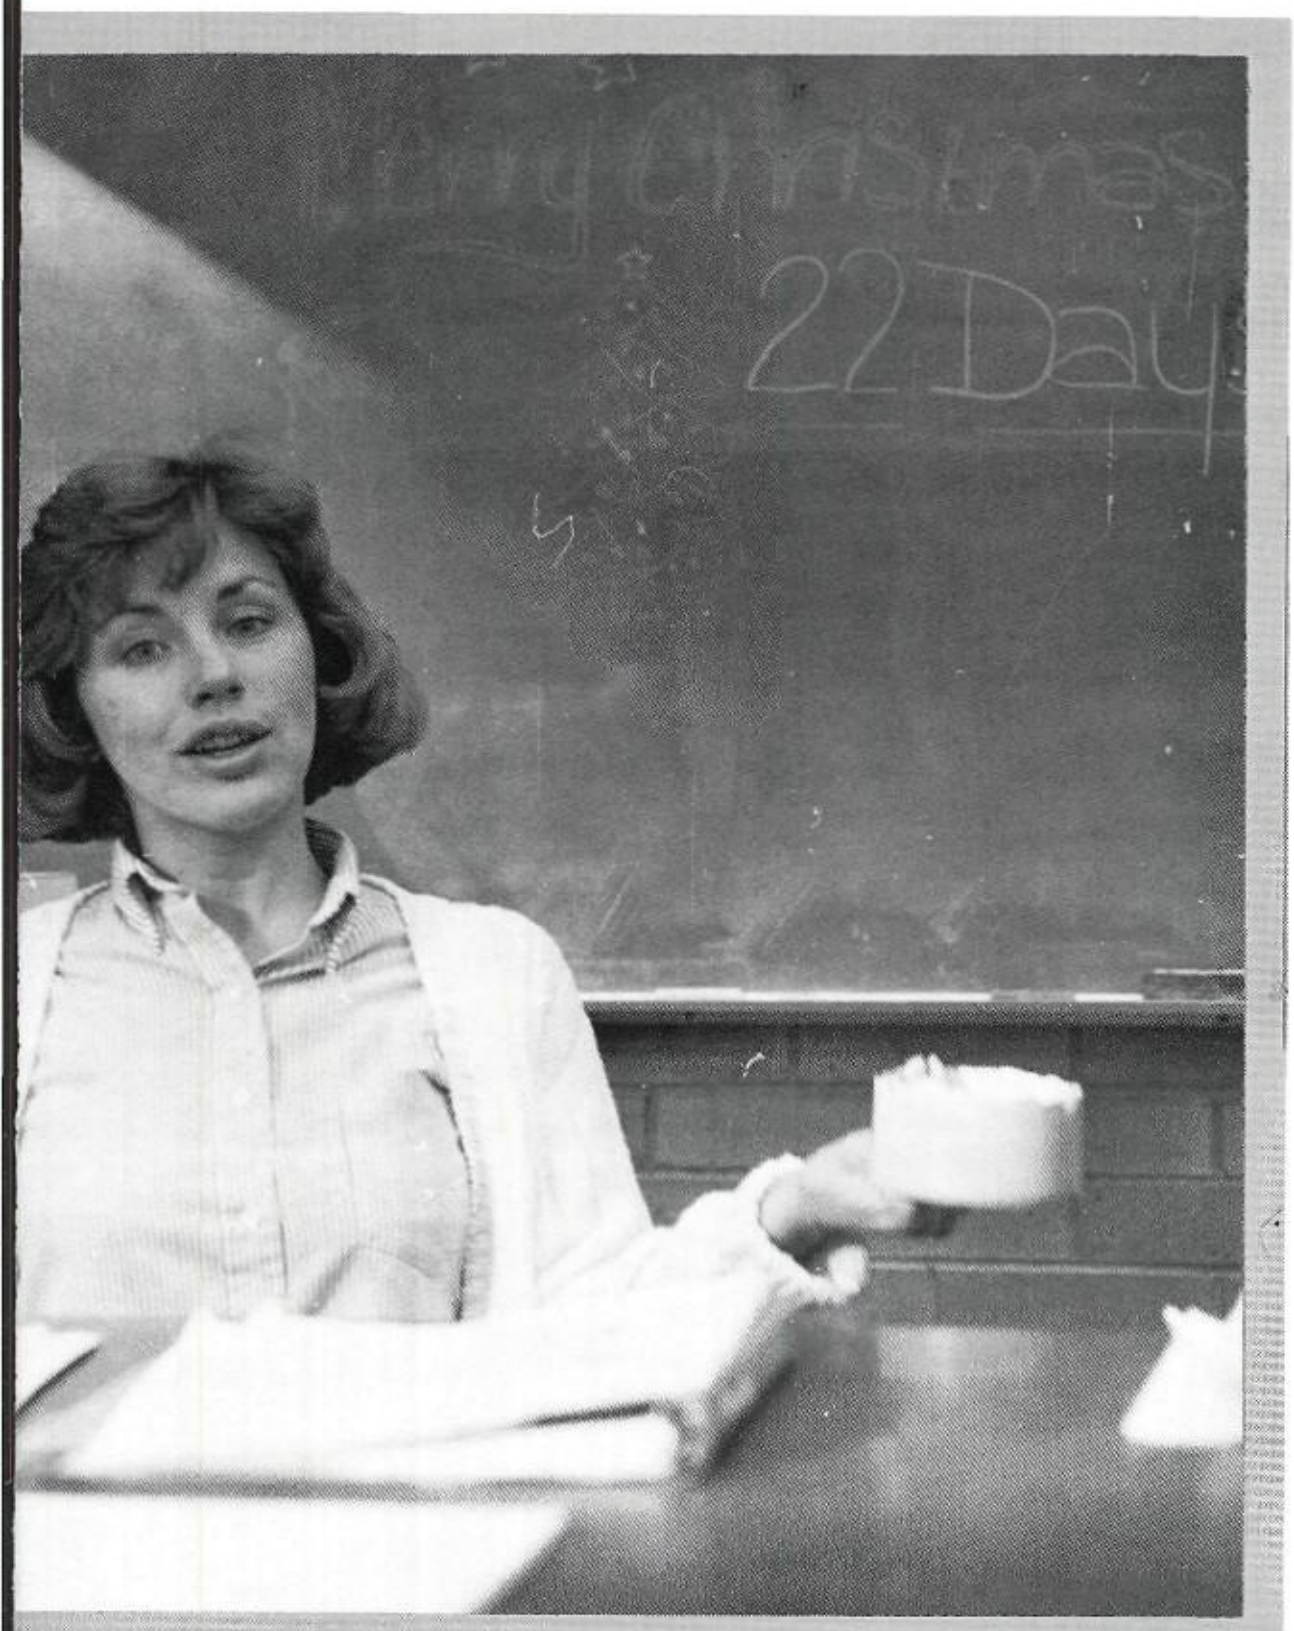
Helen Joy types up her assignment.

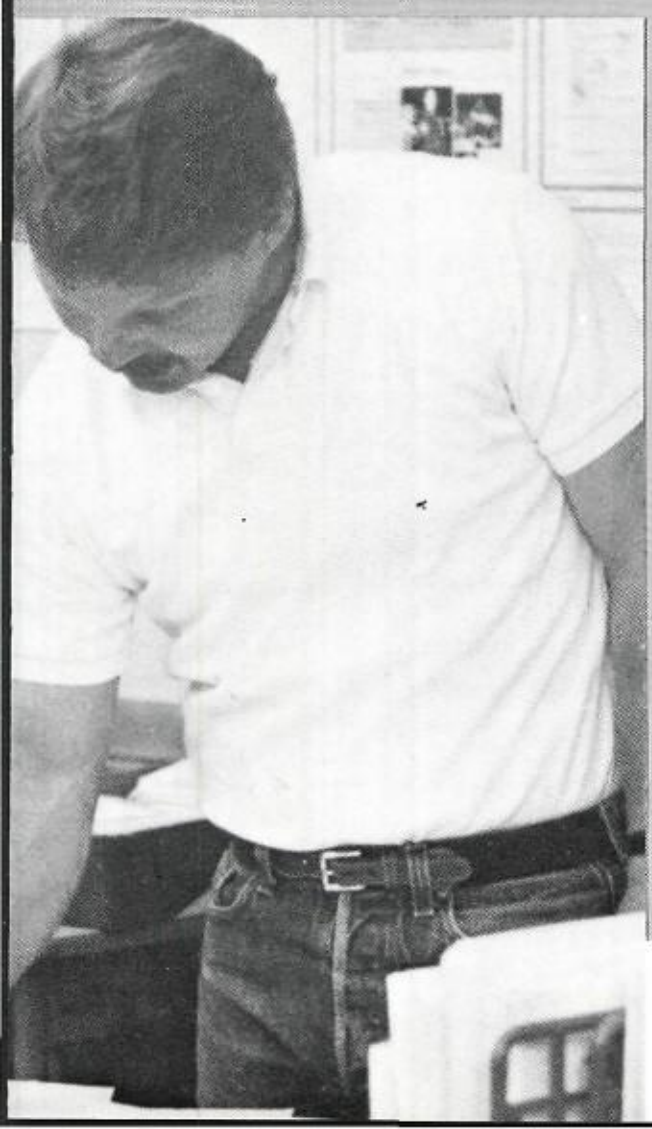
Business

Career

Preparation

Busy is the business department at Logan High. Mr. Williams, Mrs. Jardine, and Mrs. Zilles are teaching tomorrow's leaders today. They educate them in the fields of computers, accounting, shorthand, keyboard, and general management. The students take these classes to help prepare them to enter the workforce. These classes are usually one trimester long except for shorthand, and Office Procedures, which are two trimesters.





Mr. Williams looks for last weeks test.

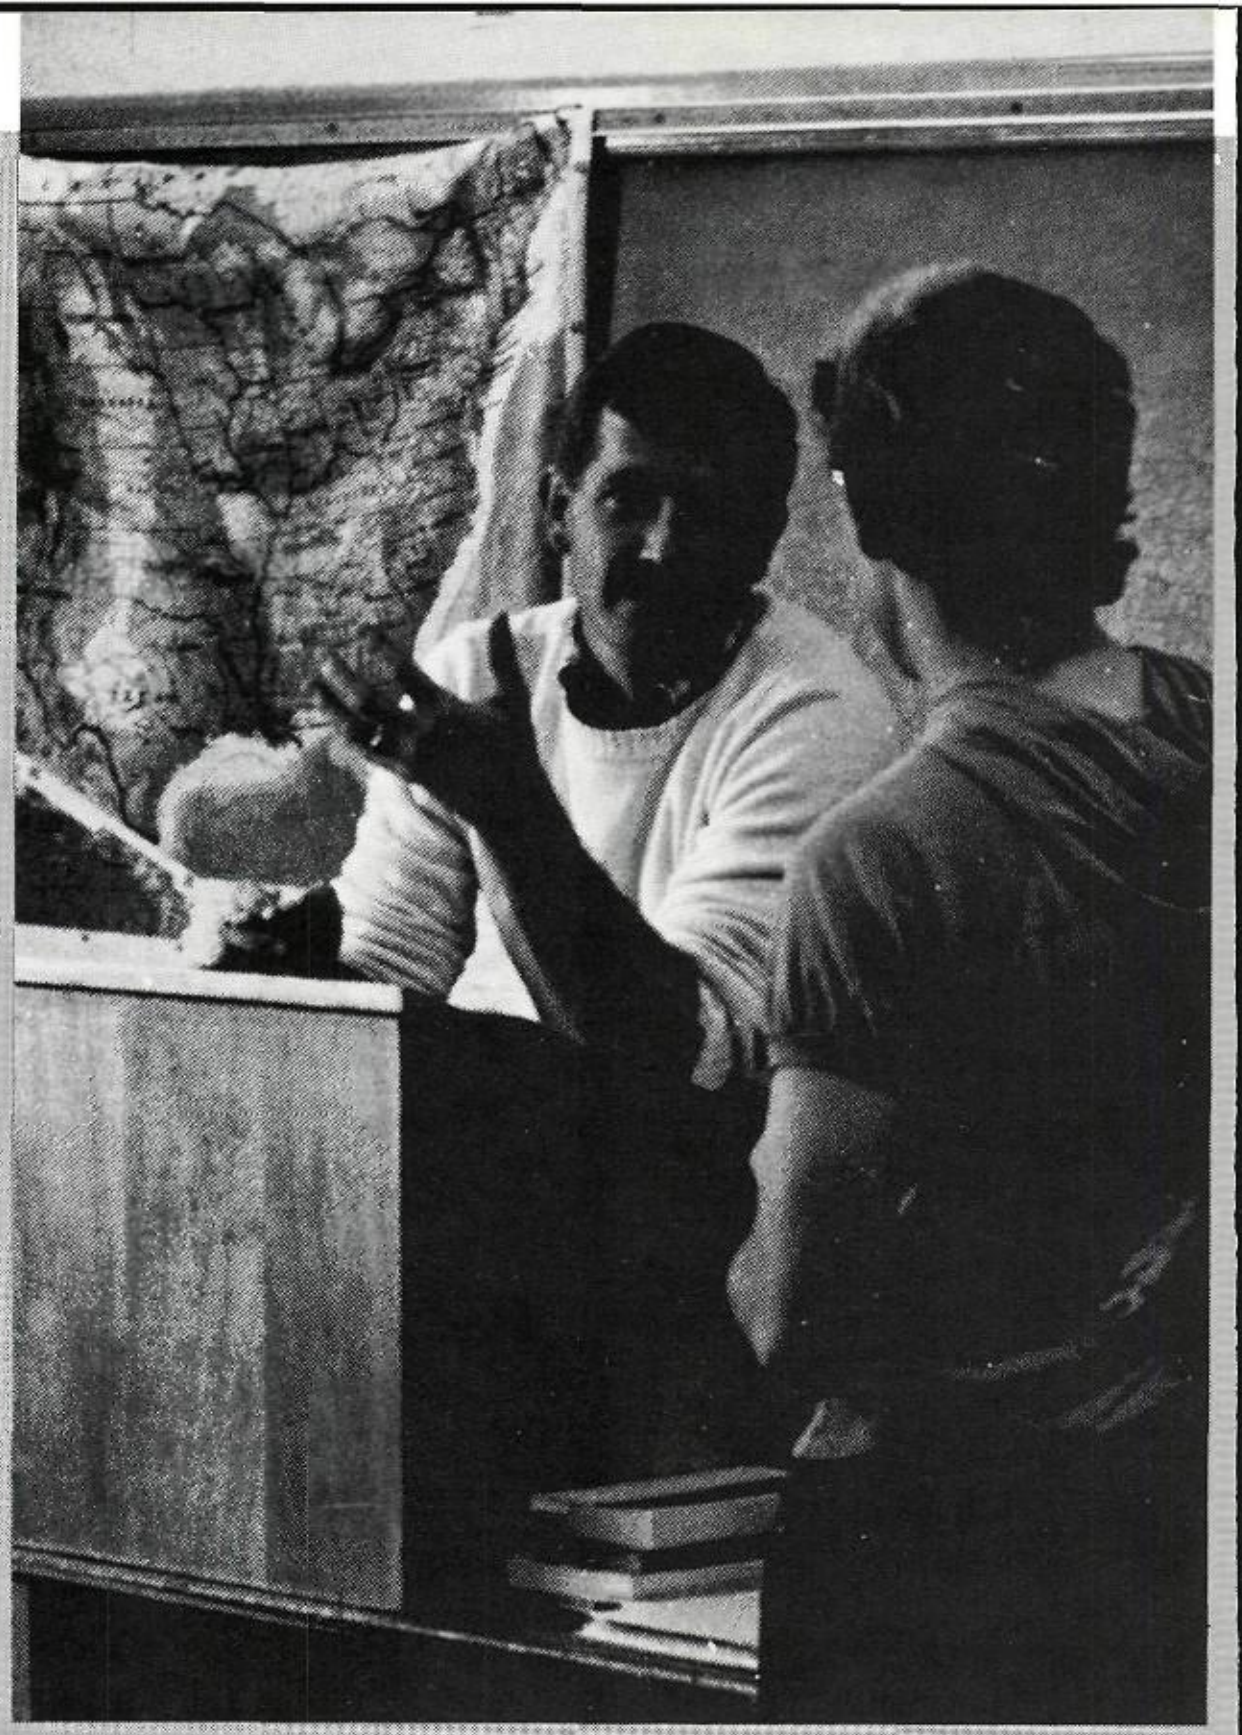
English

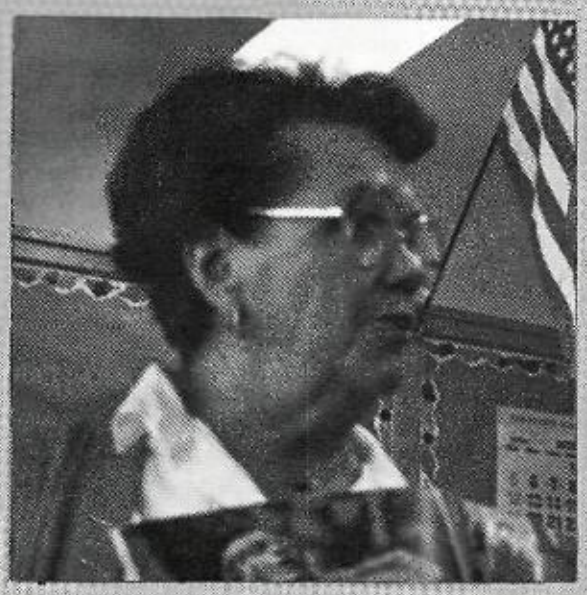
Perfecting Our Own Language

For most of us English is our native language. Students sometimes wonder why they need to take another English class after they have spoken it all their lives. By the time they get to high school, English classes consist of more than just grammar, vocabulary and spelling. While these are still an important part of the curriculum, literature and writing have a lot of emphasis put on them.

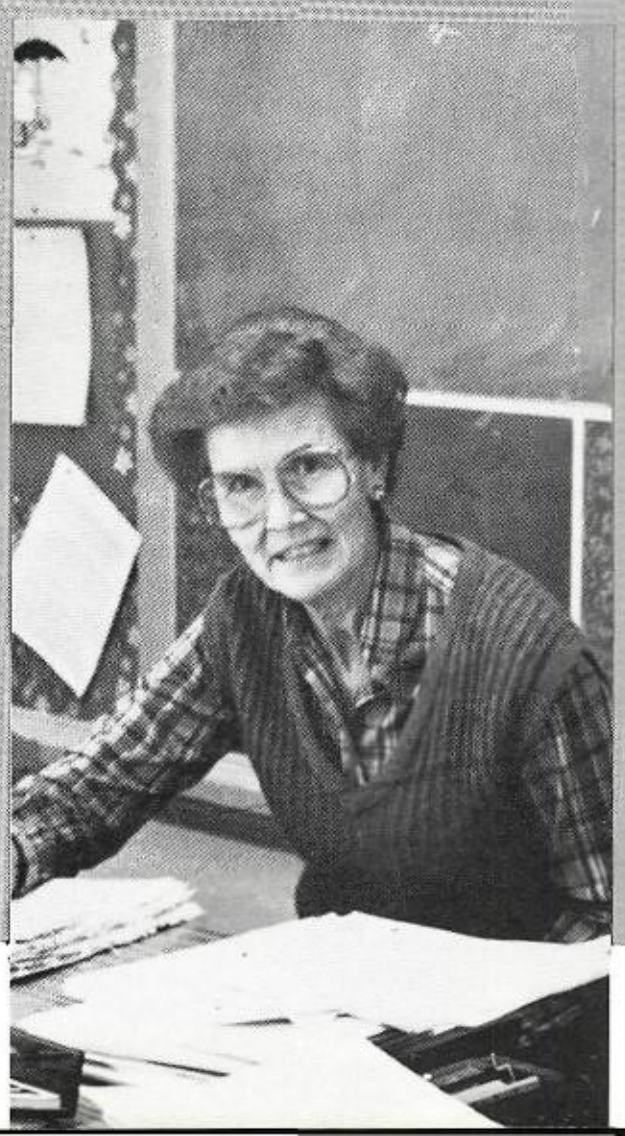
By the time students reach their Junior and Senior years they have a large selection of classes offered with more emphasis put on grammar and there are others in which students spend most of their time with literature. There are classes on black literature, western literature, American and English literature. There is also A.P. English class that students can take when they are seniors. If they take the test from Advanced Placement and pass it, they can receive a college credit.

The English department is staffed with great teachers that have a lot of experience in their field. The teachers are: Mr. Barfuss, Mrs. Cangelosi, Mr. Christiansen, Mr. Emmett, Mrs. Haws, Mrs. Stock, and Mrs. Stoddart. Logan is fortunate to have such a great English department.



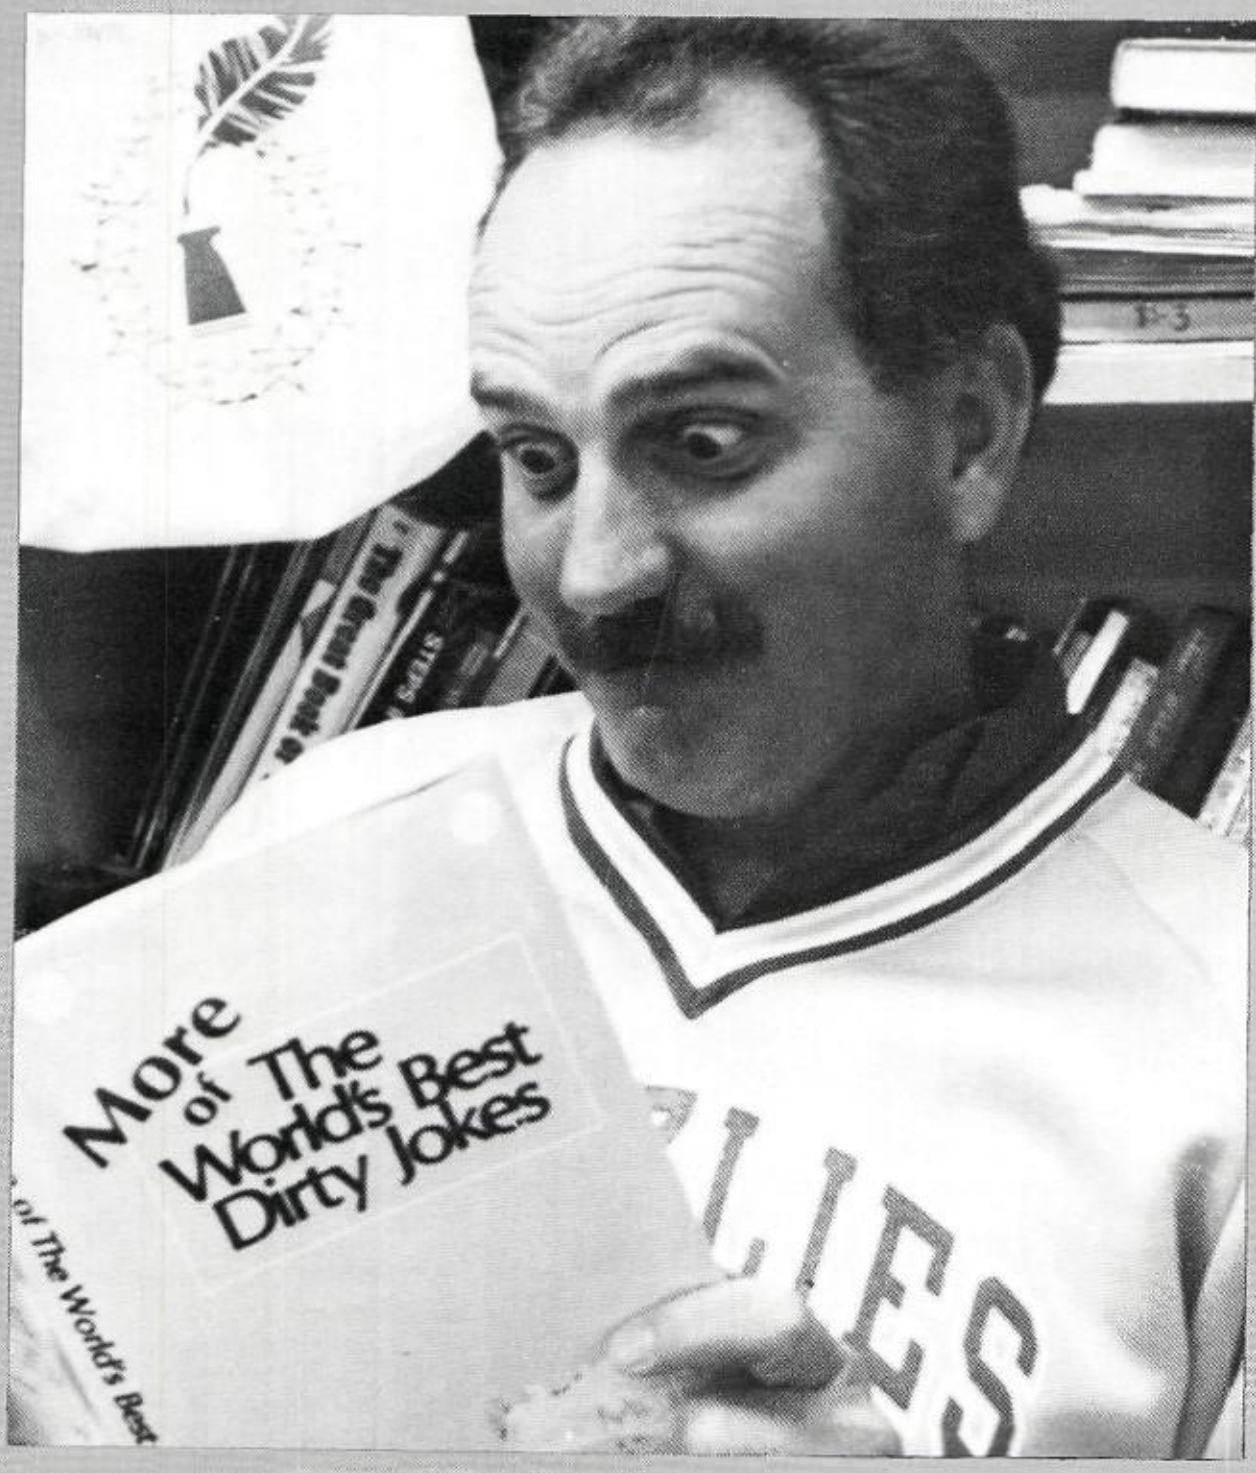


Mrs. Stock explains many of Shakespeare's plays to the students.

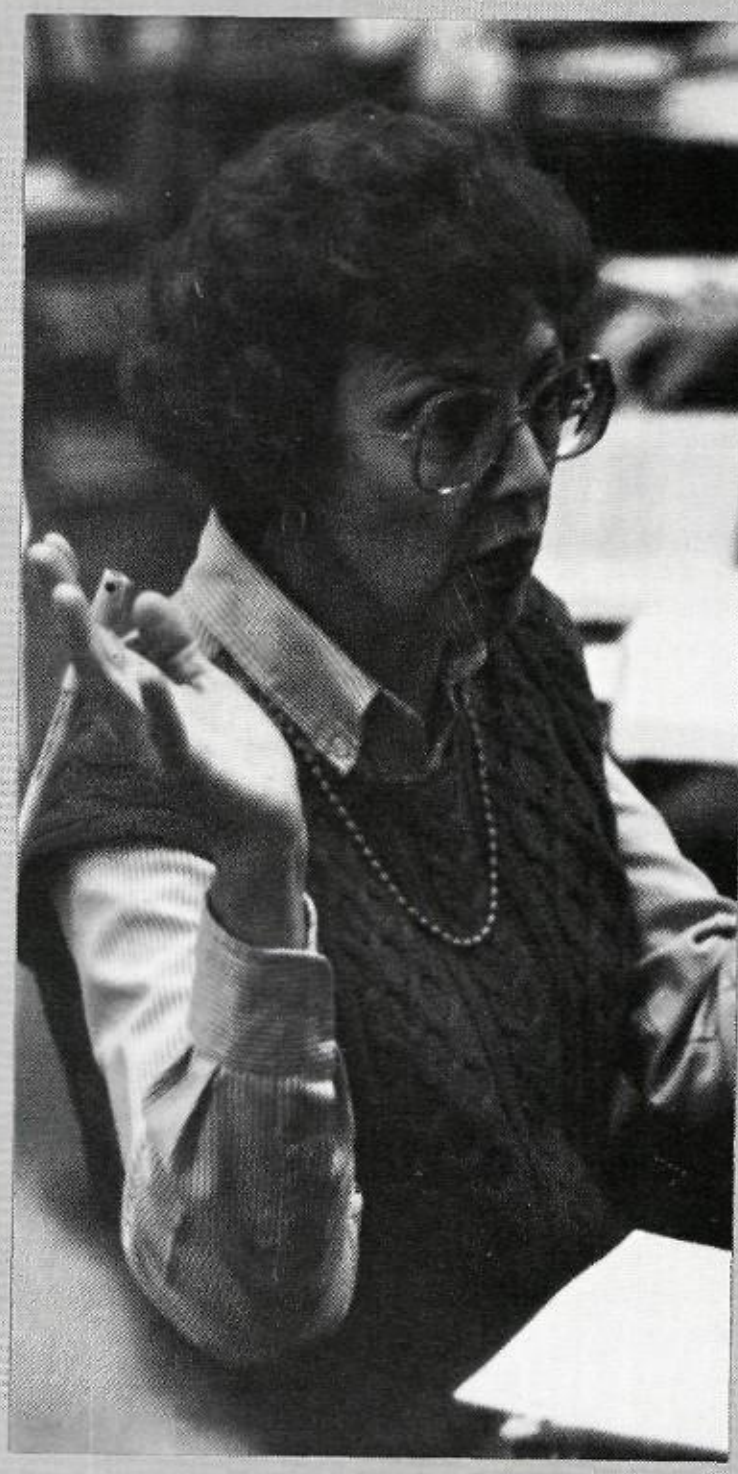


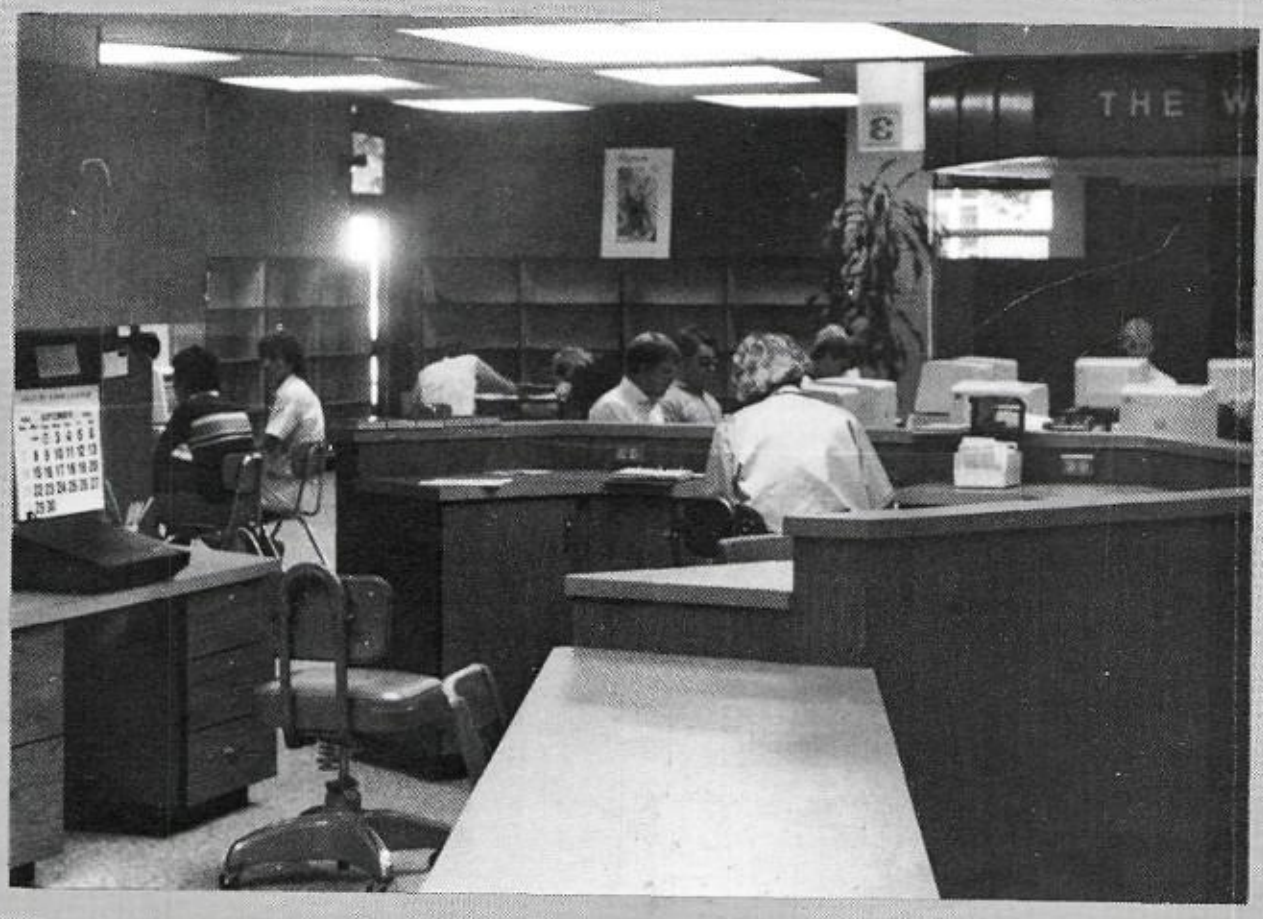
Mrs. Haws grinds her teeth as the tests are graded.

Mr. Emmett tells a student to ask him later when he's done explaining.



Perry learns something new!!!



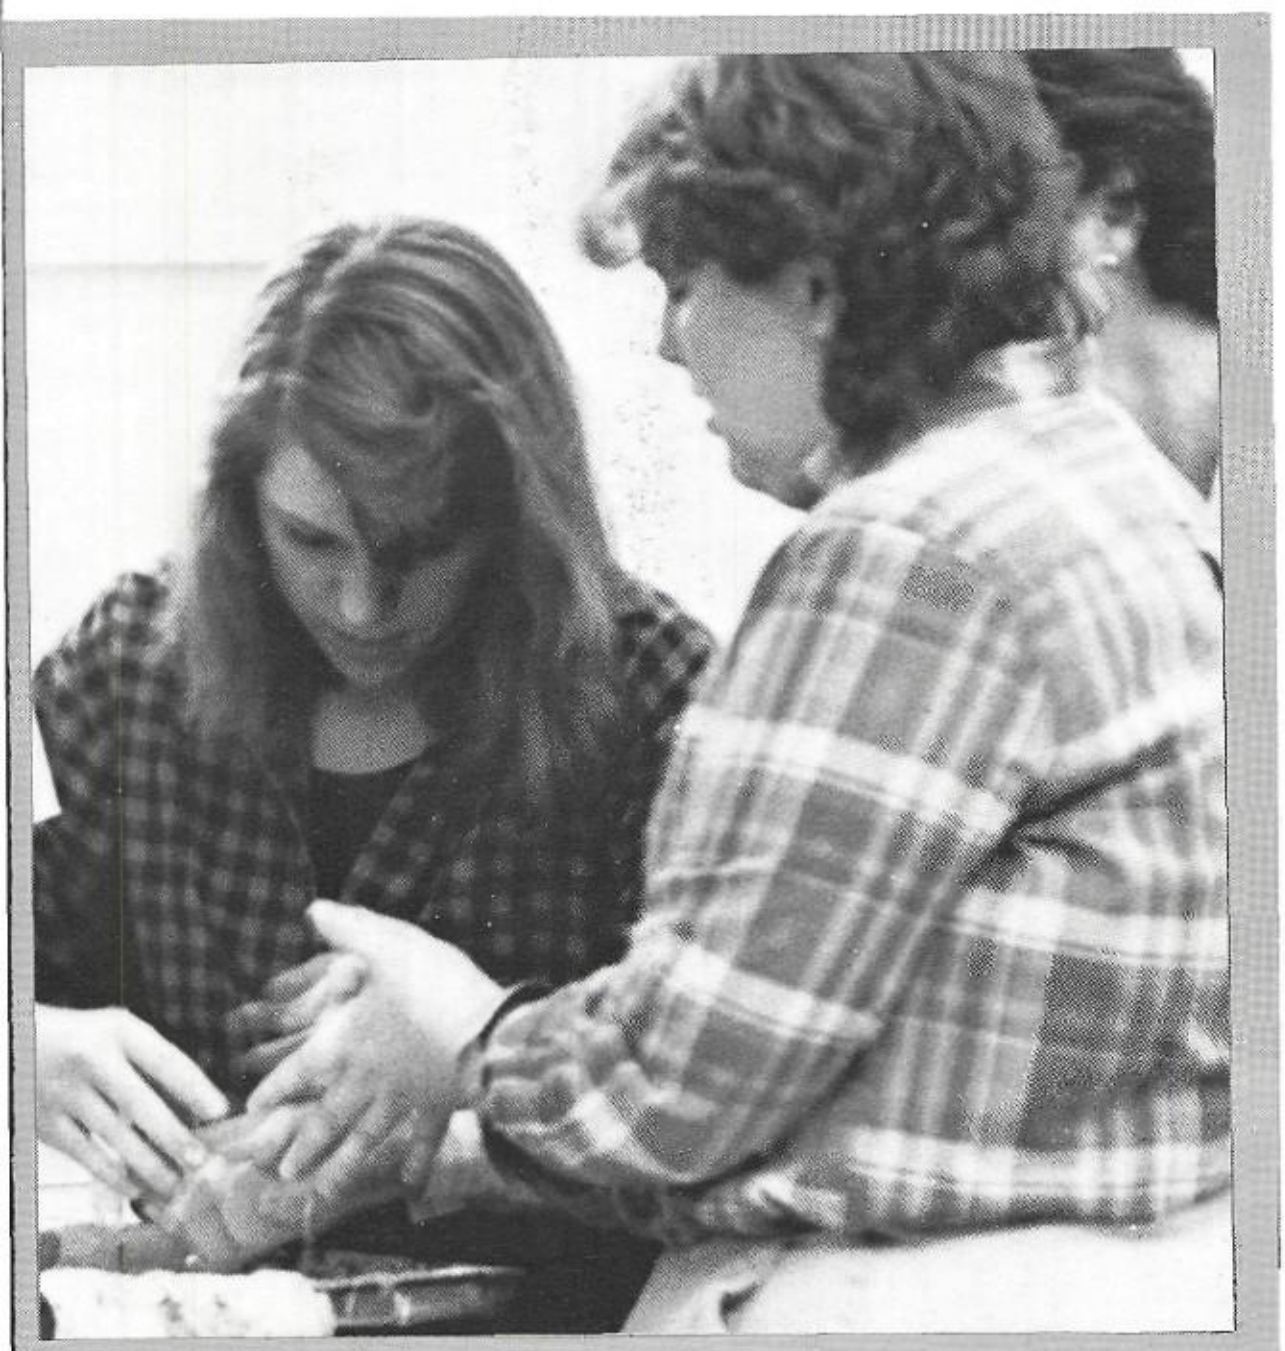


Is this what you call expanding your horizons?

Students work on their assignments in the writing room.

Jenni Jones and Marnie Bunch are amazed at the things they learn to do in Homemaking.

Keri McEntire dreams of someday becoming the Betty Crocker of stainless steel pans as she stirs her latest creation.



Home Ec

Suit your

Taste

At Logan High this year the words "Home Economics" meant a number of things. It could mean that you are taking Sewing, Cooking, Child Development, Parenting, or Interior Design.
Parenting proved itself to be a very fun and worthwhile course. In this class each student is given an egg and decorates it to look somewhat like a baby boy or girl. This egg is your child from that point on. You are expected to keep it in the refrigerator to prevent spoiling, carry it around with you or keep it in your locker in some kind of a comfy looking arrangement while at school, and when you go out for a night on the town a babysitter is required.

At Logan High it takes three people to kneed dough.

Mrs. Geary is having a hard time trying to remember all her students names.

Mrs. Johnson explains to Toni Spillett how to get the dang thing in the right place.

Languages

Learning A Foreign Tongue

This year Logan had an excellent foreign language program. Three different languages were offered. They were Spanish, German, and French.

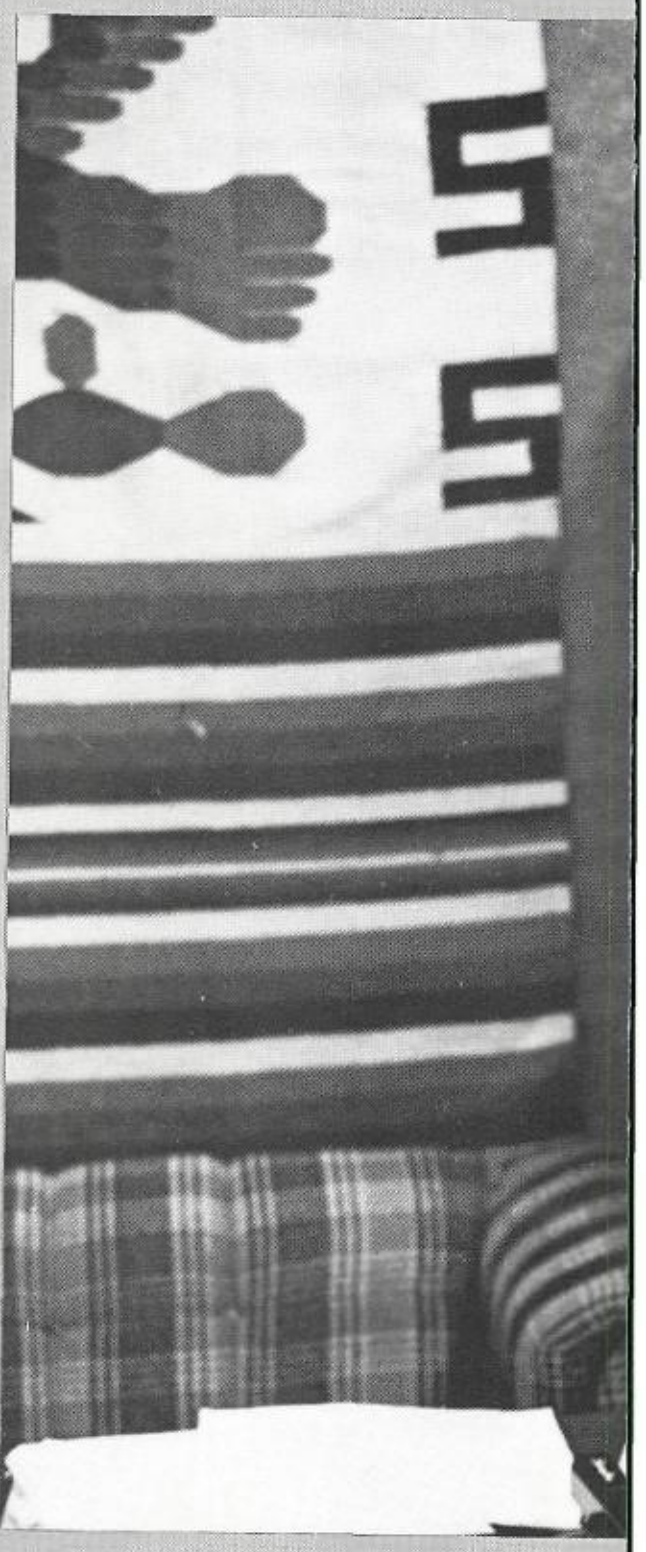
First year Spanish students are taught by Mrs. Bacher and 2nd, 3rd, and 4th year students are taught by Sr. Allen. The first year is spent mainly learning to listen and speak the language. Second year students learn to read and speak. They also begin to study the grammar. Third year students begin to write and fourth year read and write a lot. This years class went to Mexico City and Puebla. Logan High students can definitely know that, "Quien mucho duerme, poco aprende."

This year there were two classes of German One and German Two with more than 100 students taught by Mrs. Nicholson.

French students, taught by Mrs. Bacher and Mr. Paulus, have had many cultural experiences in class having a pen pal in France, to eating a "yummy es cargot."

Kara Campbell just smiles as Mrs. Nicholes reads some new German praises.

Mrs. Wamsley, the ESL teacher answers a question from one of her English as a Second Language students.



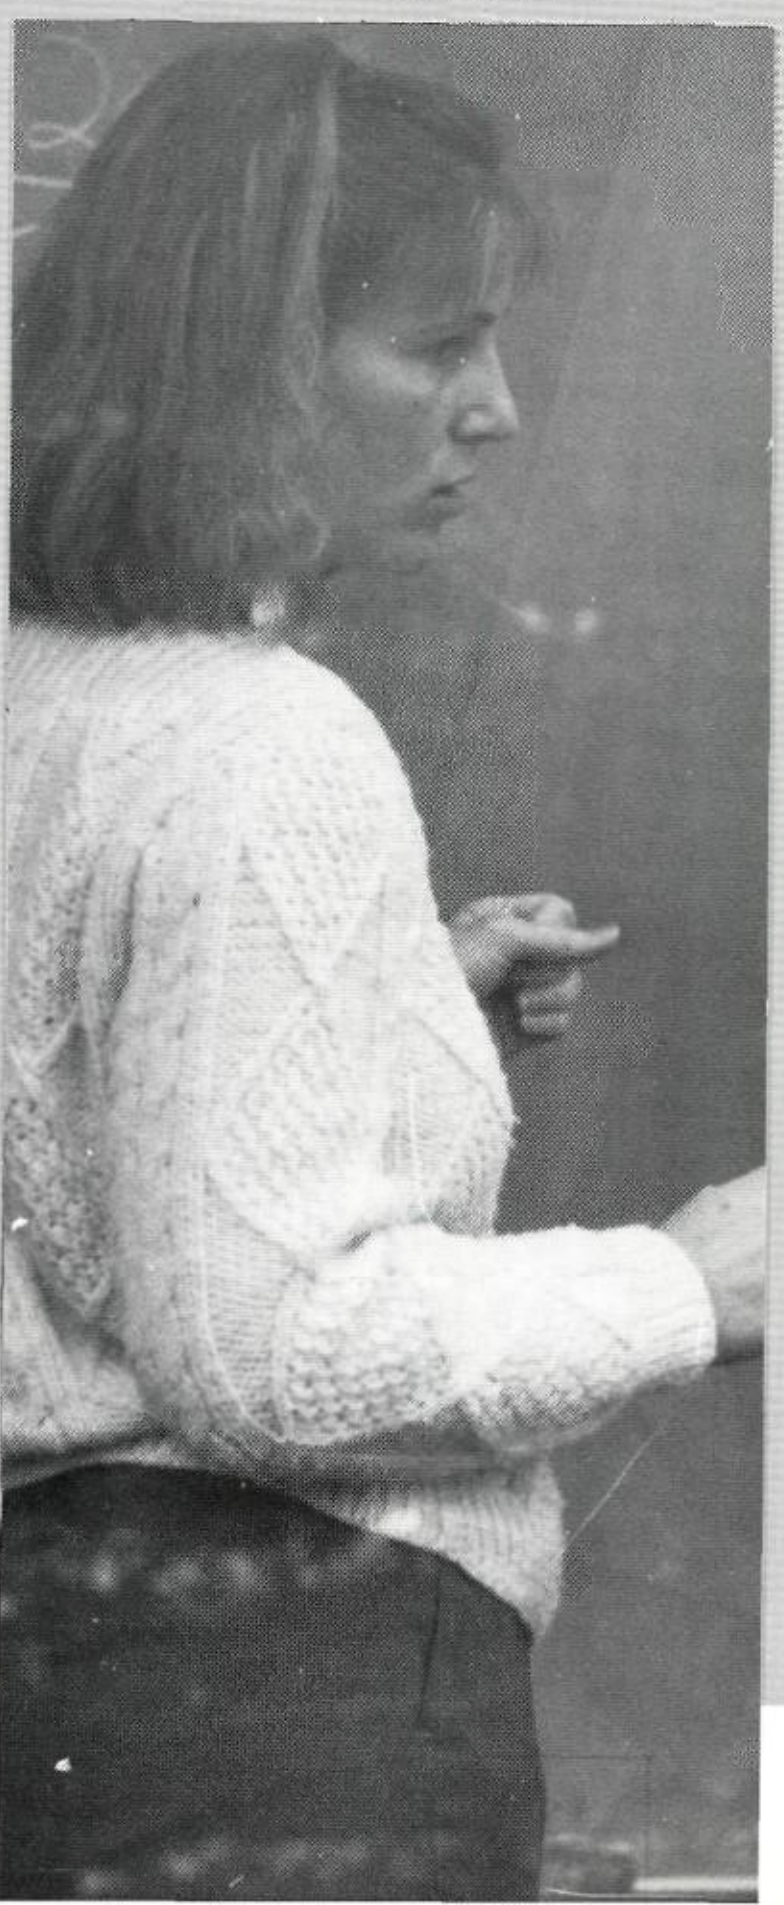
Mrs. Bacher helps a student, Daniel Emery smiles for the camera.

Mr. Paulus gives Elizebeth Stachcia her final grade.

Mr. Allen looks over grades making sure they are right.

Miss Tidwell hopes that someday her students will be quiet and go to work.

Mrs. Leeds takes a second look at her student to see if he was really serious about that last answer.



Math

Calculating

Education

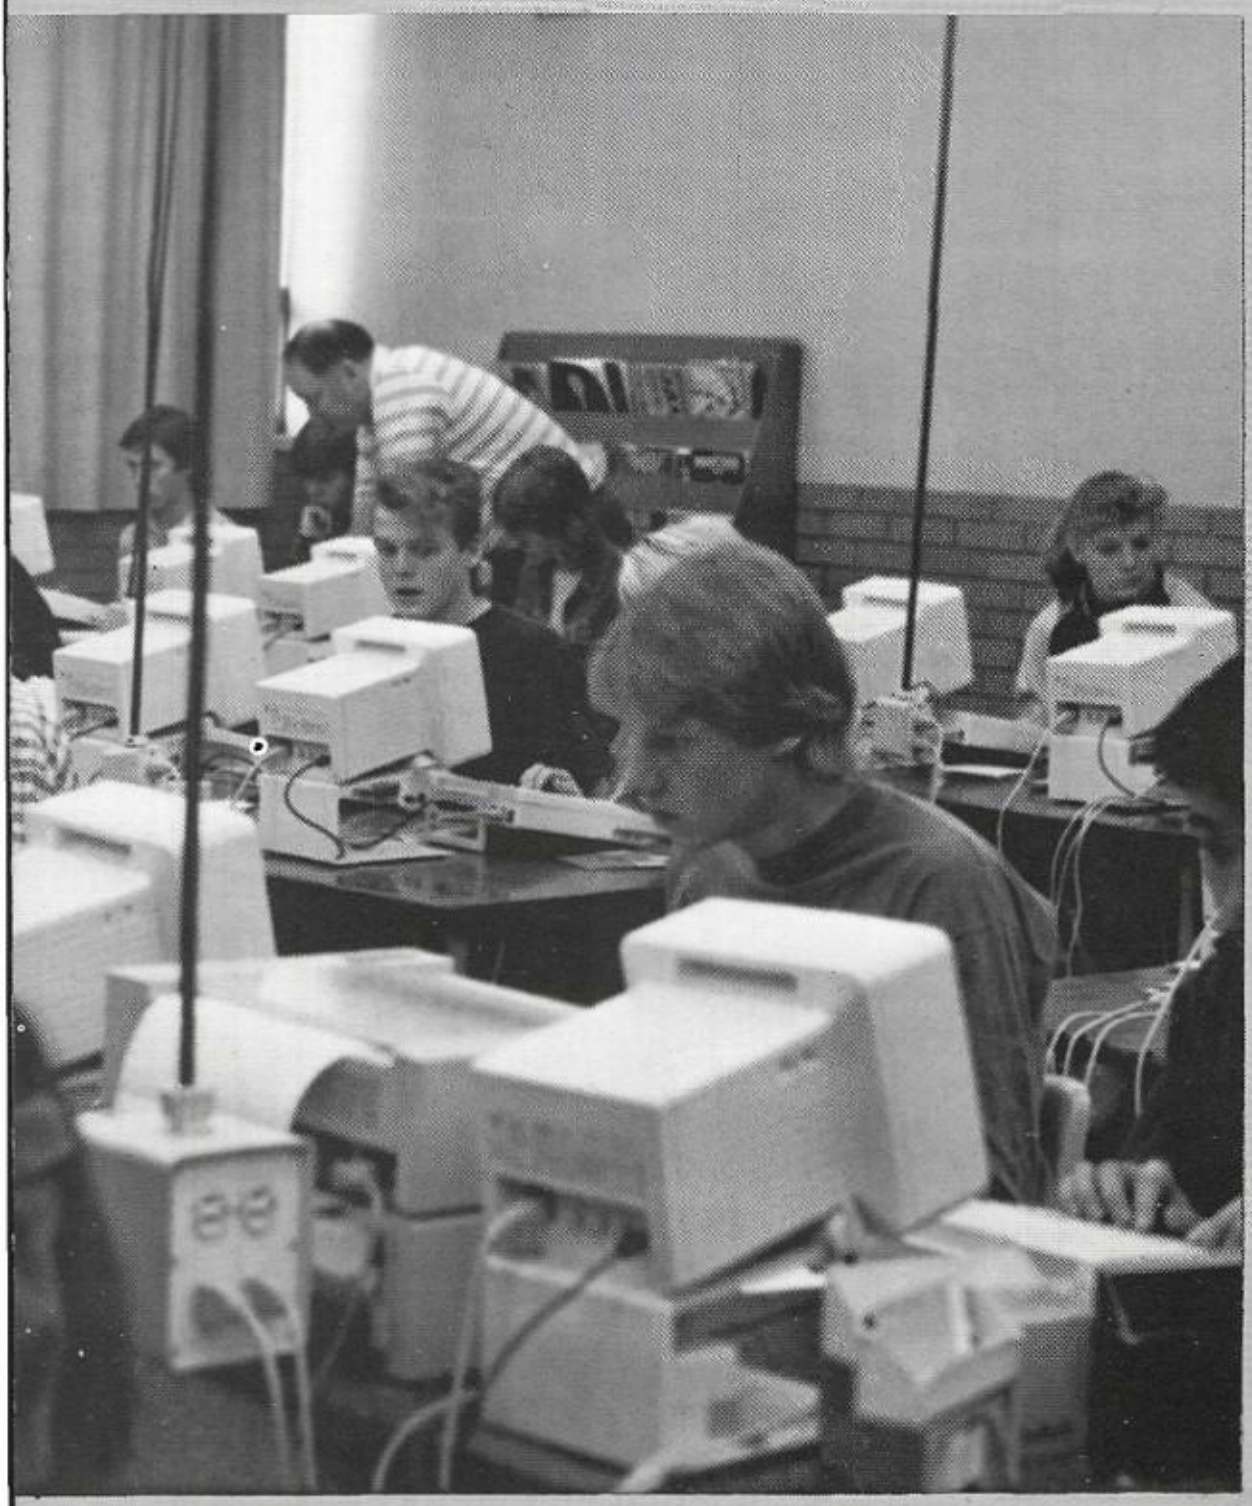
The math department offered many courses for students this year including Calculus, Geometry, Consumer Math, Algebra I, Algebra II, and Algebra III. Classes were taught by Mr. Davidson, Mr. Bradford, Mr. Wilson, Miss Tidwell, Mrs. Elich, Mr. Reynolds, Mrs. Leeds, and Mr. Greene.

In order to graduate a student must have two full years of math credit during high school. Many students continued on with various math courses even if their credit was filled, although some were glad they were finally through with it.

Even if a student may not wish to enter into a career based on math skills and concepts, they will have learned problem solving techniques that will benefit them in everyday life.

Mr. Davidson relaxes a little while he helps a student solve a tough problem.

Mrs. Elich looks up an answer for a questioning student.



Mr. Wilson wishes his students would listen the first time he explains a problem to them.

Phys Ed

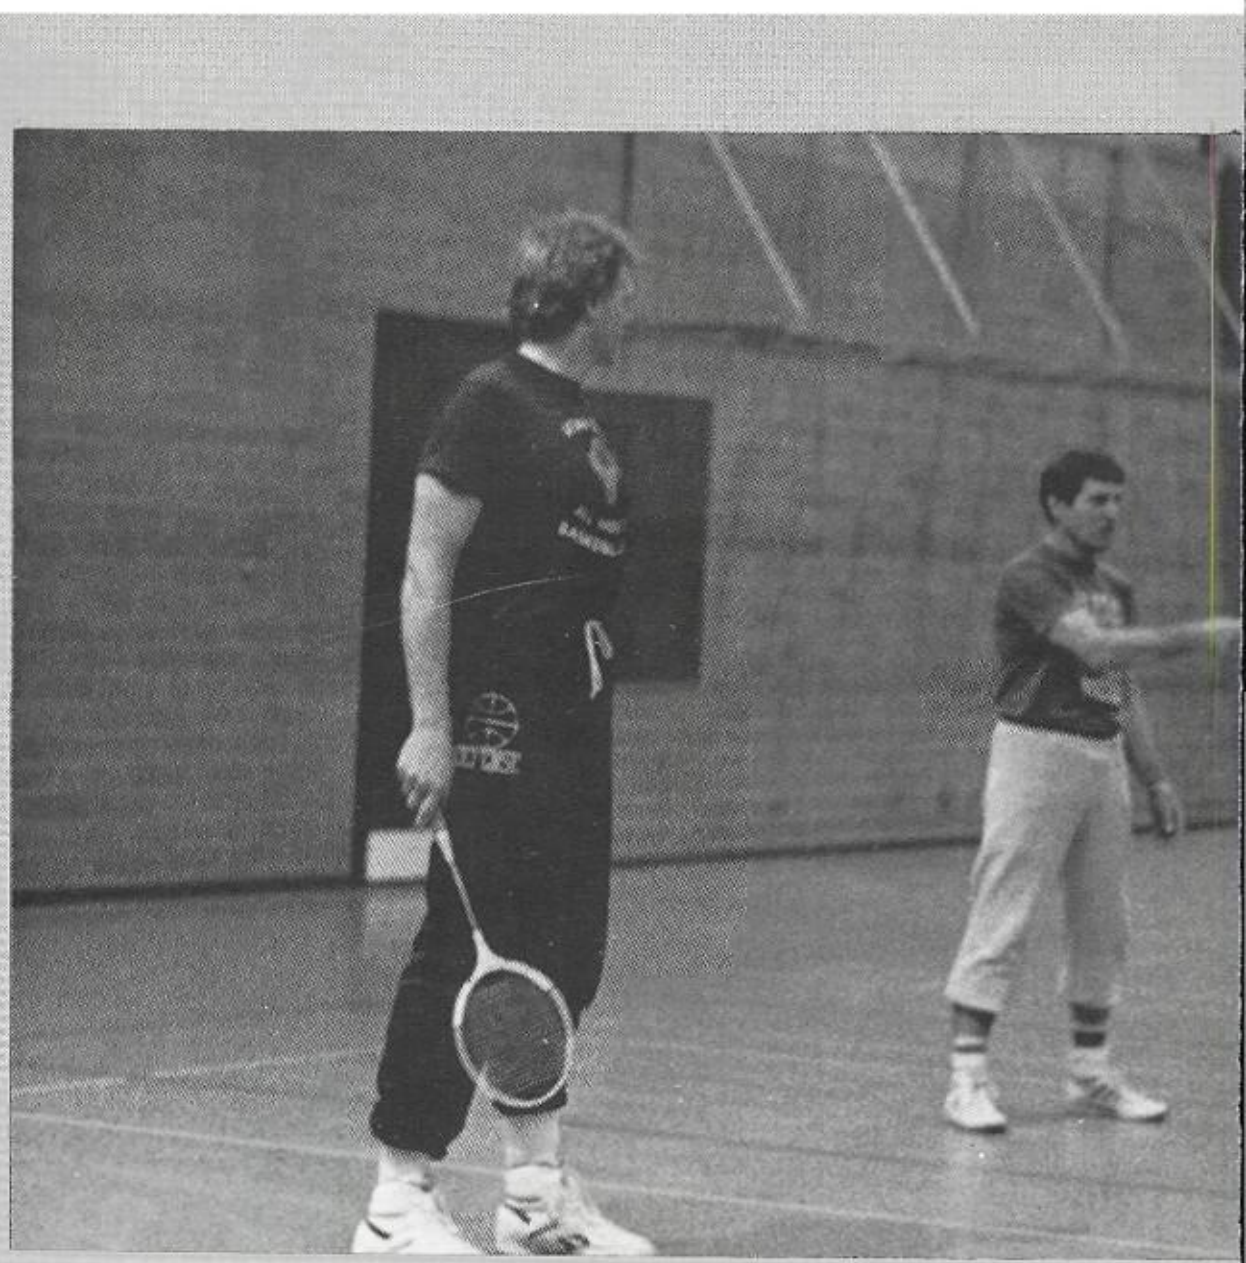
Staying In

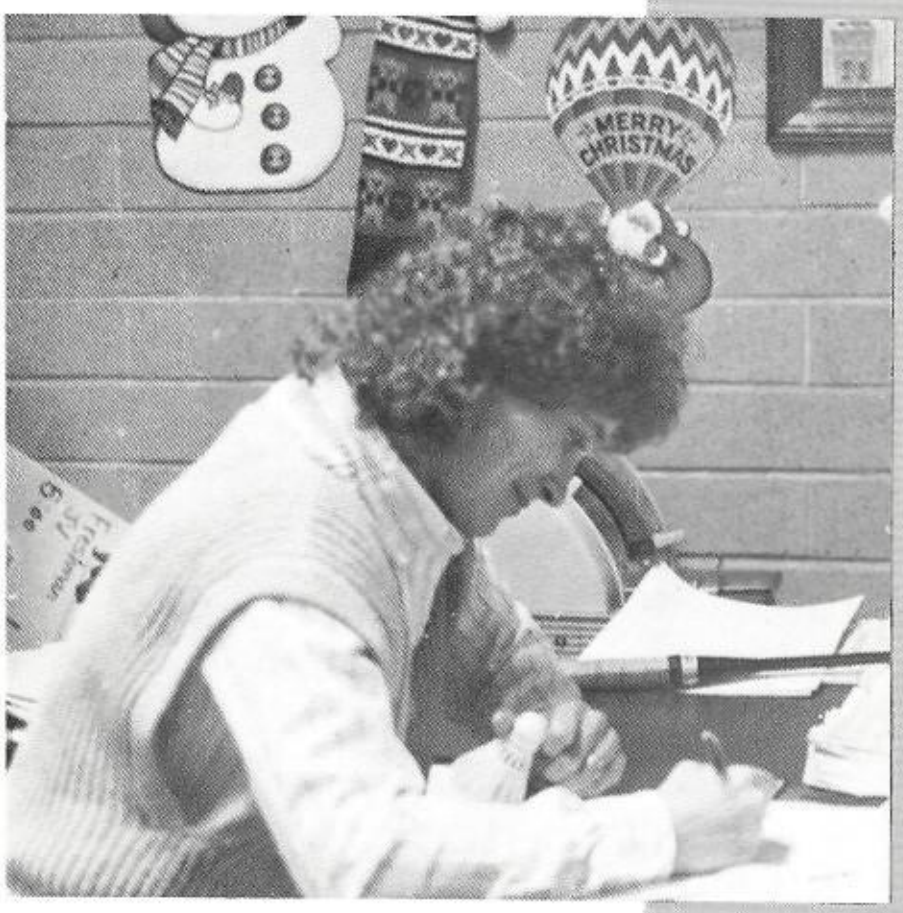
Good Shape

The Recreation Center is a second home to many people. They are there from an early morning Co-Ed class until 6:00 at night playing a pick-up game of basketball.

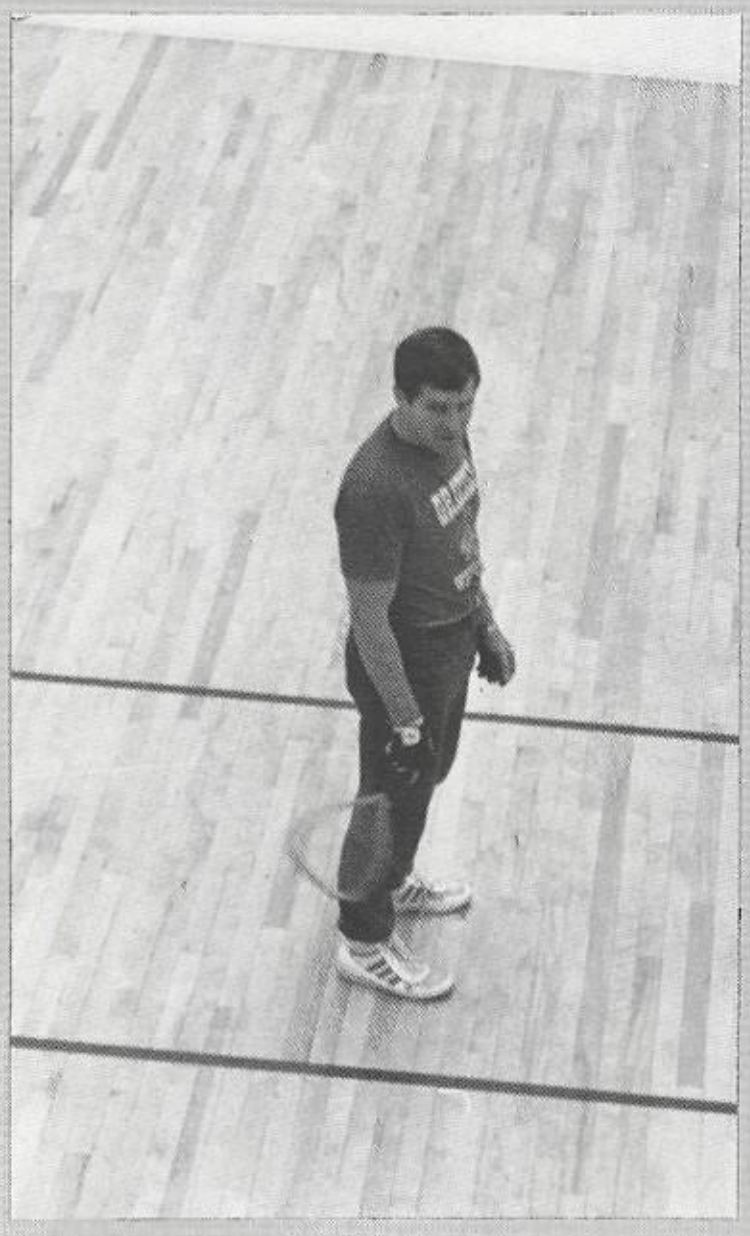
Other people hate the sight of it and try not to go near it except for a basketball or volleyball game.

The Physical Education department is there to get you in shape, and coaches McBride, Chambers, and McKay are there to help.





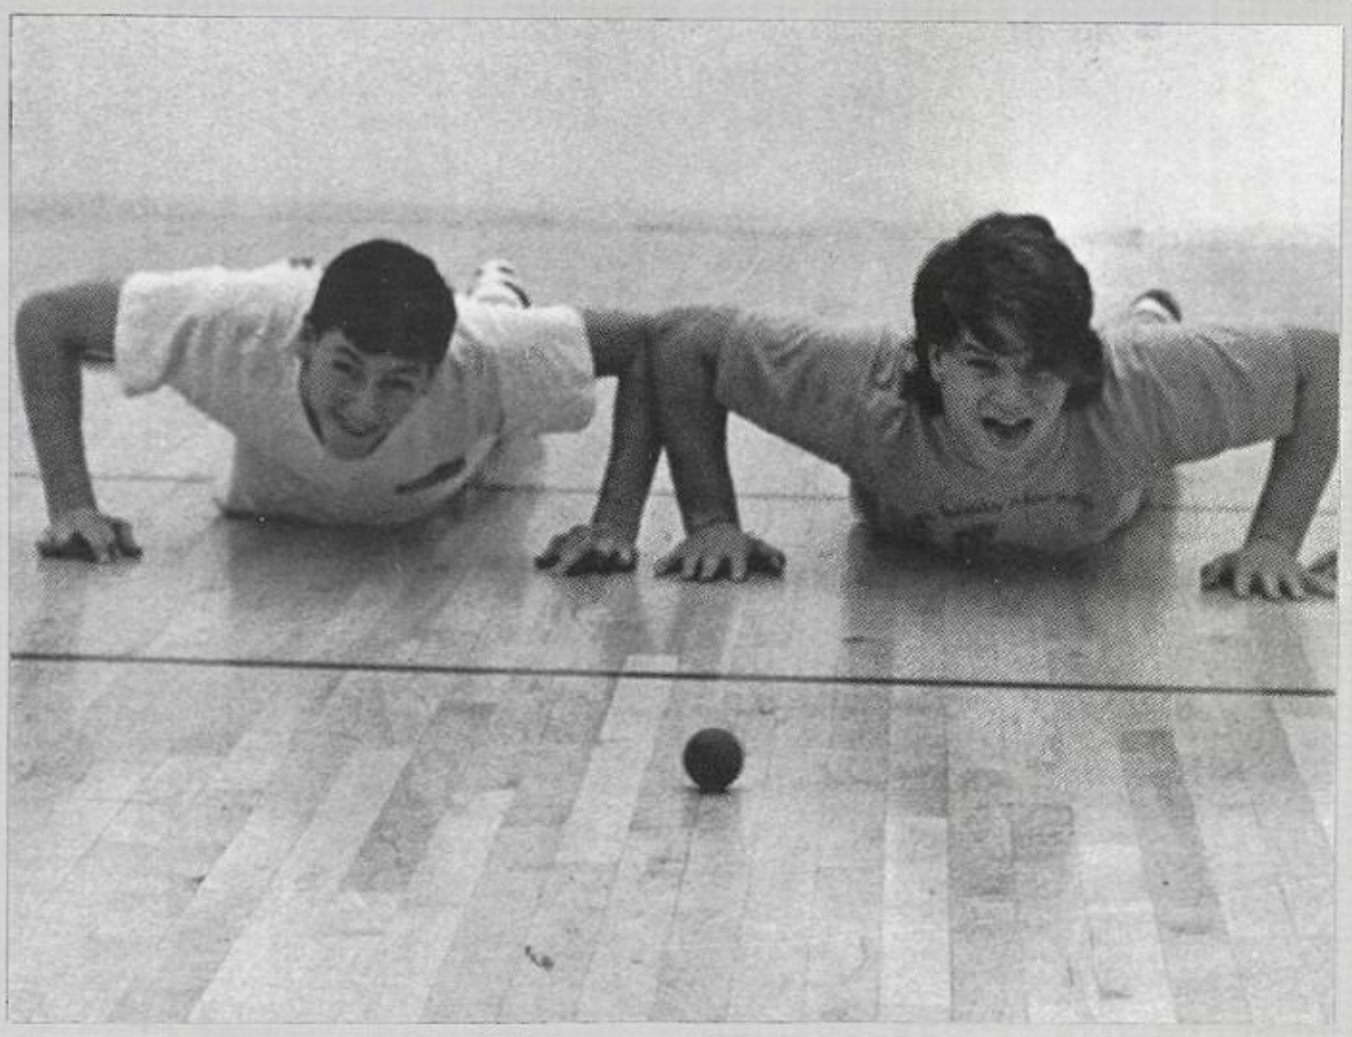
Mrs. Chambers smiles as she writes out grades.

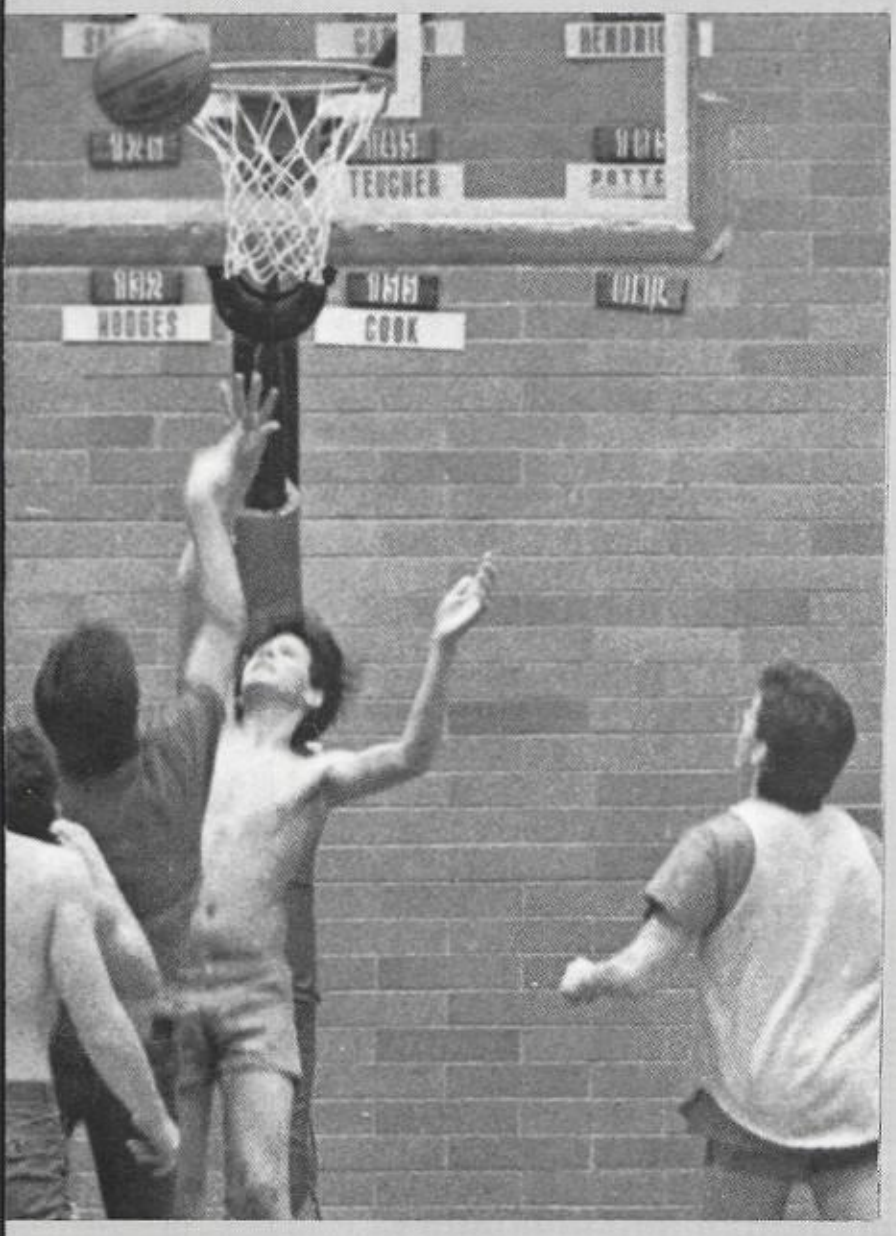


Coach McBride demonstrates the proper stance for a racquetball serve.

Coach Comadena wonders if Coach McBride knows what he's talking about.

Brady McLeod and Marc Martinez pay for not playing by the rules.





Brady McLeod goes all out to make a shot.

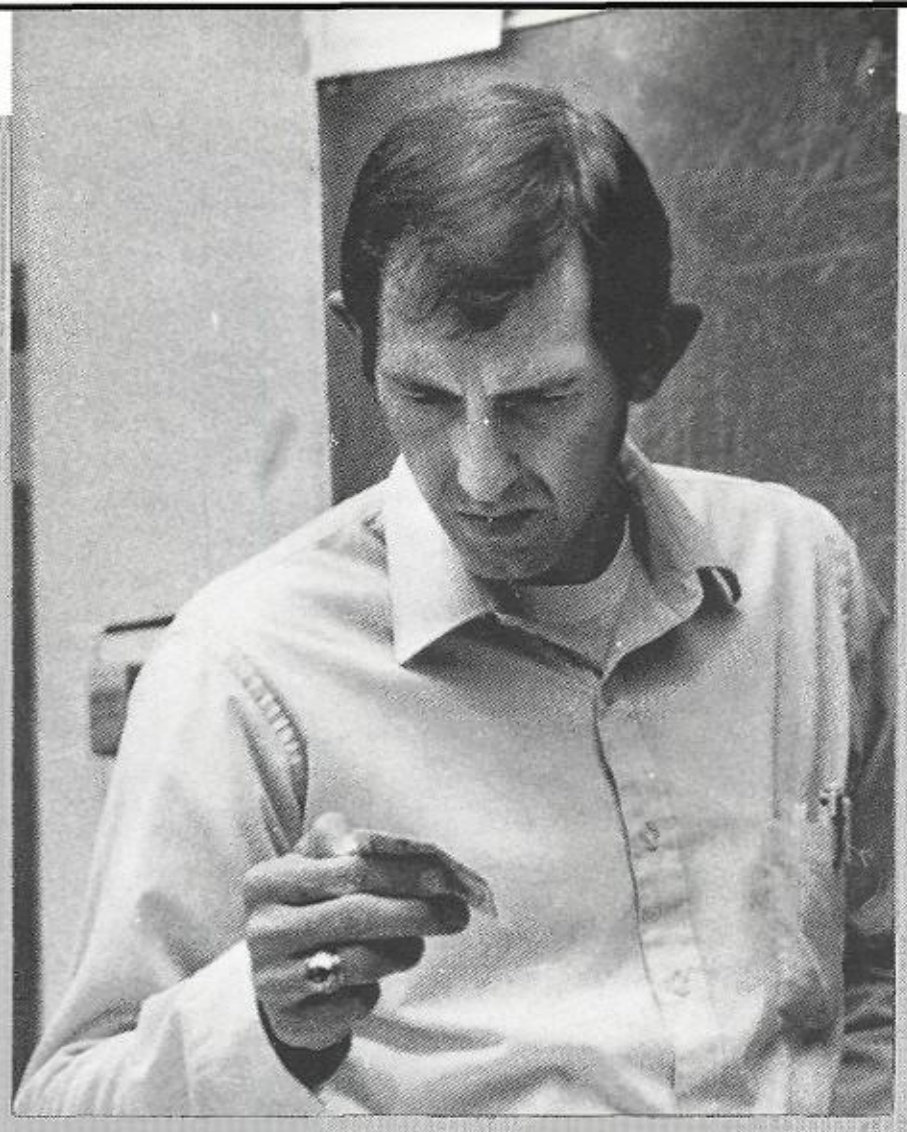
Jody Buist watches the struggle for the ball.

Science

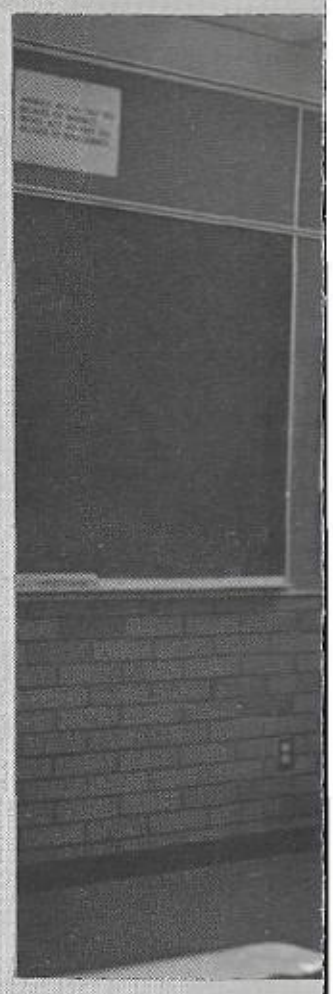
Answering The World's Mysteries

The second bell rings as the 4th hour Physiology class runs quickly to their seats. The students sit quietly in their seats anxiously awaiting another day in class.

Science may not be everyone's favorite subject, but I don't know a lot of people that hate it either.



Mr. Hoyt questions the authenticity of his students pass.



Classes like Chemistry, Physiology, Health, Biology, and Zoology are just a few of the classes that are offered in the science area.

Science classes provide students with the opportunity to learn concepts that are brand new to them. They also learn how to apply these concepts into their everyday lives. Most students agree that a science class is well worth their time.

The Science department is staffed with well educated teachers that know the subjects they are teaching and enjoy what they do. The teachers are: Mr. Anderson, Mr. Allen, Mr. Bradford, Mr. Duersch, Mr. Hoyt, Mr. Greene, and Mr. Ryan. Logan High is lucky to have such a great science department.

Carri Whitaker, Angie Thompson, Kristin Webb, and Chalyce Peterson become best friends with Mr. Skeleton.

Coach Duersch types up the final grades.

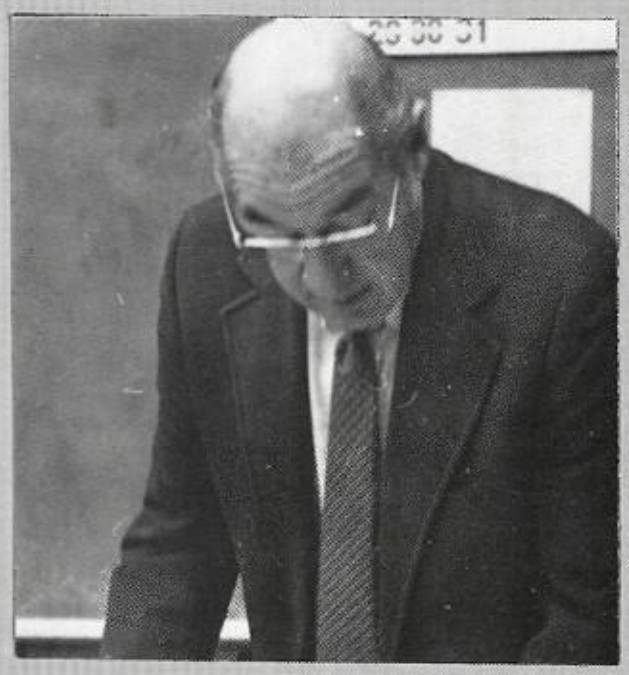
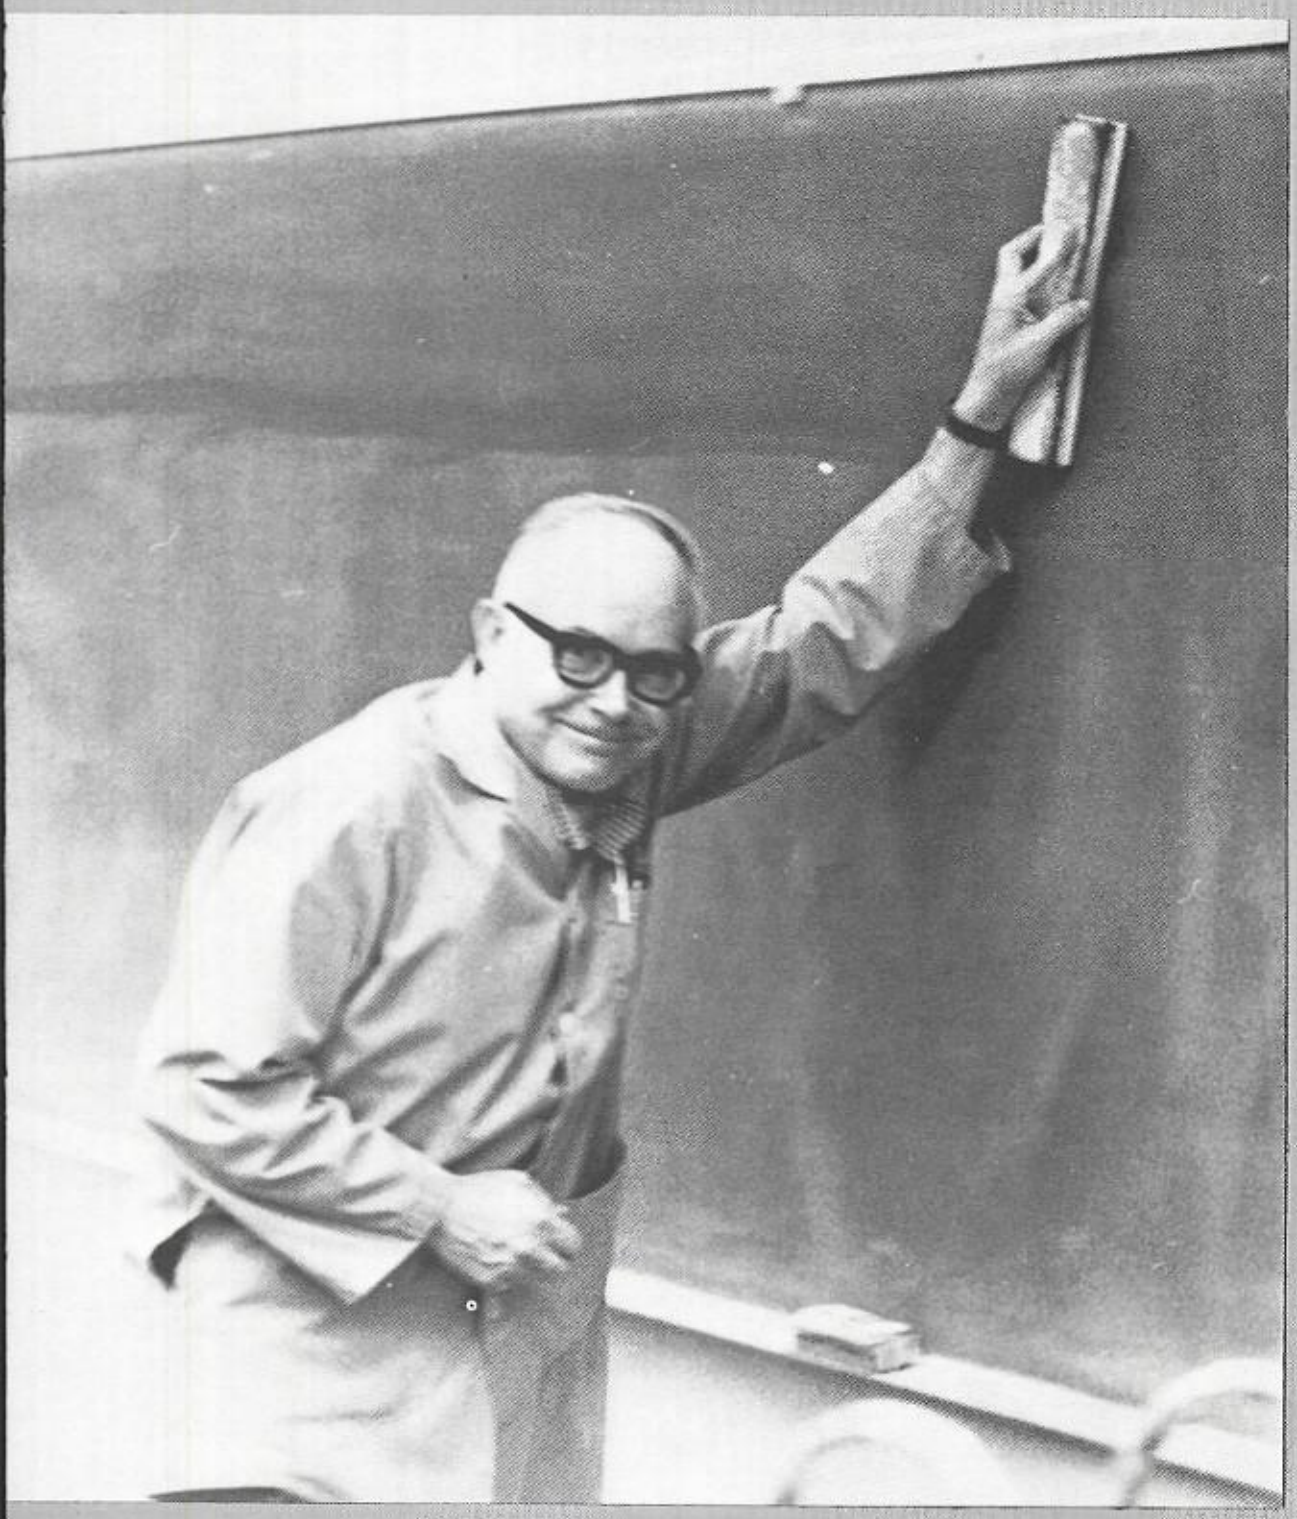
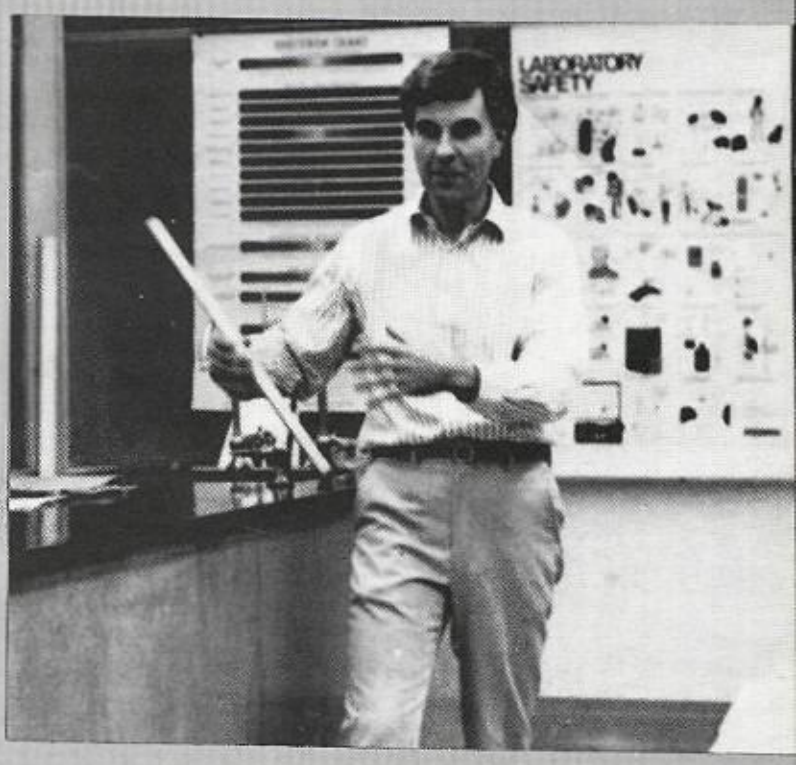
Coach Ryan looks doubtfully at the results of the last test.







Mr. Anderson marches like a soldier as he tells a war story from the past.

TEST TIME!!! with Mr. Bradford.

Social Studies

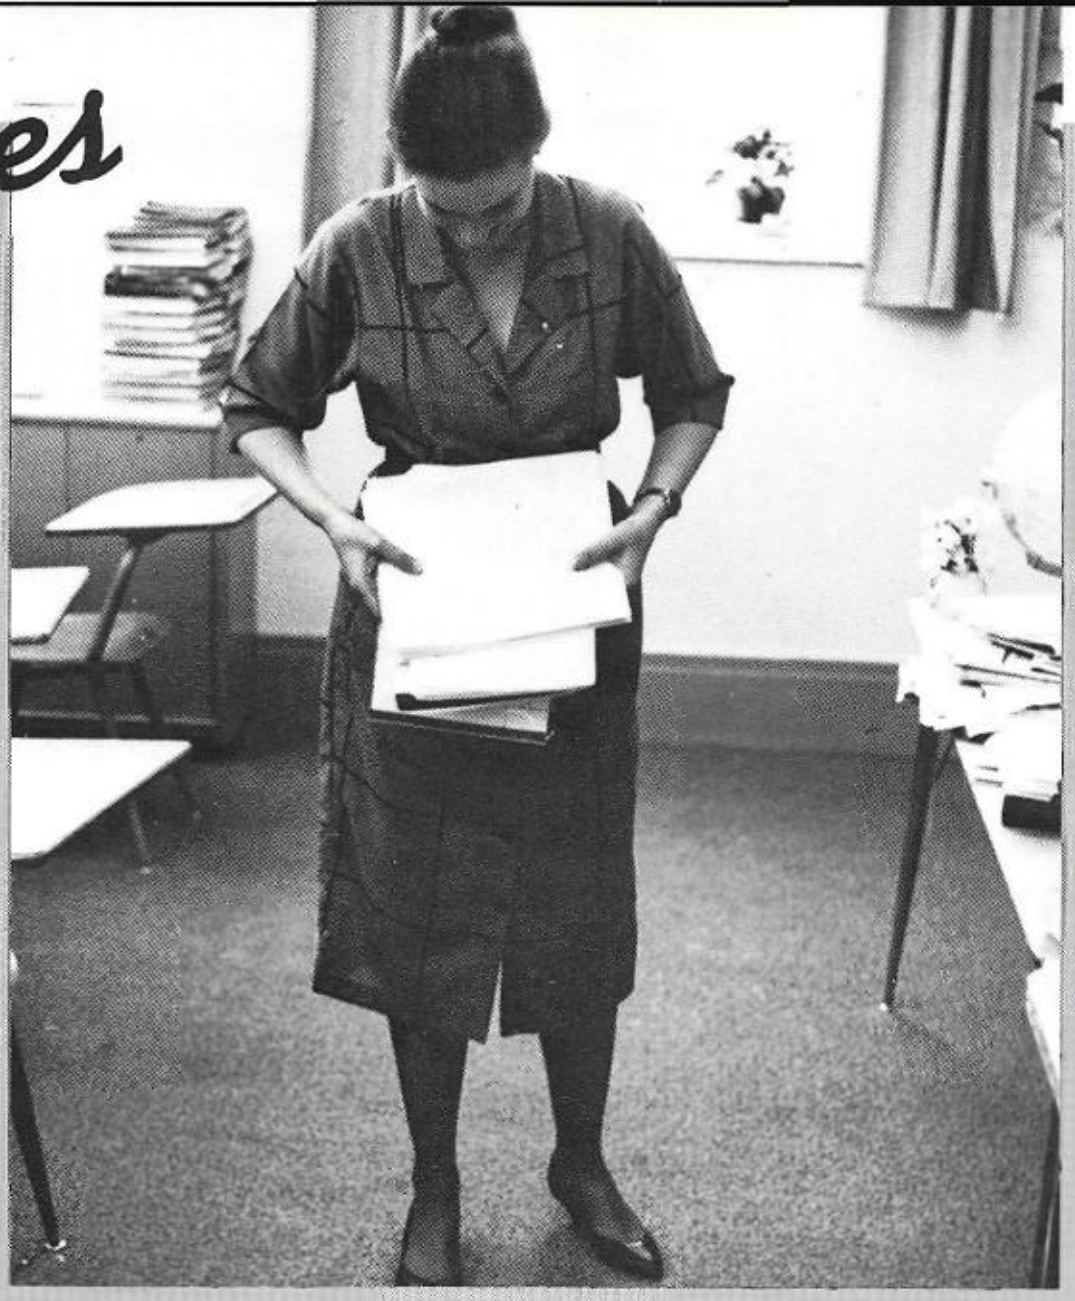
Discovering

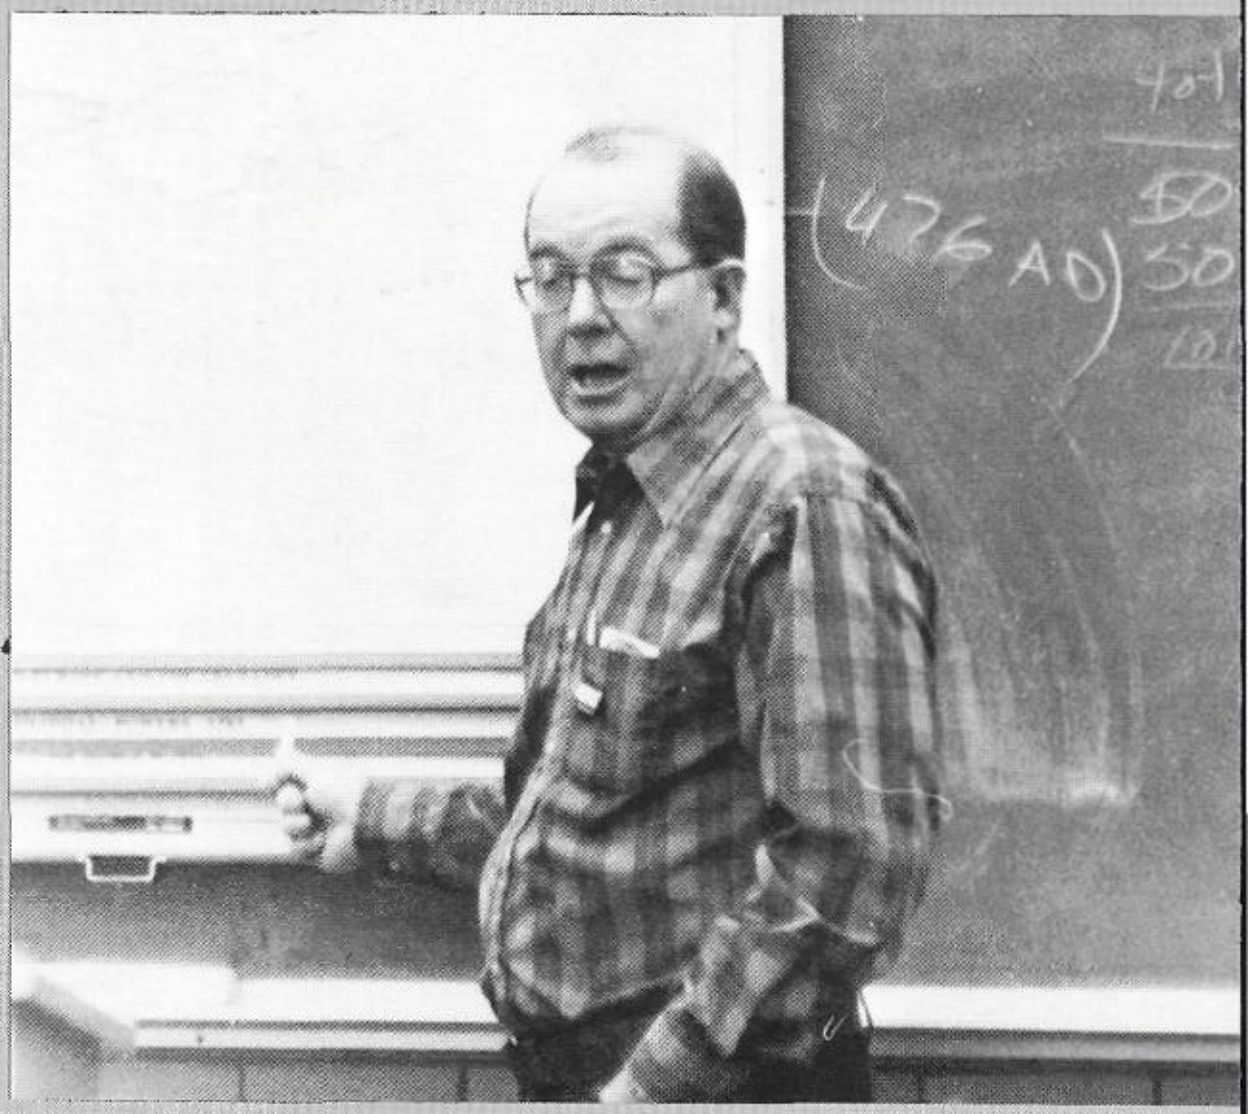
Our World

The Social Studies classes at Logan High give students the chance to learn more about the world around them. The students have a wide selection of classes to choose from. The classes range from Ancient World Civilizations to recent American History.

The Social Studies department is staffed with excellent teachers. They are well educated in what they teach and they get along with the students. The teachers are: Mr. Comadena, Mr. Henrie, Mr. Howell, Miss Lott, Mr. McKay, Mrs. Johnson, and Mr. Watts.

When a student leaves Logan High, they will have received a wide variety of knowledge in Social Studies. They learned about other countries and their governments, our own country and government, geography, laws, and people and their relationships.





Henrie violently explained the coming of th Americans.

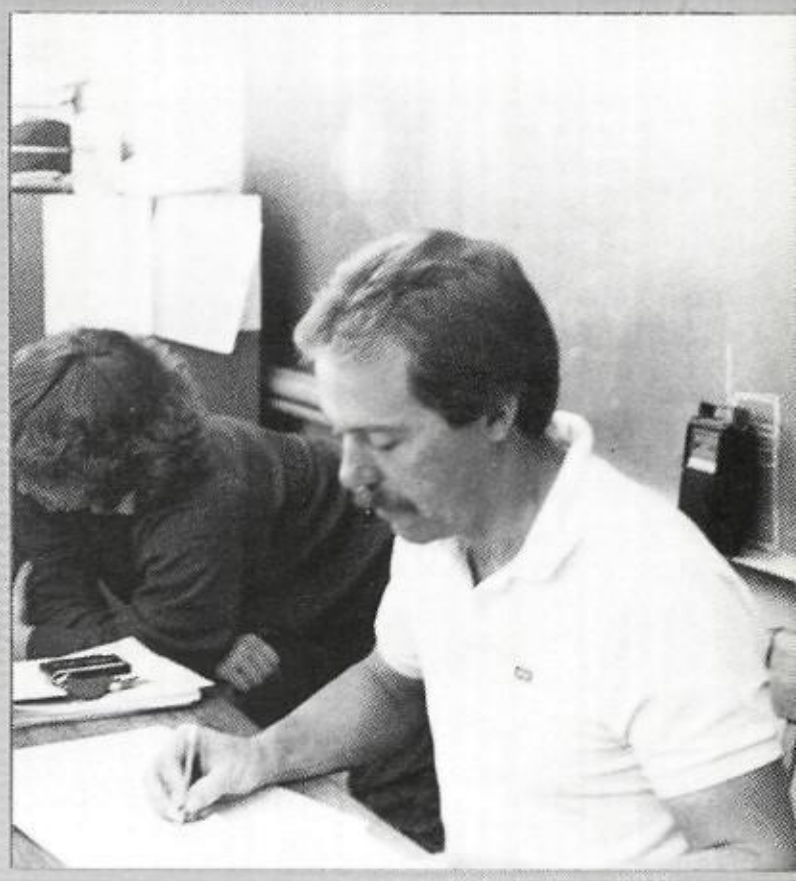
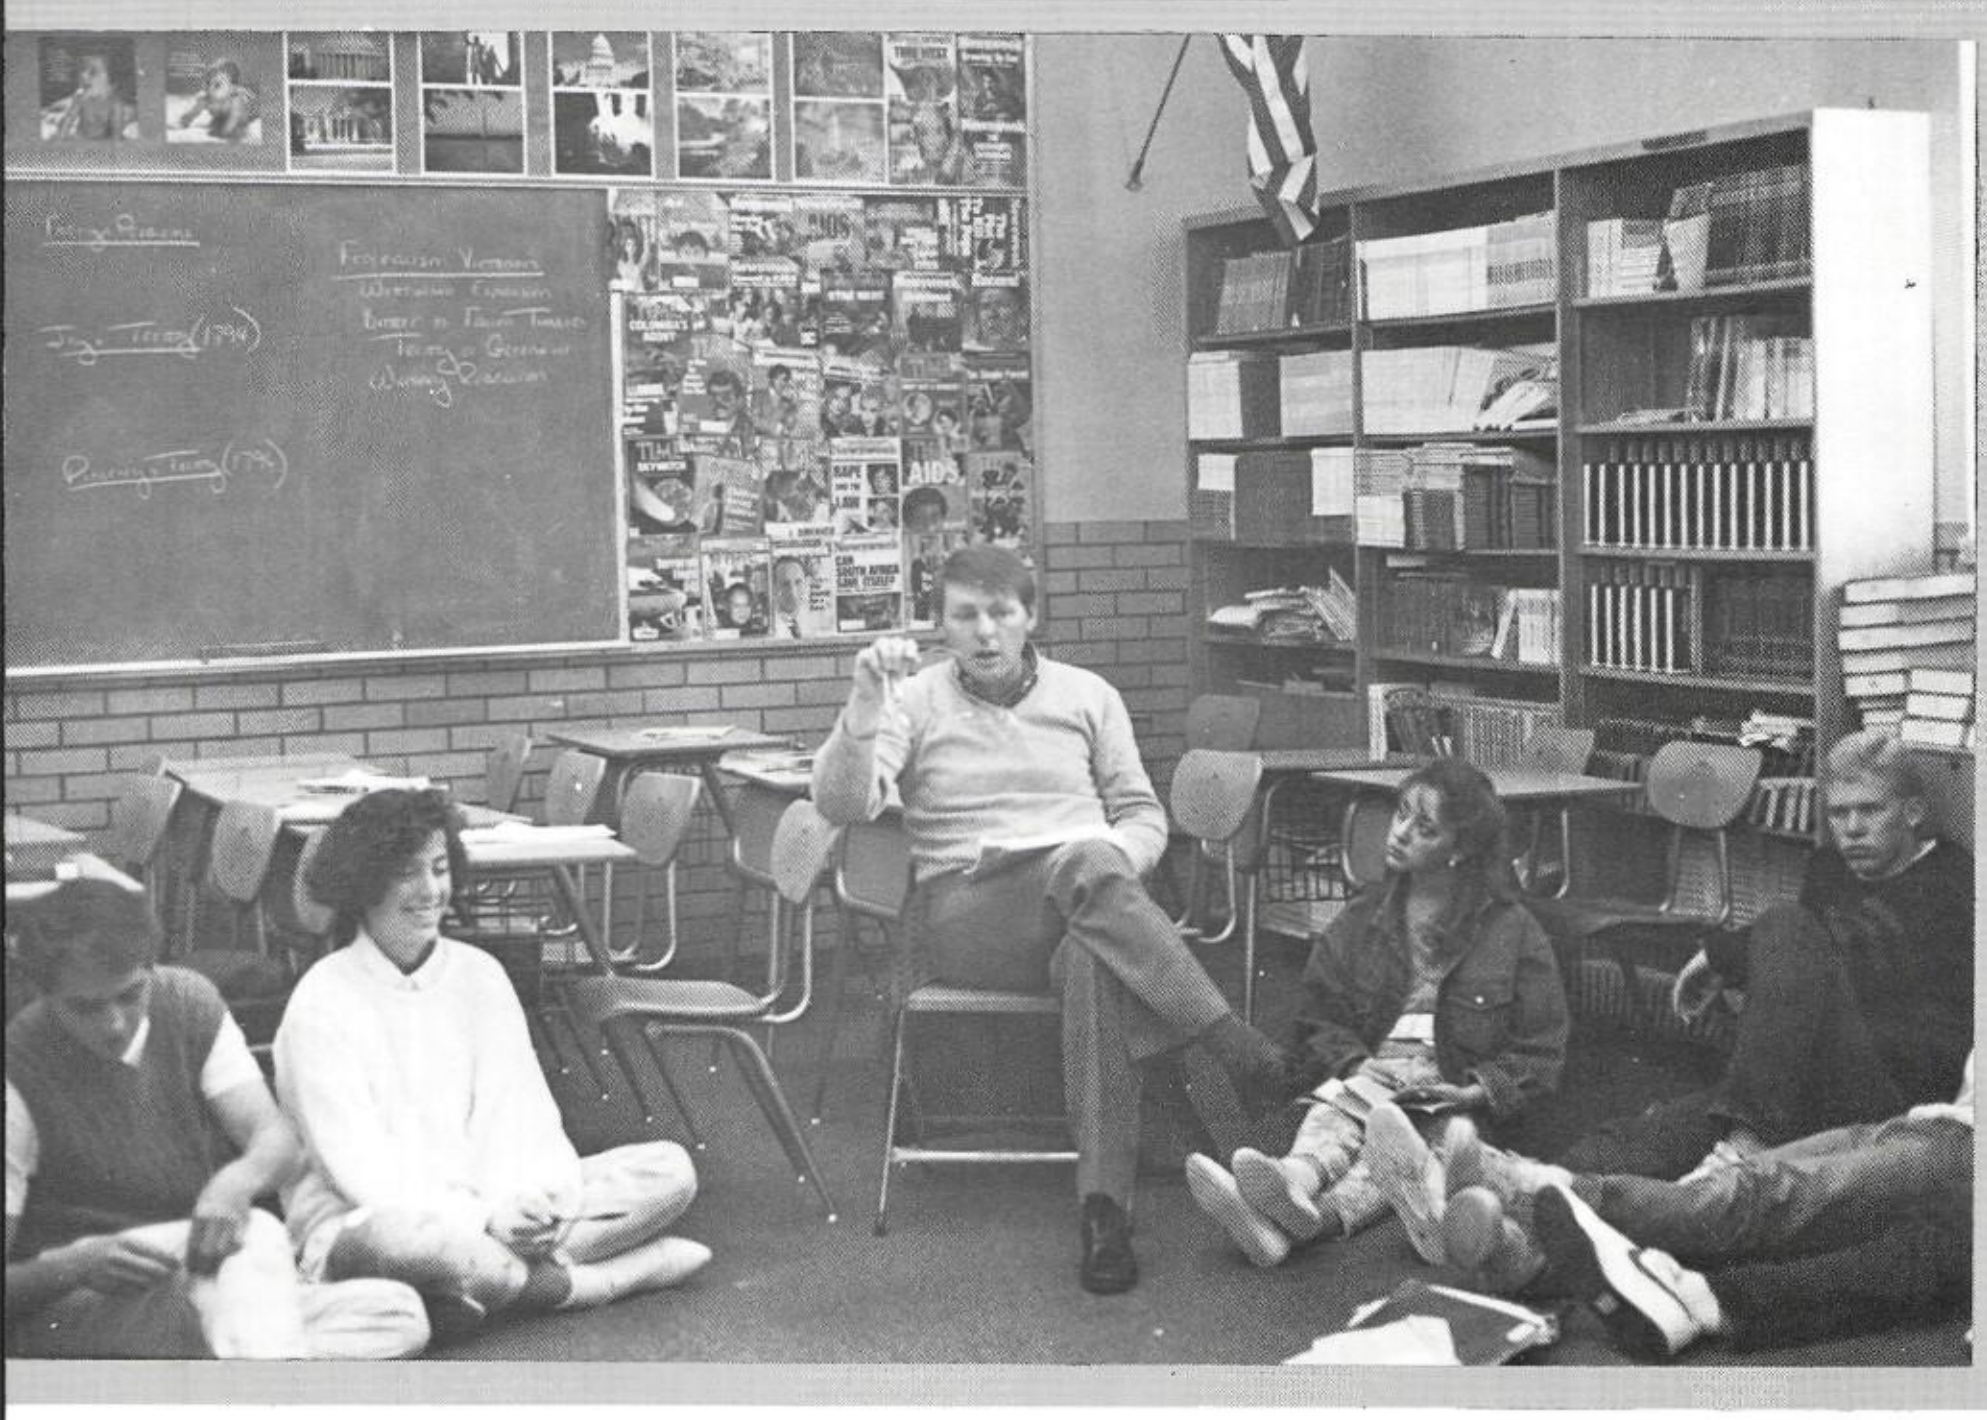
Kathy Johnson nails a student with piles of homework.

Como just hangs out explaining the pyscholo-gical aspects of basketball.

Coach McKay marks in the "A"s.



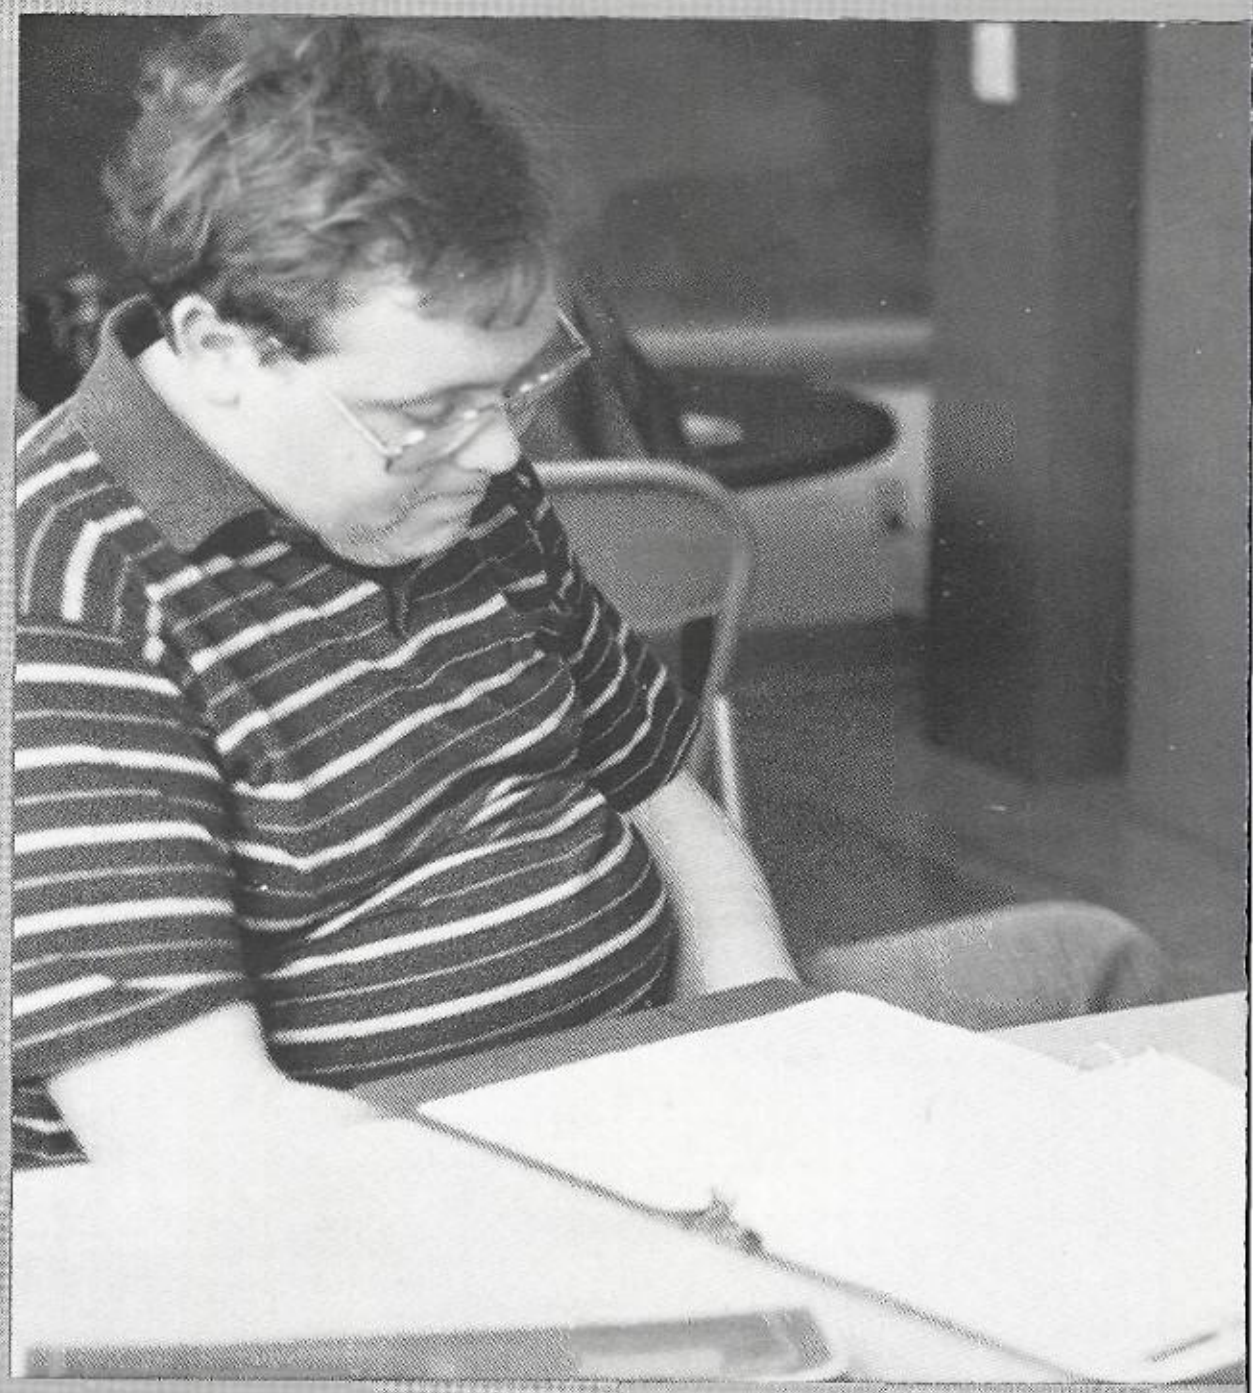


Resource

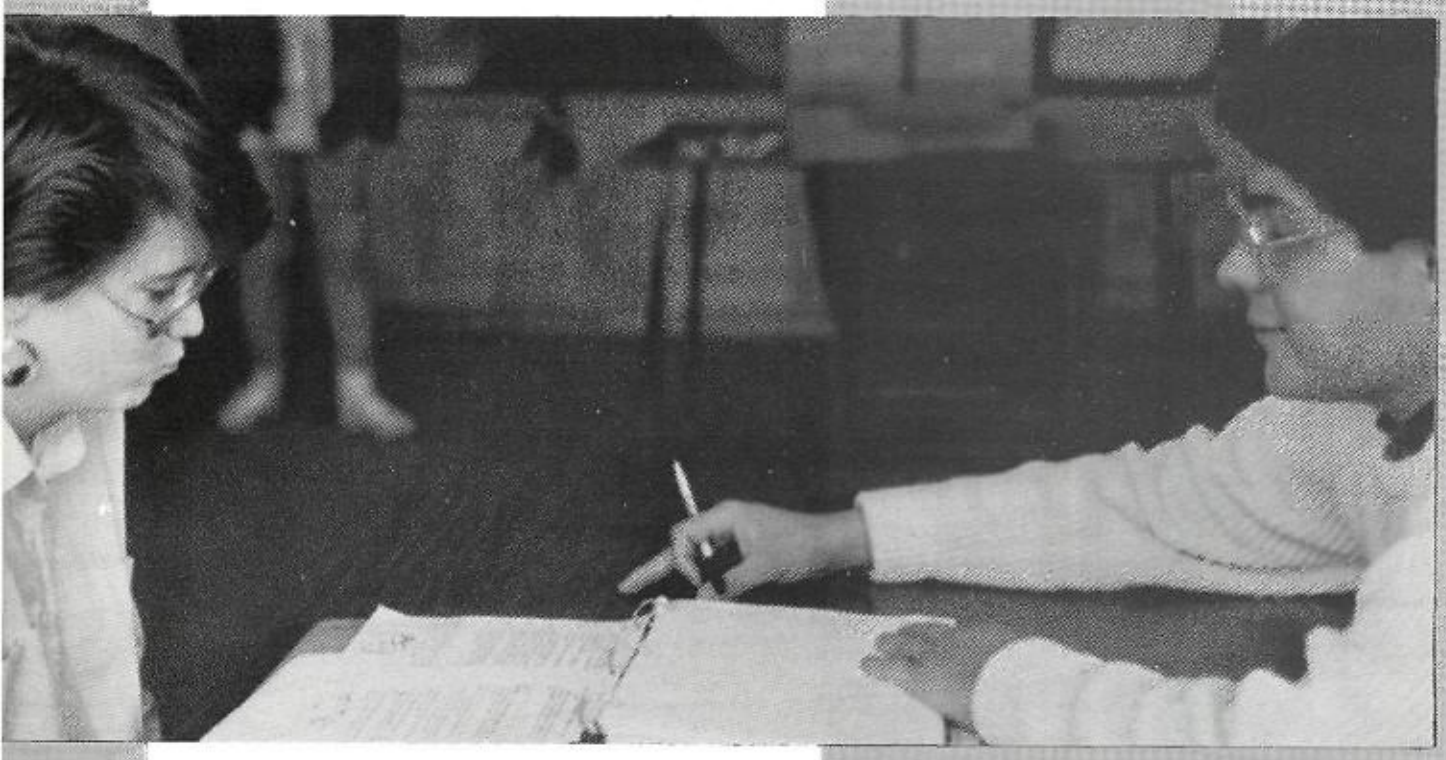
Special People

Are Taught

Mr. Cano's resource room is unique because peers teach their peers. Not only do the students who are enrolled in class benefit from having a student as a tutor, the student who is the tutor learns teaching skills and learns about working with people as well. Socially-the atmosphere is great. Most of the students would not of had the opportunity to get to know each other if not for this class. The class serves as a way to make acquaintances and new relationships. Academically, everyone learns because each students educational program is individualized. The tutors teach the programs and the students learn! The total experience is excellent.



Chad Hillyard and Jon White study intently.



Kristin Anderson listens intently while Mr. Cano explains her assignment.

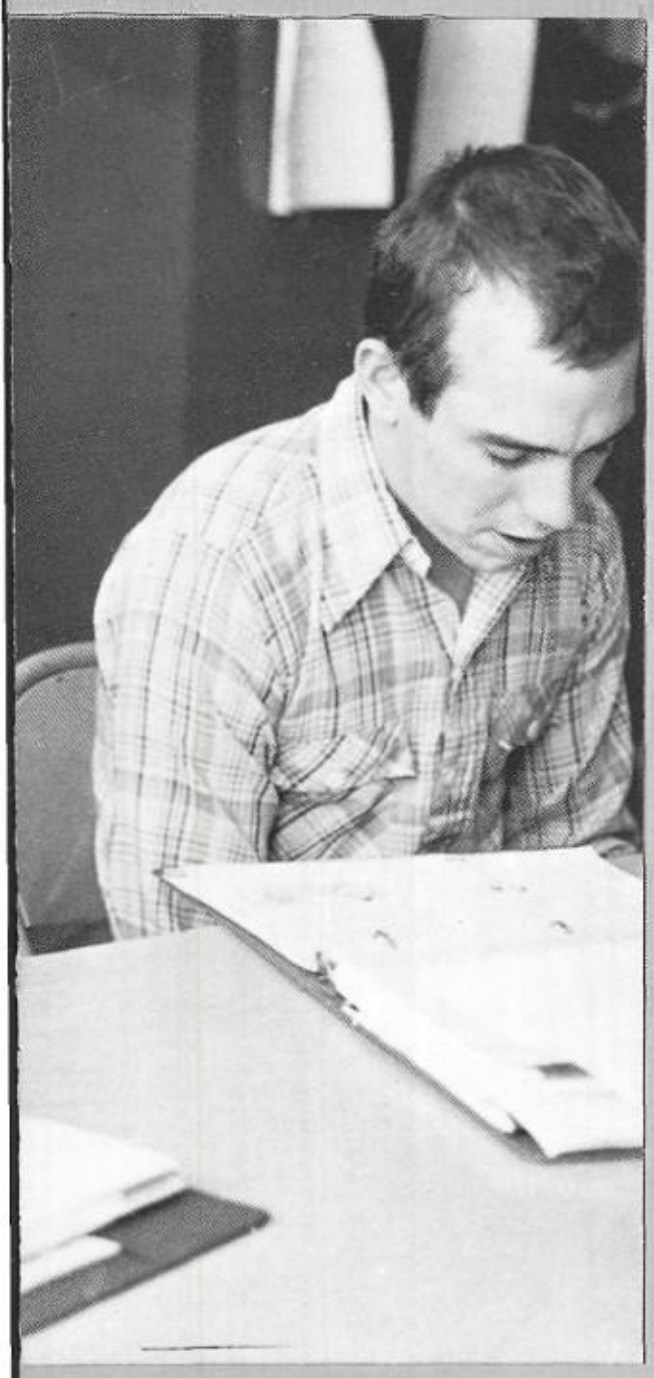
Doug Roskelley enjoys Mr. Cano's sense of humor.

ALC

Planning

For Life

The Alternate Learning Center is provided for those high school students who have or will soon have small children. The 25-30 students at the ALC must complete high school according to the requirements set by the local and county school districts.



Mrs. Porath checks the girl's assignments.

Patti Porath instructs a student in her art project.

Leilani Hyer is pondering her next creation.

Vocational

Ready For

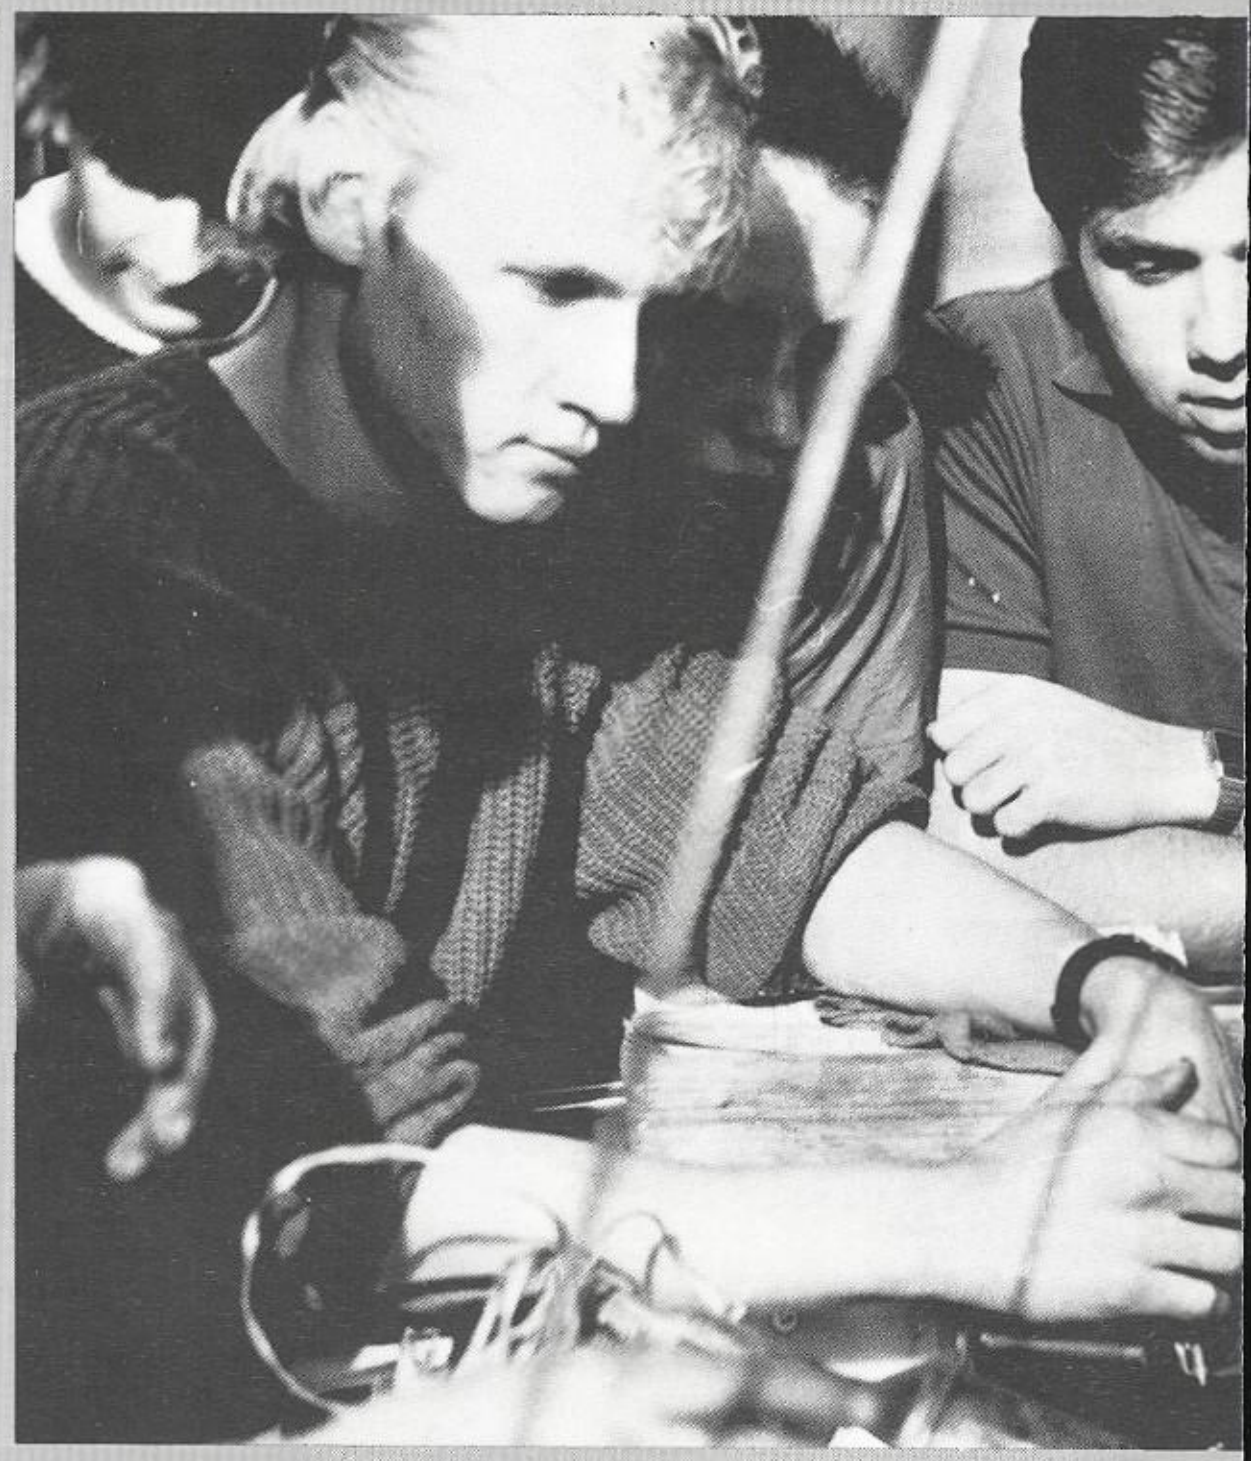
The Work Force

The purpose of vocational classes taught at Logan High is to prepare the students in the fields of technology, auto, woods, building construction, and beginning electronics.

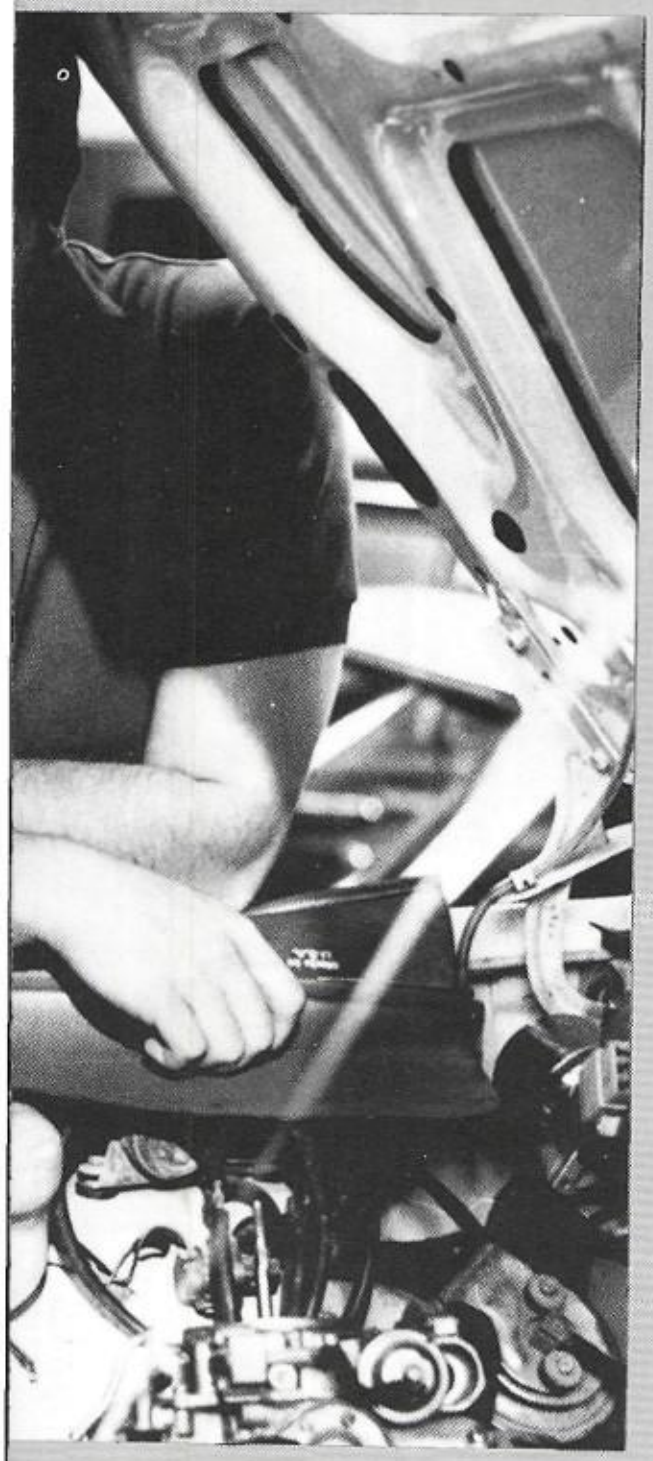
Technology is a new class, and is required by all freshman. Technology B however is an elective. This class helps prepare the students for the future with job preparation and computers. The four areas that are taught at Logan High School are the trends of the job world, the second is careers and the third area is free-enterprise and how this will effect you and the job you choose. The final section of the class is human resources. (This class is taught by Mrs. Brown and Mr. Harris.)

Mr. Hershey, the auto teacher, is preparing for a big change in the auto class. Next year the class will be moved to Bridgerland Vocational Center. The new shop consists of half of a million dollars in equipment for the students to use. The class now consists of three levels of auto. Auto 1 is one trimester and two periods. Auto 2 is two trimesters and two periods. Auto 3 is now taught at Bridgerland and is three trimesters. All of these classes are designed to teach the students about the industry of cars. These classes are electives and are mostly taken by boys.

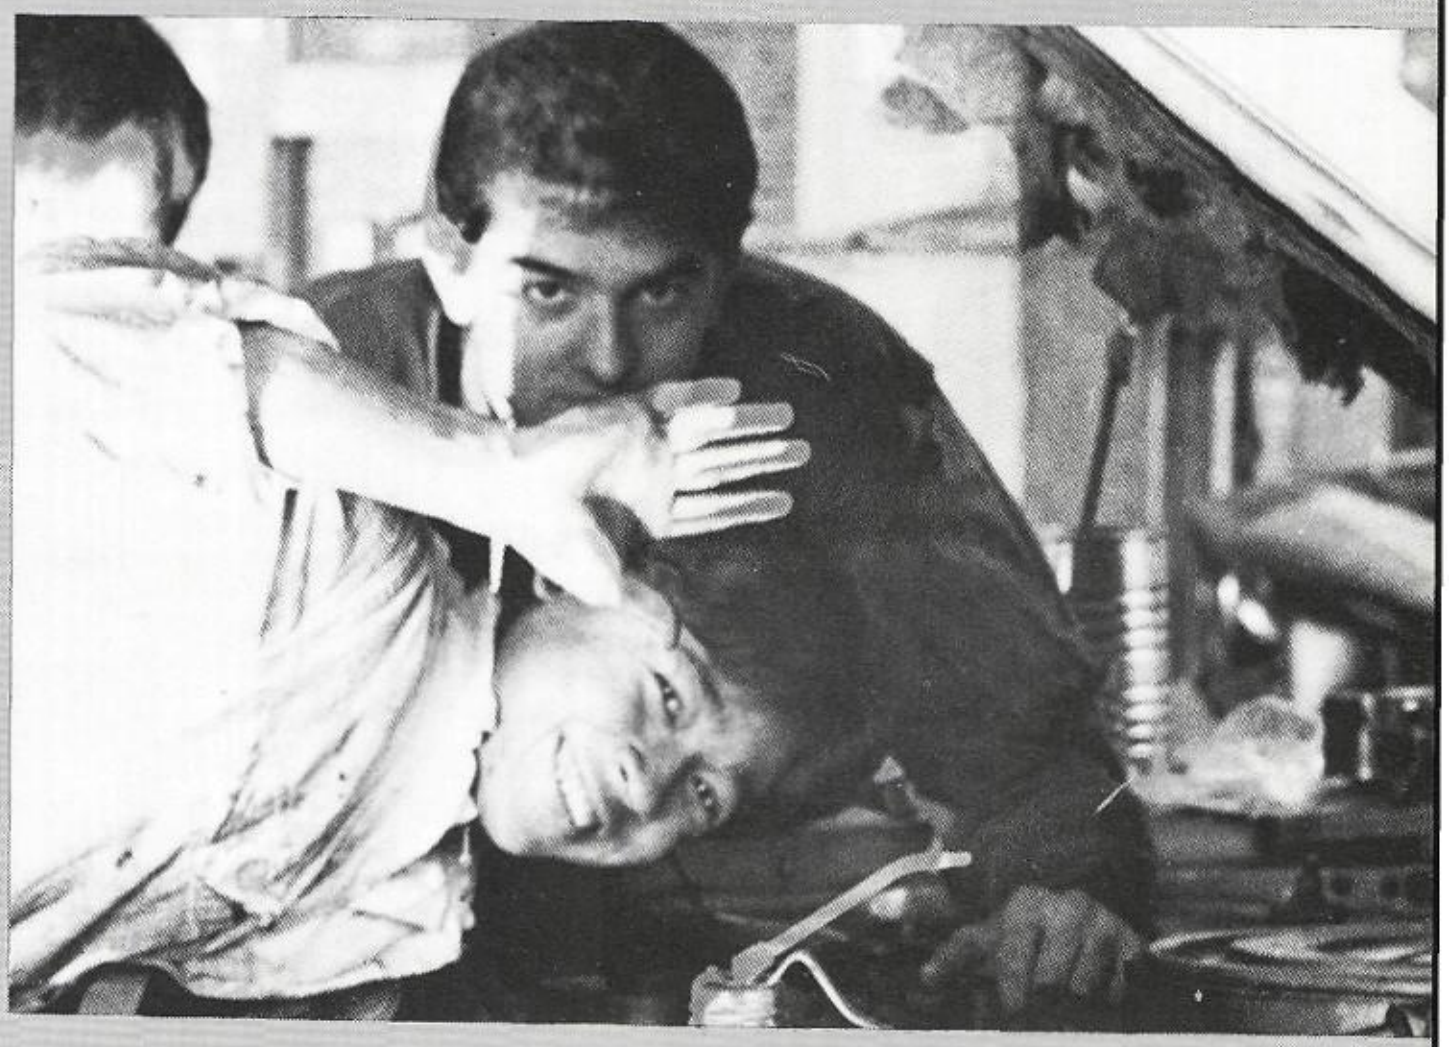
Building construction is going on at Logan High. Mr. Smith teaches this class and beginning electronics. The construction work is started at the beginning of the year and by the end of the year there is a completed house. The work on these houses are down at Logan High, south of the football field. After the house is completed it is put on the market and sold.



Mr. Hershy laughs as he sees one of the cars, wondering if they will ever run again.



Matt Marshall knows the inside of a car like the back of his hand.

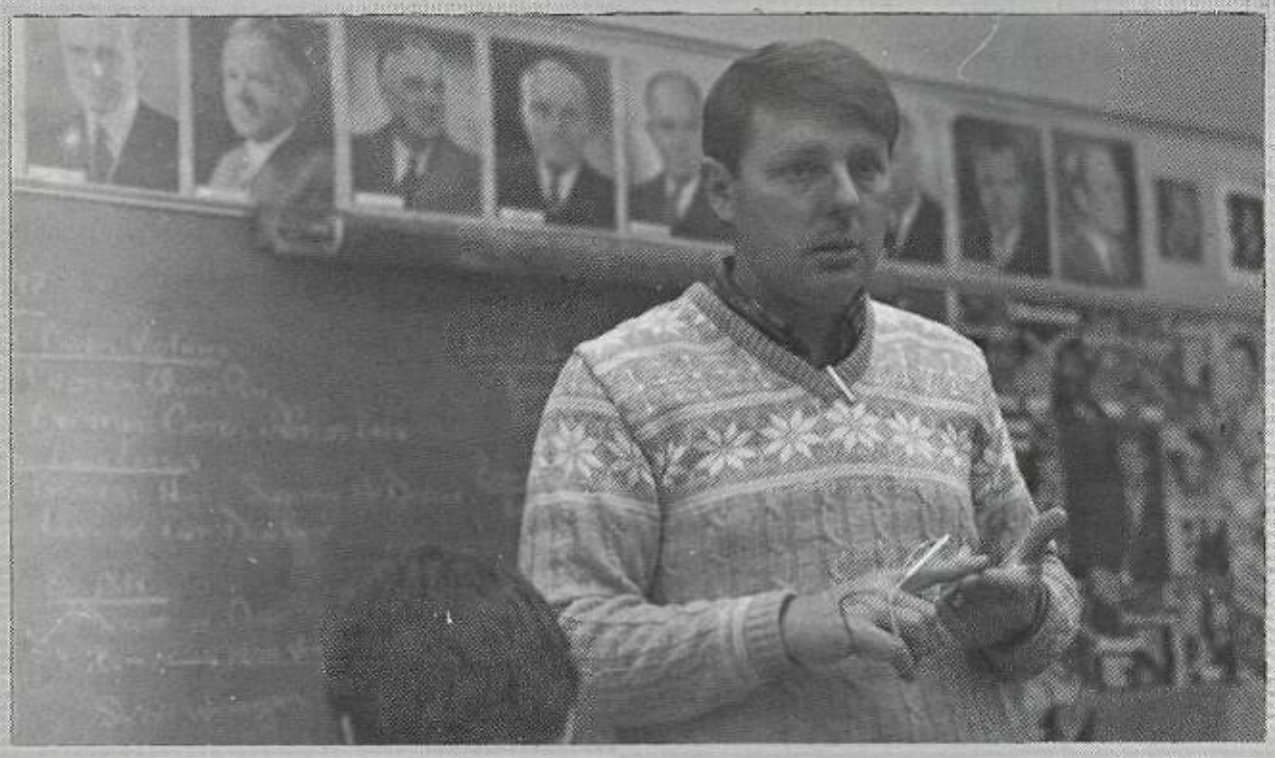


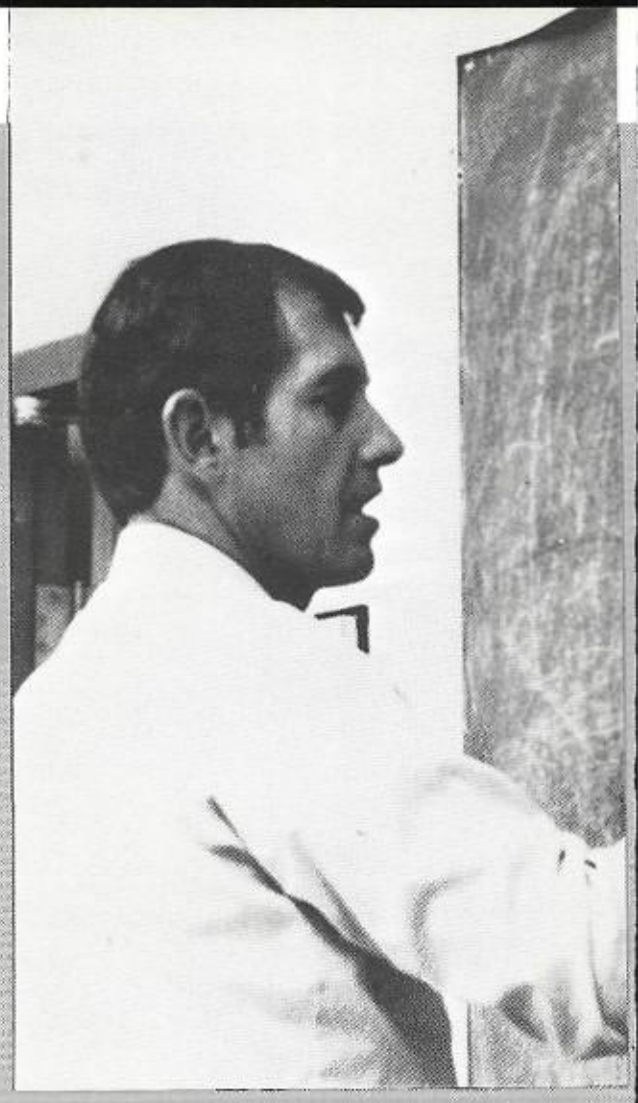
Van Wadanak loves auto, he enjoys the friends and working with cars.

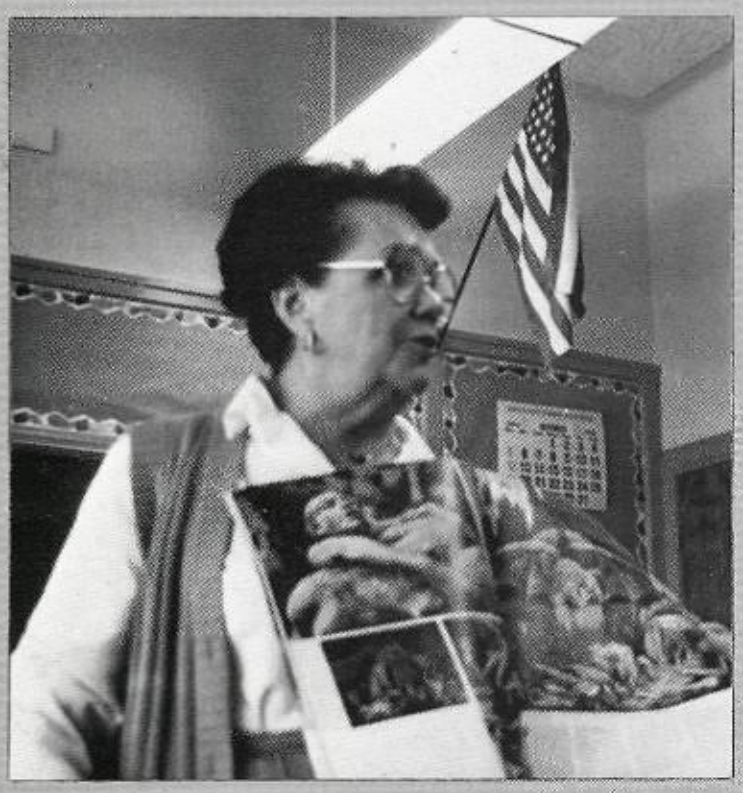
Mrs. Brown teaches the class the finer points of technology.

Mr. Hoyt explains Biology on his beautiful chalkboard.

Mr. Howell gives a sad look after the class laughs at his Mystical ties.

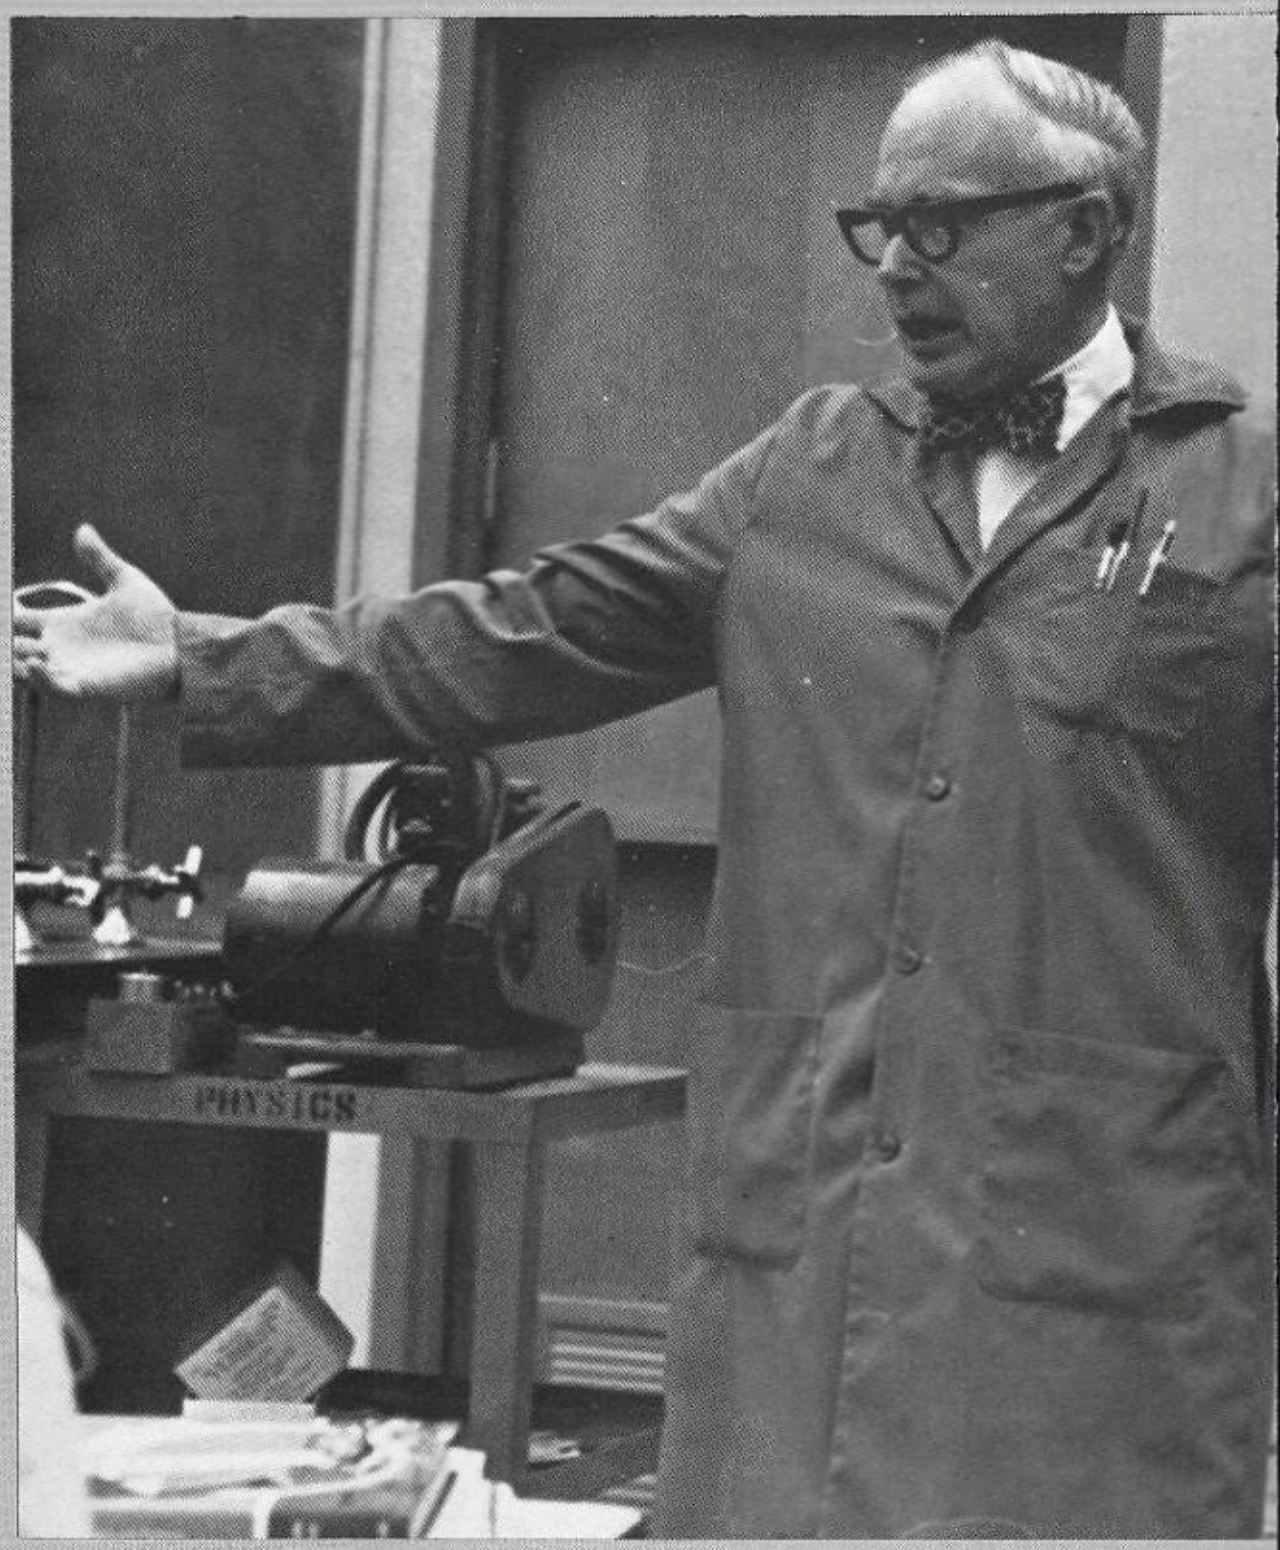






Mrs. Stock shows an example of what the Ninth Level would look like.

"Here I am!" states Mr. Bradford.

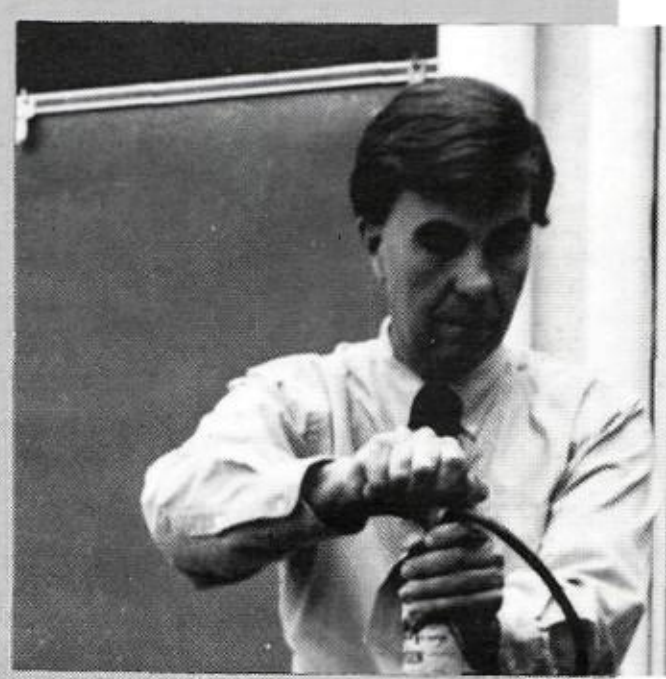


Brandt Hellstern laughs when Mrs. Johnson tells him his score.

AP Take The Challenge

AP classes at Logan High are advanced college level courses that students can take for college credit. At the end of the year the students take the AP test, and depending on how well they do on the test they get college hours of credit. There are many Advanced Placement classes to choose from at Logan High School. They range from American and European history to Physics and Chemistry. The classes involve a lot of reading and advanced applications. AP Chemistry students take a semester of Chemistry classes at Utah State University. AP classes are challenging courses that prepare students for college.

"You don't understand what?" asks Mr. Wilson.



Mr. Anderson and Tari Atkinson do a demonstration for the class.

Cerebral Growth
Is It Necessary?

Sitting in class you wonder why you're there. Will these formulas for the volume of a cylinder really apply in real life situations? And how will knowing 30 lines of Hamlet help you make it to the "Big-time"? Well, believe it or not all of this knowledge you're inhaling will come in handy someday. The reason why teachers are still in the profession is because they know. For some college is in the future, and they want you to know more impertinent facts than they do in high school. For the so-called "dumb jocks", they have to make the grade to stay on the team. Even for some of you prospectant, far-off family raisers, the children always need help with their homework. So for all you people, who are sitting there taxing your brains, remember this: soon you'll graduate and have to find a place to put all this knowledge into effect. Maybe it will help you beat someone in Trivial Pursuit.

THOSE CRR-AZY TEACHERS

Teacher: one who teaches, or the stern faced, aged, grouchy old buggar sitting at the front of the classroom with pistol. Well, not really. At least not here at Logan High. Maybe at Mt. Crest with the armed guards waiting at the gate so they can shoot you down upon your attempt to escape. But not here!! Teachers are just one of the gang. Usually doing a lot of the crazy things the students do. Only they are "closet crazies". It's supposed to be a secret. But we know. The whole school knows now. Don't be ashamed, that's what makes us love you. Now that it's not a secret you can join us in this craziness. And we can be crazy TOGETHER.

Mr. Emmett races to get to class before the bell.

Mr. Haslam catches the photographer sluffing.

Mrs. Haws checks for good grammer.

Grammar?

Don't You Just Hate When...

. . . just before you are about to start taking a test and Mr. Bradford lets out a wicked cackle, something like the wicked witch of the west. Just about every teacher is "famous" for something that is hated by us all. It may be just one little thing, but everyone has heard or seen it. And no more needs be said. Don't you just hate it when Mr. Allen gives you 200 pages of notes and says memorize them, and you'll do great! When Mr. Davidson takes you on a merry trip to the land of make believe. Or when Commo challenges you to a knuckle fight and you politely decline, knowing that a nod of the head will get your hand dislocated from your arm. And then he tells you that you're a wimp. When Mr. Henrie brings flashlights to dances, as if we were going to do something naughty. Or when you are stupid enough to tell Mr. Williams your deepest, darkest secrets. And he blackmails you with them. When Mr. Paulos sends you to exile, somehow thinking it will mysteriously shut you up (HA). When Mr. Ashton starts telling co-ed jokes. Or when Ms. Tidwell threatens to fail you . . . and does it. You walk into Dr. Ed. and they start with "this is the ignition." Or when you are starving for one certain kind of candy-bar, and you get to the vending machines, IT I S N ' T THERE!!!!!!!

. . . after school hours

Have you ever wondered what Logan High students do after 2:30? Most leave the school premises as fast as they can get out, but one-third of the studentbody hangs around to practice for their competitive sport, whether it oe athletics, debate, or music. Another one-third of the hard-working teenagers head to their jobs. Then the other 33.3% travel home. Some waste no time so they can catch "Days" or the "Monkees". The average person will grab a Big Gulp and go to his/her house to raid the fridge, sleep, or (if they have to) tackle homework.

They Get Around!

The day has come! That long awaited card with your vital statistics and a very embarrassing picture is in your hand. Now the quest is to achieve use of a car. To some that search was quick and painless with merciful parents who just had an extra auto laying around. But for others this problem was just that . . . a problem! It might be hereditary, but all we know is that parents get extremely selfish with their cars that still have payments left. There is some earthly force that compels parental units to hoard the keys to their cars, which causes a major debate for one night's use. But really this problem solves itself after a few years behind the wheel and a bit more trust comes into play. They begin asking you to run errands and even might find you an extra car that is just laying around. At Logan High almost 50% drive to school either by themselves or through a carpool. 5% of the students have cars with their names on the registration, and 25% drive a family car.

NIGHTTIME Social Life

Many may say: "Cache Valley? A social place are you kidding?" But if ones thinks real hard about it, they'll find that there is something to do. There's always a movie playing somewhere, and on Mondays, Tuesdays, and certain theatres admission is one dollar. (What a bargain!) On Fridays after a game there is sure to be a stomp at one of the valley highs. This of course would be proceeded by a trip to JB's, Winchells, or Hardees. Cruising main is always something to do if there is nothing else. Food is always a must in social situations, as is good music. Parties are a great release on Saturdays with videos of the latest movies and again mounds of food. Then when the rebel comes out, one needs a great practical joke or a couple dozen rolls of TP. This supplies revenge and even a few laughs. After all what would high school be without social fun?

Is this revenge or just a good mummy wrap?

Working

Students Pay Their Own Way

Jobs are quite important to some people, in fact, they are part of their lives. One-third of the studentbody have a full or part time job. Many of them save this money for college or future goals, but a good number of people spend it on food and clothes. About half of the jobs that teenagers hold in Logan deal with food services or "fast food." Other various jobs include clothing stores and computers. Its a lot better than borrowing from the parents.

YES! Teenagers Do Read

Aside from the assigned reading of a dominant novel for English and History, students actually read a lot more than some older people give them credit for! This is especially true with magazines. Those periodicals are purchased at bookstores or by subscription. From a poll of LHS students it shows that Seventeen came in first with Sports Illustrated right at it's feet. Students with a flare for style and dressing good pushed GQ and Vogue into a tie for third. This just shows that teenagers are keeping the printed word alive.

2. Sports Illustrated

WEAR? Just about anything!

DID YOU KNOW . . . that 50% of people prefer wearing blue clothes? It might be that they like jeans. 501's are the favorite followed by Guess. The other two hot colors are Red and Black.

LEVI'S

Flashy, Conservative

Guys, contrary to rumor, are very clothes conscious. They worry just as much as the opposite sex about their appearance. This year a lot of sweatshirts and t-shirts with college designs or an original logo were worn. They went along with their colored levis, or if the weather allowed, shorts. Button up tailored shirts with egyptian or crazy colored designs were a hot item in any guy's wardrobe. Sweaters became popular through the winter, and they came in any color, style or shape. Reeboks became a must in every outfit whether it was sports or school. The tennis shoes and topsiders were still a classic shoe for boys.

Female

Fashion Flash

Bows, Shine, Colors, and Stones

Clothes for girls changed through the seasons, and of course, each had to keep up with the styles. At the beginning of the school year, mini skirts and stretch pants went with any shirt or color she wished to put with it. As it got colder, the skirts got longer and straight. Oversized sweaters over tight pants were the rage. There must have been a sale somewhere, for the tweed-looking big sweaters in every color began to show up. This was not a source of happiness for many girls. To be original is the main ingredient in a successful wardrobe. Spring came and so did the silver, bows and light blue levi with lace. Black boots and any color of tennis shoes started out the year, and then came metallic shoes and white cowboy boots with fringe. Earrings had to be shiny and very big. Many different styles of clothing were worn by all of the girls. It's hard to pin down one certain choice because the trick to dressing is to be yourself, and at Logan High that was varied.

ON THE SCENT

Sometimes the key to keeping that certain someone near you is the sweet smell you have. Like most students they have the right idea with a great perfume or cologne. Polo by Ralph Lauren is still number one. Giorgio took the second rank with Obsession at third. The problem is each person prefers their individual scent to impress and smell good.

Watch It!

Time is of great importance to some. And their individual watch helps them keep track of it. Timepieces were a big fashion statement, whether you could see the wheels, multi-color, paisley, Coca-cola, or Swatch.

Activities Around You

pop music

Music this year has been totally upbeat, dance songs that kept everyone moving. The stars and groups are always ready to start a trend. "Walk Like an Egyptian" by the Bangles got everyone walking ancient. Bon Jovi got them all rockin'. Depeche Mode and dead or Alive brought new sounds to the top of the charts.

NEWSLINENEWSLINENEWSLINE NEWSLINENEWSLINENEWSLINENEWSLINE NEWSLINENEWS

From the Iran Scandal to Nicaraguan Aid the 86-87 news turned out to be extraordinary.

Reagan's Iran Arms dealings rocked the nation. The once trusted and loved president became known to be incapable of running a nation.

The newly elected 100 Congress which became Democrat dominated hit the front page of every newspaper and magazine in November and December. The sudden change in politics not only frightened the Republican congress but changed their attitude.

Corizan Aquino, President of the Philippines, celebrated her first year in office after firing her cabinet and trying to run the unstabilized government.

Libia and Lebanon continued their endless struggle for power and sent human wave attacks toward their enemies. Terrorism ran rampid during the years with hijackings of the Achill Lauro and Kadafi's favorite pastime of capturing Americans. Reagan's response not only silenced Kadafi's threats, but the bombing slowed all terrorism.

The stock market had to deal with corporate mergers and even some market corruption.

The sudden spread of Aids was a scary epidemic that went along with the deaths of such stars as Rock Hudson and Liberace. These deaths and millions of others not only created news for the tabloids, but captured a frightening headline.

With Reagan still looking to make an arms deal, the Soviet Union still held out due to the Star Wars Defense Initative.

Reagan Holds Up

Was the Iran Scandal worse than Watergate? Critics say yes- the people were divided. Reagan traded arms with Iran for the release of some hostages. The scandal was created when they did not go to Iran they took a side trip to the Nicaraguan Contras. The question is did Reagan know about all of this or was he clueless? His three different stories in which he gave to the Tower Commission hurt him. Trying to clear out the dirty laundry, he fired Donald Regan his Chief of Staff. The fact remains that the public did not know and they had the right to. Whether Reagan clears his name and gets something done through the rest of his term remains to be seen.

IT TOOK All Kinds AT LOGAN HIGH

On every account, Logan is great due to all kinds of people, teachers, sports, classes, clubs and activities that brought everyone closer to their goals. There will always be memories coming from the walls of Logan High.

Throughout the year I've discovered that all kinds of students each have their own skills and talents which makes Logan High unique. The things we learn from every person we meet are carried with us from Logan High into our lives wherever we go. MARK FURLONG
